FEAR FOR THREE SEA FLYERS

CAN HOOVER BE RENOMINATED? FAITHFUL WORRY

View Rising Coolidge Star with Alarm.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—The talk of the town wherever the politicians gather these days concerns the suddenly developed fears of the Hoover lieutenants that the President may fail of renomination.

Hitherto they have been proceeding on the assumption that a President can always renominate himself if he wants to. That is the political axiom. With the patronage at his disposal and the other power he wields, a President heads a well-nigh invincible political machine. And with the paper delegations from the Republican rotten boroughs of the south a Republican President goes into the national convention with nearly one-third of the delegates in his vest pocket to begin with.

How hopeless it ordinarily is for a rival candidate to wrest the nomination from a President in office was demonstrated in 1912, when not even the redoubtable and popular Theodore Roosevelt could do it.

Worry About Coolidge.

Nevertheless the custodians of the Hoover political band wagon are worried. They are worried by all this discussion going on in the country about getting Calvin Coolidge back in the White House. And their anxieties have not been lessened by the report published today that Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] is evincing an exceedingly tolerant attitude toward the organization of Borah for President clubs.

Not that the Hooverites think for a moment there is any possibility of the nomination of Mr. Borah or of any other radical Republican. Neither the senator nor any of his fellow radicals entertains any illusions on that score. But Borah could make no end of trouble for Mr. Hoover in the convention—trouble of a character that might conceivably lead to a stampede to Coolidge.

Wild Jackasses Kicking Up.

In the first place, not even the Hoover partisans expect the President to make any too favorable a showing in the pre-convention canvass in the states west of the Mississippi, where the "sons of the wild jackass," as Senator George Moses [Rep., N. H.] dubbed the radicals, kick up their heels. And nearly all of the wild jackass states have direct presidential preference primaries. A block of Borah delegates would be particularly helpful to the anti-Hoover forces if there should appear at the time to be a reasonable chance of swinging the convention eventually to Coolidge.

The fears of a movement to draft Coolidge have been spreading in the Hoover camp ever since Maj. James E. Campbell, who was physician to Mr. Coolidge in the White House, allowed himself to be quoted to the effect that in his opinion the former President would not refuse a nomination.

Cal Cannily Silent.

What worried the Hooverites particularly was the failure of Mr. Coolidge to repudiate the Coupal utterance. Mr. Coolidge just kept mum. Then political leaders began bringing reports to the White House of the spread of the Coolidge movement in various parts of the country. These were coupled with accounts of surveys of the President's strength in normally Republican states which were discouraging. What with hard times and the President's devotion to prohibition, Massachusetts and Connecticut probably would go Democratic, Mr. Hoover was advised, and both Ohio and Illinois must be chalked up as doubtful. Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.] is reported to have told the President that if the election were held in Kansas would go Democratic.

As a result of the anxiety regarding the Coolidge boom the Hoover brand of strategy has begun to manifest an unusually deep interest in the political state of mind of Massachusetts, and particularly of former Senator William M. Butler, who managed the Coolidge campaign both before and after the convention of 1924.

Mr. Butler is coming to Washington shortly presumably to see the President. He is said to have been surveying the political situation and minds of Mr. Coolidge think it was a shame the Coolidge boom. One story is that the Hoover leaders are seeking to detach Butler from Coolidge by offering him the chairmanship of the Republican national committee and thereby committing him to the renomination of Mr. Hoover.

GANDHI SITS AS SPHINX AS INDIA PARLEY OPENS

Day of Silence for "Holy Man."

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

LONDON, Sept. 14.—British diplomacy at its best today locked horns with the craftiest mind of Asia as Mahatma Gandhi, India's nationalist leader, squatted down in his coarse rags beside some of London's ablest statesmen — immaculately tailored, all of them—at the first meeting of the resumed Indian round table conference at St. James's palace.

LORD SANKEY.

It was the "holy man's" weekly day of silence, so the first meeting between east and west proved to be indecisive.

But tomorrow Gandhi will have his say, and it was evident tonight, as numerous political intrigues got under way, that this conference will witness one of the shrewdest battles of political wits since her far flung colonies started to fight shy of the British empire.

Gandhi "Suspects" Defeat.

The game is really simple, one of Gandhi's closest associates, himself a prominent member of the conference, explained. Only the manner of the game is subtle, very subtle, it seems.

It is this:

Gandhi has come here to explain the minimum demand it is in his power to ask, as authorized by the All-India nationalist congress. That minimum demand is undiluted self-government. If the British government is unable to grant such a demand Gandhi wants to know, and the sooner the better. He is getting along in years, and if Britain does not intend to grant his "independence or nothing" platform, as he suspects, he wants to launch his revolution anew while he is still able to direct it.

In other words, Gandhi wants to know how far Britain is prepared to go on fundamentals. If there is an agreement in the big thing—undiluted self-government—Gandhi is ready to return to his spinning and let younger minds work out the details.

Indian Delegates Suspicious.

From today's meeting Indian nationalists strongly suspected that the British are endeavoring to start from just the other end. They believe the government wants to work out the details first and keep them guessing as to how much actual independence they are going to receive, if any.

So today Lord Sankey, chairman of the federal structures committee, announced that following Gandhi's speech tomorrow the committee will get down to work to discuss such details as the strength of the proposed legislature, methods of election, and who is to vote.

Gandhi, it was evident, was not pleased, but would not say anything. He sat as mute as a sphinx.

May Bare Demands Today.

Tomorrow he will say plenty, his aids said, but explained that the mahatma had not made up his mind whether to come out definitely and ask the British to lay their cards on the table or to wait a few more days.

It has been learned from a close associate of Gandhi that the "holy man" did not touch on politics last night in his 30 minute talk in a hotel with Prime Minister MacDonald, or, rather, the prime minister did not bring up the subject. They talked about the fine English climate and the mahatma's sea voyage. Gandhi, it was said, was plainly disappointed.

When Mr. MacDonald left, however, Gandhi had a two hours' talk with Lord Sankey on the demands for independence, but the talk is understood to have ended about where it started.

Treated Like a King.

Outwardly the British government treated Gandhi like a king today.

At the conference he was given the place of honor above all the Indian delegates, immediately to the left of Lord Sankey. As he sat there he sipped goat's milk from an American made vacuum bottle.

When the session adjourned at noon, Gandhi and the others hurried out to lunch. Gandhi was escorted to a special room in the palace not far from the apartment of the prince of Wales. Pictures of English kings had been removed, and there Gandhi found his beloved spinning wheel.

ASSESSOR HINTS DRASTIC ACTION AGAINST BROKERS

Memberships on the Chicago Board of Trade and the Chicago Stock Exchange, representing $18,270,000 in personal property values, may be arbitrarily assessed on this year's tax records by the board of assessors. This hint was given last night by Assessor John E. Conroy.

According to Mr. Conroy, a demand for a list of the members, and the values of their memberships, was made early this month. The information has not yet been given, he said. He pointed out that the board has other methods of getting the information, and asserted that the board intends to obtain it for the 1931 quadrennial reassessment.

The board of assessors estimates that assessment of the memberships of the trading organizations might net the county $405,000 in taxes. Records of the board indicate only one voluntary schedule was filed in 1930 among more than 2,000 members of the organizations.

Third Movie Bombed in 24 Hour Period

Another moving picture theater was bombed early this morning, making the third house bombed in 24 hours and the sixth since the inception of the dispute between the Motion Picture Operators' union and independent theaters over the employment of non-union operators.

The target of the latest attack was the New Regent theater, 6826 South Halsted street, owned by the Normal Park Amusement company. Damage, chiefly to the roof, was estimated at $300, although it is possible that the sound apparatus was impaired.

Two Police on Guard.

The terrorists disregarded the presence of two policemen on guard in the front and at the rear of the theater by placing the explosive on the roof. Detectives believe the bomb probably was thrown from the rear porch of a vacant second story flat at 6830 South Halsted street. A long fuse, which delayed the blast, gave the bombers ample time to escape, it is believed, before the guardians, Policemen William Steffens and Aloysius McCarthy, could swing into action. No one was hurt. Many windows in the neighborhood were broken.

It is believed the bombers intended to wreck the apparatus room. Their aim was inaccurate, the bomb exploding six feet away and tearing a hole two feet by one and one-half feet in the roof. Among those who aided in the investigation was Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office.

Act to Revoke Licenses.

Meanwhile other action developed in the operators-theaters strife. Revocation of license proceedings will be started against 150 members of the operators' union on charges they obtained their certificates fraudulently, it was announced by William A. Jackson, city commissioner of gas and electricity. Action in the matter will be taken today at a conference between Jackson and Leon Hornstein, assistant corporation counsel.

Additionally, investigation was progressing into the previous bombings. The two newest ones preceding this morning's bombing occurred yesterday on the west side. The houses blasted were the Hamlin, 3826 Madison street, and the Austin, 5619 Madison street. Small damage was done.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles Bellows charged that the six bombings thus far were methods of intimidation on the part of the operators' union. Bombing is being resorted to, he said, because the union had been enjoined from picketing.

GEORGE WHITE OPENS 'SCANDALS' WITH FIST FIGHT

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—George White, theatrical producer, and Lew Brown, one of his song writers, exchanged blows at the opening of White's "Scandals" tonight as a climax to a legal dispute earlier in the day.

Crowds in the lobby of the Apollo theater and a patrolman separated the pair.

Brown and Ray Henderson, authors of the musical score of the "Scandals," sought to enjoin White from using their music tonight on the ground that he had refused to sign a written contract and had made changes in the score without their consent.

Edsel Ford Forced to Leave Train in Maine by Illness

Bangor, Me., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Edsel Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer, was forced to leave a train at Newport, near here, Sunday night on account of an attack of acute indigestion and returned to his summer home at Seal Harbor, 85 miles away, by automobile, it was learned tonight. From his home at Seal Harbor tonight, Ford said the attack was "not serious" and that he was "all right." Ford was on his way to Detroit when he became ill.

Triplets, 2 Boys and Girl, Born to Evanston Woman

Triplets were born to Mrs. John Morrissey, 203 Elmwood avenue, Evanston, in the West Suburban hospital, Oak Park, last night. The babies are two boys and a girl. One boy weighs 5 pounds 11 ounces; the second boy 5 pounds 13 ounces, and the girl 3 pounds 14 ounces. The father is a mechanical engineer. The Morrisseys have two other children, a boy and a girl. Mrs. Morrissey and the babies were reported doing nicely.

Dying Pilot Found Beside Plane Wreck

Caught in a blinding rainstorm, a passenger plane of the Chicago-Detroit Airways crashed at 3 o'clock last night in the swampland near 113th street and Calumet lake, close to the Indiana state line.

At midnight, four hours later, a searching party came upon the wrecked ship. Alongside it lay Al Malvick, 1328 West 77th street, the pilot. He was unconscious, suffering from injuries which caused his death a few minutes later as he was being taken to the South Chicago hospital.

Searchers Give Up Quest.

The tragedy of the crash was deepened by the fact that for hours more than 100 policemen and civilian volunteers had combed the muddy wastes near the lake and at one time, two hours after the search began, had given up their quest. Had the search been pressed, it was said, and the cracked plane and the pilot been found Malvick's life might possibly have been saved.

It was about 3 o'clock, at the height of the rain storm, when Malvick's plane, a Lockheed Vega, was observed in distress. He was flying low—so low that scores of residents and workers in the vicinity could tell that the engine was missing.

Women See Plane Dive.

Because of the pelting rain and darkness the course of the ship was hidden most of the time, and was seen only by the illumination from occasional flashes of lightning. On those occasions the plane was seen to pitch and veer as Malvick tried desperately to hold her aloft. Once the craft skimmed a few feet over the lighted roof of a large gas tank. It was about that time the plane swerved downward.

The crash was seen and heard by Mrs. Elizabeth Naglish and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Kaminski, who live on a farm near the swamp land at 113th street near the lake.

"We saw the plane dive down," they told police. "Then there was a big crash about half a block south of our house."

Learn of Missing Craft.

At 9:30 o'clock no trace of the plane had been found, and because of the darkness and rain, and with seemingly no hope of finding it, the search was abandoned temporarily, to be resumed this morning. At 10 o'clock, two hours after the reported crash, it became known that the regular carrier of the Chicago-Detroit Airways, inbound from Detroit, was overdue. It was scheduled to arrive at 8 o'clock.

Search was started again for the missing craft, but after another hour of effort without any trace of it being seen, it was believed that it had plunged into Calumet lake. Finally a rescue ship of the airplane company aided in the search, lighting the marshes with floodlights.

Find Ship and Pilot.

At midnight the ship was found. It was completely wrecked. The rescue party, composed of Norbert Schwartz, 116th street and the lake; Policemen Dennis Toomey and Dennis Keating, and Joseph Griffith, 2546 East 100th street, found the injured pilot.

He was placed in the automobile of Lester Ray, 8453 Harper avenue, by James Cherry, and driven to 110th street and the Nickel Plate tracks. There the thoroughfare was blockaded and the pilot was carried from Ray's machine across the tracks to the automobile of Albert C. and Mrs. Christina Witzky, 7627 Dorchester avenue, who took him to the hospital. There he was pronounced dead.

Pilot Malvick took off from the Municipal airport in Detroit at 6 o'clock, eastern standard time. No passengers were aboard the plane. He flew on schedule until he struck the Calumet region and the storm. He was married.

Maj. Reed Landis, war aviation ace and chairman of the Illinois aeronautical commission, will conduct an investigation into the crash today.

GERMANS' PLANE HOURS OVERDUE ON COAST OF U. S.

Last Sighted Flying Fast Off Halifax.

BULLETIN.

At 8 oclock this morning, Chicago time, no news had been received of the three Atlantic flyers last sighted 395 miles from Halifax and 1,1000 miles from New York. They stated when they started from Portugal they had sufficient gasolins only to fly 48 hours. This time expired at 4:30 o'clock this morning, Chicago time. At that hour, according to the Associated Press, airmen watching for them at points along the Atlantic coast began to express fears for their safety. The watchers, however, took into consideration the possibility the plans might have landed in some remote place in Canada. Under favorable conditions the plane could have made the distance from the place it was last sighted to New York by 2 o'clock.

New York, Sept. 15, 4:30 a. m. (Tuesday).—[Special.]—Flying in fogs and electric storms, the gray metal monoplane which left Portugal early Sunday, this morning was believed to be driving through the darkness toward New York.

As the night hours passed and no word of sighting the plane along the American coast had been reported there was some apprehension as to the fate of the plane and the three men aboard. This grew as the morning hours passed and they were not reported.

The plane had been out 48 hours, and the three men who dared the westward crossing from Portugal had said that 48 hours would be their limit.

Yesterday at 2:40 p. m. [Chicago daylight time], the monoplane, flying low and swiftly, circled over the steamship Pennland, 395 miles from Halifax, and the flyers waved that all was well as they sped away under low clouds toward land.

1,100 Miles from New York.

The Pennland was 1,100 miles from New York when Willie Rody, youthful pilot owner; Christian Johanssen, veteran German war pilot, and the Portuguese sportsman, Fernando Costa Viega, signaled to those on board as they flew over it.

At airports over the 500 miles between here and the Maine boundary lights were turned on and the beacons searched the skies offering welcomes to the travelers over a route on which many planes had tried their wings and but two had succeeded.

The plane had been sighted twice since its start, the first time over the Azores eight hours after the take-off, and again yesterday when it flew down out of the clouds to circle the Pennland.

Beacons Light Sky.

The six large fields around New York kept flood lights on and beacons sending their twisting beams against the clouds all through the night and now and then a plane went aloft to act as a lookout and guide to the travelers in the broad winged Junkers.

Soon after greeting the steamer the flyers pushed the blunt nose of the Junkers into the fog banks that abound off Nova Scotia at this season. Then darkness caught up with them and the darkness was made blacker by frequent thunderstorms along their way.

Pilots who had flown the mail nightly over the rugged New England countryside shook their heads as they thought of the problem that faced these apparently tired men who had flown the Atlantic and now were confronted with finishing their course with dwindling fuel in the darkness over a strange land.

Conditions Not Hazardous.

As each mail pilot landed he was surrounded by eager questioners who wanted to know first if a strange plane had been sighted and, second, how flying conditions were. These veterans of the night air lanes agreed that flying was not as good as it could be, but declared that conditions were not really hazardous.

Rody is 20 years old and only recently came into a small inheritance and he is financing the flight. The plane, the Esa, is named for his young bride. Johanssen is a veteran aviator. Coste and Bellonte flew from Paris

Reveal French Plane Exploded.

MOSCOW, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Their plane blown to bits when the motor exploded while they were high over a sparsely settled section of soviet Russia Saturday morning, the French aviators, Joseph Le Brix and Rene Mesmin, went to their deaths fighting to save themselves.

Marcel Doret, their companion, apparently flung clear by the force of the blast, descended unscathed in a parachute.

Details of the disaster reached Moscow today from the scene of the tragedy, about 100 miles northwest of Ufa. The airmen were making an attempt to raise the distance record, their aim being to fly from Paris to Tokio without a stop.

Mesmin, who was at the wheel, tried to parachute down but the parachute failed to open and Mesmin himself became entangled, falling with the wreckage of the machine," said Doret. "Le Brix was belted in too tightly and did not succeed in getting off in his parachute."

Test German Mystery Plane.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN Sept 14.—Leaders of German aviation today saw for the first time the "flying wing" rise in the air at the Tempelhof airport, do spectacular stunts, loops, sharp turns, glide gracefully with a dead motor and race over the airfield at a speed of ninety miles with the baby motor at full speed.

The tiny plane, which has no tail but otherwise, to the eye of the layman, is hardly different from an ordinary plane, was constructed by Alexander Lippisch, noted German aero engineer. The construction was supervised and sponsored by Capt. Herrmann Koehl, trans-Atlantic flyer.

Aviation authorities, including representatives of the ministry of transportation, were so stunned by the performance of the craft that it was immediately turned over to the German institute for testing aircraft and the official authority for licensing planes.

BRITISH PLANE'S SPEED RECORD CUT TO 379 M. P. H.

CALSHOT, England, Sept. 14.—(AP)—British aviators were surprised and somewhat disappointed today when it was announced that the figures to be submitted for official approval in connection with Lieut. G. H. Stainforth's attack on the world's speed record yesterday will be 379.05 miles an hour instead of 396.1 as unofficially given out yesterday.

The reduced figures still constitute a new world speed record, however. The error in yesterday's figure was due to the use of stop watches by the timekeeper To comply with the regulations the speed of a Schneider cup plane must be established by an automatic timing device.

A film of the timing apparatus today showed that Lieut. Stainforth's actual speed was nearly seven miles less than recorded by the stop watches. The fastest lap was flown at 388.67 miles an hour instead of 404.265 as the stop watch showed.

PLANE TRIP TO RECALL FIRST U. S. MAIL FLIGHT

The first air mail flight in the United States, from Garden City to Mineola, Long Island, will be commemorated on Sept. 23, its twentieth anniversary by Pilot Dean Smith, who will fly an American Airways plane over that route and drop an air mail sack as did Lieutenant Commander Earle Ovington on the first flight. Ovington will be co-pilot on a plane inaugurating a new series of Pilgrim planes over the American Airways system from Los Angeles to Tucson, Ariz., on the same day and will carry as one of the passengers former Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock, who started him on the original flight with mail at Garden City. Special stamps commemorating the event are being issued by the postoffice department.

Phone Calls from City Hall 2,200 Under Quota

Telephone calls originating in the city hall during August were 2,200 under the 166,666 allowed by the telephone company before a charge is made for excess calls Jeffrey O'Connor, commissioner of public service, reported yesterday. A number of telephone installations have been removed from the city hall and from the ward yards, Mr. O'Connor said, which will mean a saving to the city of $5,000 a year.

MEXICAN CITY HIT BY 10 FOOT FLOOD AND HURRICANE

Seaport Wiped Out; Loss of Life Reported.

BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 14. — Dispatches from Santa Rossalio, Lower California, today reported that a hurricane had swept down the gulf of Lower California yesterday, leaving destruction in its wake.

Santa Rosalia, a flourishing mining town, was swept almost out of existence. There was some loss of life and scores of houses were levelled to the ground. The number of dead was not mentioned. The waterworks, lighting and telegraph services were disrupted and the city was in darkness last night. Floods accompanied the hurricane and water, swept in from the ocean, reached a depth of ten feet in the city.

The storm swept across the peninsula, struck interior villages, and left hundreds of families homeless.

Sends Urgent Appeal for Help.

The city sent out an urgent appeal this afternoon for financial help, drugs, medical aid, and provisions. The Boleo Mining company suffered severely. Houses of miners were practically all destroyed. A government dredge which was working in the port was carried inland by the tidal wave and now lies high and dry on land.

Fears were felt for the safety of the packet boat Navajoa, which left Mazatlan Friday for La Paz, capital of Lower California, and has not been heard of since.

Another boat which is missing left Santa Rosalia with a crew of seven, six prisoners and a military escort of an officer and six soldiers, aboard.

Many Cities Hit.

Meanwhile, no word had yet been received of the fate of the city of La Paz, which was hit by a hurricane Saturday night. The last dispatches received from there, yesterday, reported heavy damage and an undetermined number of casualties.

Yesterday's hurricane was felt along the entire Pacific coast of Mexico. The states of Sonora and Sinaloa reported considerable damage. Hermisillo, capital of Sonora, was hit but reported no fatalities. Empalme, Sonora, also was struck. Guaymas was whipped by heavy rains and strong winds. Houses were unroofed and shipping in the harbor damaged. Two persons were injured. In the state of Sinaloa the city of Mazatlan was lashed by wind and rain.

The Tacubaya meteorological station announced tonight that a new hurricane was racing over the Caribbean sea and probably would hit the east coast of Yucatan tomorrow.

Push Relief in Belize.

BELIZE, British Honduras, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Little apprehension was felt here tonight that a tropical storm, sweeping west across the Caribbean, would strike this Honduran capital, devastated by a hurricane last week that took a total of between 500 and 1,000 lives. Latest reports indicated the storm would pass inland between here and Cozumel island, about 400 miles north, some time tonight. Earlier reports said it had struck near Payo Obispo, state of Quintara Roo, Mexico.

The task of ministering to the injured here was pushed forward today. A few cases of gangrene were reported in the outlying districts among natives who have not had an opportunity to come here for treatment. A field crew of doctors visited those sections today and administered relief.

Funeral pyres, where scores of dead have been cremated, were somewhat quenched by rain last night but were rekindled today as disposition of the bodies continued. The dead are being burned without identification or ceremony.

The Spanish Honduran consul today reported five Honduran vessels were sunk during the hurricane and that about 45 members of their crews were drowned.

Salvation Army on Job.

The Salvation Army took over operation of soup kitchens to feed the hungry.

Doctors ordered 10,000 gallons of fresh water, stored in drums on a nearby island, commandeered for use here.

The U. S. S. Swan, which arrived here shortly after the storm struck, left today for Trujillo after tending all possible aid.

A Pan-American airways plane brought additional supplies from Tela, 200 miles south of here.

About 5,000 cases of whisky were stacked along the main street here as agents for bonded warehouses rescued their stock, scattered about when the warehouses were destroyed by the wind.

CITY WIPED OUT

The seaport of Santa Rosalia, Lower California, was wiped out when a hurricane swept the sea into the city to a depth of ten feet. Other cities on the Pacific coast were lashed by the storm. Another hurricane last night was roaring across th. Caribbean toward Yucatan and British Honduras

DIG IN VAIN IN HUNT FOR BODY OF LOST POLICEMAN

Attempts to locate the body of former Police Lieutenant Rocco Passarella of Melrose Park in an alleged "gang graveyard" near the Warrenville cemetery were abandoned yesterday after cursory digging in a patch of weeds indicated that the ground had not been disturbed. Passarella disappeared in June and Lieut. William V. Blaul of State's Attorney Swanson's office fears he has been taken for a ride by gangsters.

Allan Myers, chief investigator for State's Attorney Chauncey Reed of Du Page county, and a digger went to the cemetery yesterday morning. The burial ground is on the edge of the corporate limits of the village and the diggers made their way to a patch of growth to the south of the place, where an informant had told them the body might be found. They dug in various places until they were satisfied that no digging tool had touched the vicinity for months.

Lieut. Blaul raided a combination speakeasy-cabaret in Warrenville on Saturday, seizing four men, two stills, and a large quantity of whisky mash.

ARTIST WONDERS WHY HE SPENT NIGHT IN CELL

Why Chalmers Chappell, 28 years old, an artist living at 508 North State street, spent Sunday night and part of yesterday in a cell at the detective bureau was a mystery last night both to Chappell and to the police.

Chappell appeared at the bureau Sunday night. "Please lock me up," he requested. Police obliged. Yesterday afternoon he was released. When asked why he had desired to be locked up, Chappell replied that he couldn't remember. "I was intoxicated, and I've forgotten the events of Sunday night," he said.

Records show that Chappell was a principal in an encounter on a railroad train last February with John Velie, 65 years old, wealthy mine owner, whom he accused of running off with Mrs. Dorothy Chappell, his young wife. The men exchanged several blows when Chappell found Velie and Mrs Chappell in the same coach. Since then Chappell has sued Velie for $100,000 for alienation of affections.

AIMEE AND HER DAVID BROADCAST MARITAL JOYS

Inform World It's Their One True Love.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 14.—[Special.] — The Rev. Aimee McPherson, who early yesterday morning eloped by airplane to Yuma, Ariz., and became Mrs. David Hutton, was so pleased with married life that she had to use a microphone to tell the world about it today.

The happy young newlyweds—Aimee gave her age as 38 and David is 30—broadcast their happiness from the nuptial suite in the Manse, Mrs. McPherson's official residence adjoining Angelus temple.

But before that they had a breakfast reception for "the boys of the press." Aimee, radiant in white satin negligée, trimmed in chiffon, and David in his brand new green dressing gown, nibbled bacon and toast and sipped coffee as they talked.

Reporters Sniff the Bacon.

The reporters stood about listening and smelling the bacon, toast and coffee.

Aimee gave her views on the right of a woman to remarry after divorce, "in some circumstances."

"I do not believe in divorce on a slight pretext," she said. "Harold McPherson [her second husband] won a divorce from me more than fifteen years ago. He had been married once before that. Since that period was closed in my life, I have been going it alone so many years that when I woke to find a man's coat in the room this morning, it was the strangest thing"—Aimee giggled a happy, girlish giggle—"then I heard his glorious baritone voice floating out of the open door of the bathroom and now I am too happy for words.

David Is Man of Her Life.

"He isn't just a singer; I knew the first time I ever saw him he was a great deal more than just a singer. He's the man of my life."

Mr. Hutton patted his bride a honeymoonish pat on the shoulder and took his green dressing gown before the "mike."

"This is Dave Hutton speaking," he said. "I want to introduce to you the most wonderful woman in the world, my wife. I want to thank every one for the telegrams, flowers, the remembrances and kind wishes that showered on us. I had waited all my life to find an ideal like Aimee. She's the most wonderful personality I ever met. She's a genius. And now I introduce my precious wife."

Then Aimee Spreads the Tidings.

Then Aimee spread the tidings of her new found happiness over the glorious climate of California—she mentioned that—to the thousands of breathlessly waiting Los Angelans.

But Mr. Hutton had some more words for the press.

"Aimee conforms exactly to my ideals of perfect womanhood," he said. "I am to do my best to help her in her good work.

"I've got a smack on the nose for those self-appointed critics who have delighted in malicious persecution of Aimee by slanderous remarks in public."

Incidentally Mr. Hutton weighs 230 pounds.

Engaged to Pasadena Girl.

Reports that other feminine hearts throbbed with pain when the big, blue-eyed baritone eloped with the Rev. Aimee, led to inquiries of Hutton. A shade of annoyance crossed his face.

"I was engaged to a Pasadena girl two years ago," he said. "The engagement was broken, as many engagements are." He declined to name the ex-fiancée.

"I suppose it is natural there should be comment following a wedding to a prominent person. I suppose there will be a lot of women also will claim I know them, or something like that. Just put it down for a lot of talk. I sang in many choirs and there were many women there, but Aimee is my one true love."

The Rev. Aimee gazed at him fondly as he talked and when he finished she clasped an arm about him.

Trembles with Apprehension.

"I thought it over many times before we took the step," said Aimee. "When announcement of the marriage was made at the afternoon services at Angelus temple yesterday, I trembled with apprehension.

"But when the congregation—God bless 'em—began clapping, my heart was filled with happiness. I feel we are going to have a wonderful future together."

Later today, wearying of incessant conversation about their romance, the couple stole out a side entrance of the Manse and spent several hours together at the beach before they were located by reporters again. Mrs. McPherson then took charge of arrangements to make more photographs for publication.

Near Where Aimee Disappeared.

The beach was in the neighborhood of the one from which Mrs. McPherson disappeared some four years ago, leaving behind a green bathing suit. It was weeks afterward that she reappeared, walking on the hot sands of a Mexican desert. Her story of a kidnaping, Mexican hut prison, and her escape filled the press for some time.

Miss Harriet Jordan, dean of Angelus Temple Bible school, who performed the wedding ceremony yesterday, revealed that Mrs. McPherson herself wrote the words of the marriage ritual which were used, and that the word "obey" was left out. Mrs. McPherson wrote the marriage ceremony while the wedding party floated through the air in a chartered plane from Los Angeles to Yuma late Saturday night.

Suspect in Police Slaying Is Identified as Robber

Jack Lawrence, 28 years old, of Holland, Mich., named by Nick Bunonica, 21, confessed slayer of Policeman John Nerad of Cicero, as his accomplice in the killing, was identified last night at Holland as one of three men who stole $1,100 and some coupon books from the Sinclair Refining company offices at 1047 West 95th street last week. Joseph Leyden, 3604 Elizabeth street, identified him. Assistant State's Attorneys Robert L. Donigan and Walker Butler, who took Leyden to Holland, said they would extradite Lawrence to Chicago on the robbery charge as a means of prosecuting him for murder.

BERLIN POLICE CLUB POLITICAL RIOTERS; 60 HURT IN CLASH

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—(AP)—More than sixty men and women were injured tonight, some of them seriously, in fighting which broke out between police and a crowd of 1,000 which was trying to jam its way into the Sportspalast to hear a debate between communist and social democratic leaders.

The throngs arrived before the doors of the palast were opened and began exchanging banter. The exchange soon gave way to fisticuffs, and then the police intervened.

Charging the crowd, the police swung their rubber clubs and the crowd broke in a panic, dashing through side streets and trampling several women. After clearing the streets the police ordered the palast closed. Eight thousand people were inside when the order was issued. The debate went on and police reserves armed with rifles began to patrol the district.

AUSTRIAN TROOPS RAID CASTLE TO ARREST PRINCE

Jail Him as Chief of Ill Fated "Putsch."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Sept. 14.—Prince Ernst Rudiger Starhemberg, Fascist Heimwehr leader, one time minister of the interior and a descendant of the oldest aristocratic family in Austria, was arrested and jailed today as climax to yesterday's revolt by the Heimwehr, an armed political organization, in the province of Styria.

The government yesterday accused Prince Starhemberg of directing the speedily quelled "putsch" from his castle at Eferding Fifty soldiers were sent to arrest the prince, but were unable to find him. Meanwhile, he asked permission, through his secretary, to leave the country, but the request was denied.

Found Hiding in Castle.

Today, the government learned that Prince Starhemberg was in hiding in the castle of his cousin, Count Koreth, at Welsskirchen. Troops rushed to the castle and arrested both Starhemberg and Koreth.

Other prominent Austrians were also arrested and accused of plotting the rebellion. They were Hans Reuter, Heimwehr chief of staff; Gens. Englisch and Puchmeyer, both pensioned officers of the Austrian army, and Herr Limboeck, prefect of the village of Kirchdorf.

Troops are continuing the hunt for Dr. Walter Pfriemer, Styrian commandant of the Heimwehr, who proclaimed himself dictator of Austria during the uprising He is reported to have fled by auto over the border.

Ex-Chancellor Seipel Accused.

Dr. Deutsch, leader of the Socialist Schutzbund, which is the sworn enemy of the Heimwehr and another armed political organization, today told the Socialist party that Msgr. Ignaz Seipel, the former chancellor, was "the man behind the revolt."

He declared that Msgr. Seipel had succeeded in reuniting the Heimwehr, which had split up after being defeated at the last general elections, and that it had been planned to establish an executive council, including Dr. Pfriemer, Dr Steidle, leader of the Tyrolese Heimwehr, and Prince Starhemberg, with ultimate intentions to launch a rebellion.

FRENCH CONSUL HERE MOVED TO NEW YORK POST

Charles de Ferry de Fontnouvelle, French consul general in Chicago, has been appointed to the New York consulate, it was announced here yesterday. He will be the consul general there.

Consul de Fontnouvelle succeeded Antonin Barthelemy as French consul in Chicago in 1925.

Since last May Henri Bougearel has been acting consul in Chicago, and retains that position at present. He will be assisted by Jean Strauss, who has been appointed deputy consul. Mr. Strauss will arrive in Chicago early next month.

TO PAY GERMAN NATIONALS ALL MIXED CLAIMS

U. S. Generous; France Withholds

Washington, D. C. Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Largely as an act of generosity to the German people, the United States will continue payments to German nationals awarded by the mixed claims commissions which settled disputes arising out of the war. Germany, on the other hand, will suspend her payments, largely because of the French objection that such a step would be in violation of the Hoover war debt and reparations agreements.

The cost to the United States will be $23,000,000. Ordinarily this country would be out just $9,000,000, as under the mixed claims agreement payments Germany should pay $9,000,000 to the United States this year. As Germany will not make this payment, and the United States intends to go ahead and fulfill its international obligation regardless of Germany's action, this country will be out $9,000,000 at least until some later date.

The state department negotiated for some time with France and with Germany in an effort to work out a way for continuation of the payments. France, however, objected, stating she was unwilling to agree to any arrangements which would provide for Germany paying out any money It was claimed on the behalf of France that, while nongovernmental debts might not come directly under the moratorium agreement, their payment would violate the Young plan put into effect by The Hague agreement.

Germany has a legal right to suspend payments, passing them on to the future.

Blue Island Fire Chief Reprimanded by Council

Fire Chief John Link of Blue Island and three of his firemen were reprimanded last night by the village council as a result of an expedition outside the Blue Island limits to fight a fire The three firemen were criticized for taking out the apparatus and the chief for leaving town to attend a convention without notifying his second in command that he was going. There has been friction among the members of the department and Mayor Frank Kasten informed those reprimanded that sterner measures would be taken if any more trouble occurred.

How a hard-boiled appraiser unwittingly sold a Danersk Dining Room Group

A GENTLEMAN recently came to our showrooms to select a group of furniture for his dining room. He told us that he had originally intended, for the sake of economy, to take advantage of some of the bargains that the stores were advertising. It so happened, however, that a few days previously an appraiser had called to value his household possessions for fire insurance.

When he received the appraiser's report he noticed that some Danersk Furniture he had bought 5 years ago was valued at the price he paid for it; whereas all the other items had been depreciated by 40, 60, even 80 per cent. This piqued his interest and he asked the appraiser the reason for these different valuations.

The appraiser explained that, being familiar with values in rare antiques, he found in the items in question all the marks of design and workmanship that cause furniture to increase, rather than decrease, in value with the years. "After this experience," our customer told us, "I decided 'for the sake of economy' not to take advantage of any of the bargains that the stores are advertising."

This incident is typical, almost identical in fact, with many more we have heard concerning Danersk handmade furniture.

When you are tempted by furniture "bargains" remember that no modern maker can offer furniture of Danersk quality for less than Danersk prices without cheapening its structure.

James Rodgers was born in Duncan Phyfe's home town in Scotland. It was there that he mastered the subtleties of the inlay work for which he is famous. When he sets an inlay it will never loosen or work out. Neither have Duncan Phyfe's. For James Rodgers cuts his inlays, as Phyfe did before him, to honest depths, for snug driving fit.

NEW OFFICIAL TAKES LOOK AT YACHT MYSTERY

Calls Wife's Account Unbelievable.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 15.—[Special.]—The most famous yacht in Long Island sound slid in out of the murky mist at dusk today and while rain splashed its stained deck, a tired little group of pirate hunters stepped ashore on the edge of the estate of young William B. Leeds, himself an amateur delver into the north shore's latest enigma.

Mrs. Lillian Collings, wife of Benjamin P. Collings, the missing yachtsman, came first. She was haggard, her cheeks tear stained—for she had been subjected to the sternest efforts yet to break her down—but she had not changed her story of murder and an attack one iota.

District Attorney Alexander Blue of Suffolk county followed.

"I cannot make myself believe her fantastic story. We must get all the facts," he said.

Inspector King "Open Minded."

Inspector Harold King of Nassau county trailed behind.

"I have an open mind of this case," he declared, "but I am not going to ask Mrs. Collings to go through this thing again unless there are new developments."

The tired wife of the yachtsman smiled faintly and, accompanied by her lawyer, William A. Kelly, an associate of Homer Cummings, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, boarded a ferry for her home in Stamford, Conn.

The day provided several developments in the motiveless murder. One was the disclosure that Mrs. Collings had found life on a small yacht over long periods irksome. Another was that the indignities suffered by Mrs. Collings in a canoe had a perplexing conclusion. It developed that the pirate canoe, to have carried the many persons and things it was said to have contained, would have needed a false bottom.

An Inexhaustible Canoe.

The strangest narrative of that fantastic night centers about the 18 foot canoe. This, according to the story revealed by District Attorney Elwin H. Edwards of Nassau county, is what it carried:

Two men, a possible third wounded man, a woman prisoner, a duffle bag which held among other things, extra clothing, four heavy steamer rugs, one wool blanket, a paddle and a bailing bucket.

In the duffle bag also was a bundle of papers and a pair of rubber soled sneakers. The shoes were given to Mrs. Collings by the canoe-pirate, it was revealed, when she came aboard barefoot. The sneakers now are in Stamford. No attempt has been made to trace the identity of the kidnapper through them, it was said.

A Change of Trousers.

In the canoe, loaded as it was, this is what took place, according to Mr. Edwards:

After paddling almost two hours the young companion of the elderly madman pirate climbed overboard and swam and walked ashore. Then the old man began to mistreat his prisoner. For some unaccountable reason the pirate made Mrs. Collings take a place in the opposite end of the canoe while he opened the duffle bag and took out a pair of trousers.

Standing in the bouncing canoe, the old man of the sound changed his pants. Then he returned to his prisoner.

"His actions thereafter," said Mr. Edwards, "would remind one of the behavior of the insane criminal known as 'X-X,' who figured in two mad murders last year in Queens."

Did Mrs. Collings receive medical attention after she was rescued?

"No," said the prosecutor, "she was not seen by a physician."

The Blanket Incident.

Mr. Edwards then remarked that the gray haired pirate showed two extremes—one that of a cold blooded criminal and the other that of a kindly man, when he provided the woman with blankets and put her aboard a motorboat.

Just why the blankets were needed was a point at issue, as the temperature on the shore that night was just under 80 degrees. It was suggested by investigators that the blankets might have been used as a bed or couch.

"Mrs. Collins is a normal, educated, happily married woman," the prosecutor said. "She told me she was madly in love with her husband, and I have learned from relatives that the two were passionately fond of one another."

Blanket Lead Fails.

The blanket clew—the most promising one found so far—collapsed tonight when detectives sent to the Charles hotel in Springfield, where a "Mr. and Mrs. Collingsbourne" had registered, reported their findings. The blanket the gray haired bandit wrapped around his victim bore the letters "Hotel Charles." The detective reported that the blanket came from the Springfield hotel, but that it was one of 2,005 identical pattern and that since the hotel had bought them more than 100 had been stolen. Tonight it became known that detectives had been sent to Maine on a secret mission and that it had been intimated that a clew to a man formerly infatuated with Mrs. Collings had been uncovered.

Prosecutor Blue of the neighboring county of Suffolk, in whose jurisdiction the crime, if there was a crime, may have been committed, seemed eager to take up the case as his own.

He Doubts Wife's Story.

He met Mrs. Collings and her relatives as they prepared to board the Penguin for the third reenactment of the crime.

"I do not believe your story," he told her by way of greeting, "but I am going to give you this opportunity to tell me all the facts."

Then followed the voyage on the Penguin and the reenactment of the crime. Throughout the ordeal she was accompanied by her attorney, Mr. Kelly, town judge of Darian, Conn.

In Stamford Mr. Cummings was announcing his interest in the case. "Our real purpose," Mr. Cummings said, "is to find and punish the guilty party. The situation, however, is a trying one and the family desires the counsel of persons presumably more experienced in such matters than themselves."

The Pneumatic Mattress.

While aboard the Penguin Mrs. Collings was asked to clear up the incident of throwing overboard a pneumatic mattress to aid her drowning husband. She had considerable success in the venture and convinced a part of the group of the truth of her statement. The slightly built young wife lugged the heavy mattress through the hatch to the forward deck and then tossed it over the starboard side.

Johnson explained Iowa fishing licenses cost Iowans $2 less than nonresidents.

PROFESSOR HELD FOR MURDER AS WIFE DROWNS

Prosecutor Sifting Husband's Story.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Accused of the murder of his wife, Prof. Elisha Kent Kane of the University of Tennessee was held without bail in the Hampton, Va., jail today. An inquest by Coroner George K. Vanderalice to determine the cause of the drowning of Mrs. Kane at Grand View beach last Friday is under way. The jury recessed late tonight following a four hour session without rendering a verdict.

Fishermen at the inquest testified they heard Mrs. Kane scream and saw Prof. Kane pull her ashore and put the body in an automobile without permitting any one to assist him.

Seek Woman in Case.

Commonwealth Attorney Roland D. Cook said the state was investigating the possibility that there might be another woman in the case.

That part of the beach where Mrs. Kane drowned is only 4 feet deep. Prosecutor Cook said it would be impossible for any one to drown there unless held under the water or seized with cramps. Mr. Cook said there were no marks on the body to indicate Mrs. Kane might have died of strangulation.

Several men engaged in clamming off the beach appear to be the strongest witnesses Prosecutor Cook has to depend on to sustain the charge of murder preferred against the professor. These men claim they heard Mrs. Kane scream and that when they rushed to her assistant Prof. Kane had taken her body and put it in an automobile and driven away.

Son of Famous Surgeon.

Prof. Kane is the son of Dr. Elishu Kent Kane of Kane, Pa., a famous surgeon. Dr. Kane attracted national notice in 1921 by removing his own appendix. Prof. Kane is the grandson of a noted explorer. He met Mrs. Kane, a native of Salem, Va., while attending Roanoke college. Before going to Tennessee as professor of romance languages he was a member of the faculty of the University of North Carolina.

Prof. Kane contends that his wife's drowning was accidental and that he tried his best to resuscitate her after bringing her body ashore. He contended that their married life was happy and that there is no other woman in his life. The prosecutor said, however, that Prof. Kane had told conflicting stories about his wife's death.

CROWDS AT BEACHES AND PARKS TRIPLED IN SUMMER SEASON

Chicago residents appreciating the facilities offered in their home city for vacationing tripled the attendance at municipal bathing beaches, natatoriums and playgrounds this summer as compared to last year, according to a report made to Mayor Cermak yesterday by Walter Wright, superintendent of parks, recreation and aviation.

Supt. Wright's figures show that a total of 9,511,495 persons attended these three classes of recreation centers this summer. The largest number, 7,289,396, went to the Rogers Park, Clarendon, Rainbow, Rocky Ledge and street end bathing beaches. The Bellfuss, Jackson and Griffith natatoriums were patronized by 438,324 persons. To the playgrounds went 1,783,775 children and adults.

"I attribute the increase to the fact that a large number of Chicago residents, appreciating the worth of their home city as a summer resort, spent their vacations at home," said Mr. Wright. "Other conditions that had an influence on the attendance were the heat and the enlargement of south side beaches. The most remarkable fact is that but one life was lost at the beaches out of an attendance of over seven millions."

8 COAL DEALERS SUED ON SHORT WEIGHT CHARGES

Eight coal dealers were accused by City Sealer Grein yesterday of retailing coal in baskets with false bottoms, giving their customers in some instance only one-half of the amount for which they paid. Suits were started against the coal dealers as well as against seven meat and poultry dealers and two bakers, also accused of giving short weight.

The coal dealers named were George Taylor, 2975 Wabash avenue; Tom Richardson, 3640 La Salle street; Thomas Hunter, 3733 La Salle street; George A. Coleman, 3559 La Salle street; Roy Conway, 3603 Prairie avenue; Walter Bush, 2944 La Salle street; James Starr, 1024 South Lincoln street, and John Neumann, 3020 La Salle street.

WIN DELEGATES, CITY'S PLAN FOR '32 CONVENTIONS

Hurley Tells How Drive Will Be Made.

BY PARKE BROWN.

After all, says Edward N. Hurley, those most concerned with the location of the national political conventions are the delegates and the alternates. Their convenience, time, comfort, expenses and pleasures, he says, should be a deciding factor in determining where the big party meetings will be held next year.

Going a step further, he is of the opinion that if the advantages of Chicago over other bidders are brought home to the thousands of men and women expected to constitute the voting bodies of the two conventions, they will be impressed to such an extent that they will make their wishes known to the national committeemen who will select the convention cities.

Delegates Must Be Pleased.

Therefore it is not sufficient to present Chicago's claims to the bosses alone, he argues. The individual who wants to be a delegate or an alternate must be shown the picture. Then, says Mr. Hurley, that delegate or alternate will want to come to Chicago and the victory will be half won.

This was the substance of a report made by Mr. Hurley to the executive organization of the nonpartisan Chicago citizens' convention committee yesterday. Mr. Hurley is chairman of the body and he was reporting on the preliminary work done and the plans drawn by himself and his immediate associates, Walter J. Malatesta, treasurer, and William J. Hennessy, secretary.

Mayors to Be Invited.

The point that impressed his listeners was that in addition to presenting Chicago's invitation and the arguments in its behalf to the national committee, the Hurley plan includes sending the invitation to all governors, all mayors, all state committeemen, and all county chairmen.

Gov. Emmerson will send the letters to the governors and Mayor Cermak those to the mayors. The national committeemen and committeewomen, Roy O. West and Mrs. Bertha Baur for the Republicans, and Michael L. Igoe and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey for the Democrats, will sign thousands of the invitations.

With such a mailing list it is believed the case for Chicago will be placed either directly or indirectly before a majority of those who will be the delegates or alternates to both conventions.

Only a Night's Ride.

And what was considered the most telling of several points listed on Chicago's side was a statement included in an invitation booklet that this city is within a night's ride of approximately 65 per cent of the delegates and alternates who will attend the conventions. This is considered a powerful argument when cross country distances to cities on or near the Atlantic or Pacific are contrasted.

"In times like these," said Chairman Hurley, "savings of time and money are going to mean much to the delegates. By coming to a central location like Chicago, the average expense per delegate will reach a minimum impossible in any other convention center."

SEES CURE FOR MOST PREVALENT DISEASE: THE COMMON COLD

French Lick, Ind., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Hope that the medical profession may develop a serum to combat America's most prevalent disease, the common cold, was expressed today by Dr. John F. Barnhill, Indianapolis, president of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolarynology, at the session here attended by a thousand eye, ear, nose and throat specialists.

DR. JOHN BARNHILL.

"Dr. Arthur I. Kendall of Northwestern university seems to have proved that bacteria really exist in a filterable as well as a visible form," Dr. Barnhill said. "If this be true, it is likely that the filterable form is the one responsible for common colds. It has been long suspected that a filterable virus or an invisible bacteria is the causative agent. Hope is stimulated by the discovery of Dr. Kendall that specific measures in the form of sera soon may be available for combatting the common cold."

SEIZE 4 AS AUTO IS FOUND LOADED WITH DYNAMITE

Four men were arrested yesterday when police found 500 pounds of dynamite in an automobile parked in the rear of 2731 West 35th street. One however succeeded in driving away with the dynamite before his capture.

Two policemen from the Brighton park station were out looking for stolen cars. At 2731 West 35th street stey stopped to examine a small sedan in a garage and found the car loaded with dynamite.

Simon Kurznias, 20 years old, 4508 South Honore street, Alex Stanus, 19 years old and Chester Machnikowski drew up in an automobile in front of the place. Macknikowski escaped. The others were seized. When the police returned to the garage they found the dynamite car missing and were told Macknikowski had driven off with the dynamite. Macknikowski and his brother were later arrested.

TIBBETT SUED FOR A DIVORCE IN RENO COURT

Reno, Nev., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Janet H. McCormick and Grace Mackay Tibbett, respective wives of John E. McCormick, Hollywood motion picture producer and director, and Lawrence Tibbett, baritone and motion picture star, held the spotlight here today in the divorce courts. Mrs. McCormick was granted a decree on grounds of incompatibility and Mrs. Tibbett filed a suit charging cruelty.

Mrs. McCormick said before entering court she neither regretted marrying McCormick nor divorcing him.

"He is one of the finest gentlemen I ever hope to know, but our ways were different," she said. "We couldn't get along and so we agreed to make our separate ways though to part friendly. I believe a great many couples would be better off if they did that rather than fighting one another in the divorce courts."

Mrs. Tibbett declared fame and family happiness are not consistent. She declared that no other woman had entered the case and that Hollywood had had no particular part in their separation. Mrs. Tibbett was formerly Grace Mackay Smith of Chicago. They have twin sons now at school. An agreement fixing joint custody and care of the children has been signed.

EDUCATORS HOPE TO SAVE BY CUT IN SCHOOL YEARS

Narrowing of Activities Is Also Considered.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

From the point of view of professional educators there are only two ways in which major savings may be instituted in such a complex system of public schools as has grown in Chicago during the last twenty years.

One, which would be available and measurable, is the cutting down of maintenance of pupil cost by reconstructing the present eight year secondary course into six years. The second would be the elimination of many separable enterprises which have been fastened on the system by the pressure of minority groups.

A national survey of secondary education, which is expected to recommend important changes in the curriculum, particularly the reorganization of the junior high school, is now being made by the national office of education under Commissioner William John Cooper.

Chicago Board Plans Survey.

The Chicago board of education has also decided upon a new survey, which may be conducted by this same federal organization in connection with an inquiry into finance, which is being planned.

The Chicago curriculum is headed in so many directions that it is difficult to determine what the main course is. While it is frankly experimental, it is charted along approved scientific lines. There is a central bureau, under Eston V. Tubbs, with technical advisers, and all changes are made after much committee and teacher consultation. The emphasis now in new directions is on the home making theme and the field of utility.

A start has been made toward the scientific method of teaching reading and arithmetic in the primary courses, but when it comes to more extensive, even radical, improvements that involve reconstruction of the system, inertia and the fear of tradition are effective blocks.

Wide Range of Instruction.

The range of instruction in the Chicago courses is all the way from the infant to the adult. It runs from the blowing of soap bubbles and exhibt of powder puffs to fancy dancing and the improvement of manners in the home. The influence of the philosopher-educator, John Dewey, is found, together with the old credit goals and lockstep progress.

"In the junior high school," the pupils are advised by District Superintendent Joseph F. Connelly, "you will have considerably more time for music, art, and physical education. You will have experience in metal, print, wood, and electric shops or in sewing, cooking, and millinery; you will have an opportunity to choose a foreign language, or mechanical drawing, or a shop or some household art, or typing and filing.

"You will be allowed and encouraged to choose some club that you like, e. g., glee club, orchestra, band, art club, dramatic club, athletic club, etc. Besides these activities, you will be taught reading, writing, arithmetic, algebra, spelling, social studies (history, civics, geography)."

Much Time to Shop Work.

In the study course the shop work, where one may learn to recane furniture or repair a radio, is given the same time allotment as English, mathematics, and the social studies, and twice as much time as science. Art, music, physical education, and science are on the same level, taking 50 per cent of the time given to the other subjects.

Any reorganization of the curriculum, however, which aims at more economical and at the same time more effective learning, leads into the classical controversy between educational theories, between that school that would build around the interests of the child and that which would make school merely a preparation for adult life. There is also the debate over whether the public school should become a conscious social agency. Chicago has definitely adopted that trend while hesitating and experimenting along the other lines.

Would Cut Preparatory Period.

On cutting the pupil maintenance cost, through combination of courses and shortening of the general preparatory period, there is general agreement among educators. The school cost, they find, is largely in maintaining pupils rather than curriculum cost. Following is a recent dictum of Prof. Charles Hibbard Judd, head of the department of education at the University of Chicago:

"The high school has a new problem to work out. At it is now pupils from 13 to 14 years of age waste much time in review. From 14 to 18 they get a brief secondary course. From 18 to 20 they mix secondary work with advanced courses and repeat in part the work of the high school and wonder what they are going to do next.

"These eight years result in training which every other civilized nation accomplishes in six. It is time to shake ourselves loose from tradition and an incoördinated scheme of training and organize a secondary school which shall do fully and effectively in six years the full work of training adolescents."

Prof. George Alan Works, dean of examiners at the university, agrees with this time estimate for the secondary training. A better product, he thinks, would result. The set class system and the credit goal are also doomed. The trend, he finds, is toward introductory courses in all major fields, with progress pointed after the first two years, and recognition of industrial and professional interests. These would be followed by sequent courses in which the pupil could go as far and as fast as he liked.

Giant Cactus Shown at Park

Many Varieties

Nearly a hundred specimens of cactus, gathered from the southwest and Mexico, were placed on exhibit yesterday in the desert house at the Garfield Park conservatory. The collection contains a large number of varieties. Largest among them is a giant cactus ten feet tall which weighed 950 pounds prepared for shipment. Under the supervision of Dr. August Koch, in charge of the conservatory, the collection has been planted permanently in desert soil. A touch of realism has been added to the setting through the introduction of several harmless desert lizards.

Addison's Disease Patient Shows Great Improvement

The condition of Mrs. Andrew Nelson, 4103 North Overhill avenue, Norwood Park, who has been fighting death from Addison's disease, was reported greatly improved yesterday. Mrs. Nelson, a patient at the Billings Memorial hospital, for several days has been treated with a serum known as cortin, obtained from the glands of cattle. The cortin was provided by the University of Buffalo, and a similar serum, cortex, is being sent from the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn.

Charges Boat Employe with Stealing His Craft

Hamilton Noyes, 850 Hill road, Winnetka, yesterday obtained a warrant charging Roy McArthur, 25 years old, with the larceny of a motor boat. He asserted that McArthur, who worked at the Sheridan Shore Yacht club, Winnetka, had been ordered to take the boat to Chicago, but had not reported in after starting on the trip early yesterday. Noyes offered a reward of $50 for McArthur's capture.

ACT TO PROTECT UNFINISHED JOBS ON NEW SCHOOLS

Seven Buildings Tied Up; Worth 17 Millions.

For lack of funds work on seven public school buildings, involving an aggregate of $17,000,000, is at a standstill, according to John C. Christensen, school board architect. Suspension of construction precludes the possibility of any immediate relief for the mounting seat shortage, he said, although the buildings, when completed, would accommodate 20,000 students. With the approach of winter the unfinished condition of the buildings presents a serious problem to avoid loss through vandalism and weathering.

To reduce these losses contractors have been persuaded to board up the unfinished structures and Mr. Christensen has arranged for watchmen.

Work on One Building.

Work is now under way on only one school building, the Smyser elementary school at Montrose and Melvina avenues. This building is about 85 per cent completed, according to Mr. Christensen, and will be completed the first of the year. It has a capacity of 1,200 pupils and is being built at a cost of $500,000.

The seven buildings on which construction has been suspended are the new Lane Technical High school, a $5,500,000 structure at Western avenue and Addison street; addition to Senn High school, Ardmore and Glenwood avenues, $1,925,000; Phillips High school, 49th street and Wabash avenue, $2,800,000; Steinmetz High school, Barry and Melvina avenues, $2,750,000; Verdi Junior High school, 56th and Rockwell streets, $1,625,000; Wells school, Ashland avenue and Augusta boulevard, $1,900,000; Jamieson, Hollywood avenue and Mozart street, $475,000.

3 Are Over Half Complete.

The Lane building is about 70 per cent completed; the Phillips, 20 per cent; the Senn addition, 75 per cent; the Steinmets, 60 per cent; the Verdi, 20 per cent; the Jamieson, 30 per cent; and the Wells has been little more than started.

ASK CITY, COUNTY TO CANCEL DEBTS TO EACH OTHER

Mayor Cermak yesterday suggested to the county commissioners' public service committee that old bills which both the city and the county claim against each other should be canceled. The bills on both sides total approximately $3,000,000.

The controversy involves charges of both governments for prisoners held in both the Bridewell and the county jail. Other county items included the care of city patients in the Oak Forest infirmary and the juvenile detention home.

The matter was referred to the city relations committee headed by Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb.

DOCTOR ACCUSED OF CRUELTY; WIFE GETS INJUNCTION

Circuit Judge Otto Kerner yesterday granted an injunction to restrain Dr. Harry M. Jones, president of the Middlewest Instrument company, 1870 Ogden avenue, from molesting his wife or from disposing of his assets. The order was asked by Mrs. Amy V. Jones of 452 Loudon road, Winnetka, who filed a bill for divorce.

Mrs. Jones' suit charges her husband with numerous acts of cruelty. She asserted that both she and her husband had filed divorce proceedings at St. Louis, and later had become reconciled. After she had been granted $125 a month by court order after filing another bill, her husband fled to Chicago, she charged. She followed him and they again were reconciled.

The couple were married in June, 1924. They have two children.

TWO HELD IN AUTO THEFTS.

George Eichendorf, 30 years old, 520 South Ashland avenue, and Salvore Delerio, 22 years old, 2412 Burling street, were held to the grand jury for selling stolen automobiles yesterday by Judge Freeman L. Fairbank.

County Votes Shift Employes Despite Cries of Subterfuge

The finance committee of the county board yesterday approved the plan whereby extra employés in the office of the county recorder will be loaned to the board of review to assist it in getting the 1930 assessment book out on time.

AMELIA SEARS.

The statement by Michael J. O'Connor, deputy county controller, that the loaning of employés was in fact a legal subterfuge to evade the budgetary prohibition of transfer of funds from one county department to another brought protests from three women members of the board. Two of them, Mrs. Edward J. Fleming and Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, finally approved the proposal. Commissioner Amelia Sears cast the lone vote against it. The discussion was as follows:

MRS. FLEMING—I don't think we should use this subterfuge. I think we should come out openly and appropriate the money for the board of review.

Need Three-Fourths Vote.

O'CONNOR—Madam Commissioner, do you realize that you will have to get a three-fourths vote of the commissioners to do that? (President Emmett Whealan previously had vetoed a direct grant of emergency funds to the reviewers, and was sustained by the board.)

MRS. FLEMING—The use of the word subterfuge seems to imply corruption in public office.

PRESIDENT WHEALAN—Speaking for myself, I don't know of any corruption in public office.

MRS. FLEMING [plaintively]—Neither do I.

PRESIDENT WHEALAN—I think it's the wrong impression for the public to get, that there is corruption in public office. I've heard of it everywhere, even on this board.

Cites Cermak as Example.

MRS. FLEMING—You know that Mayor Cermak was elected to his present office on his straightforward, honest business record of years as president of this board.

PRESIDENT WHEALAN — I've even heard his integrity challenged!

COMMISSIONER MAURICE KAVANAGH, chairman of the finance committee—We ought to vote on this. [He raps for order.]

MRS. PLUMB — Now I don't like this business of railroading this thing through.

COMMISSIONER KAVANAGH — We wouldn't think of anything like that! This is not a star chamber session. Mr. Barrett will explain the transfer for you.

Barrett Enters Discussion.

REVIEWER CHARLES V. BARRET—This is up to the county board. I'm not a member, so I don't want to speak.

MRS. PLUMB—You're really going to hire some extra men with that appropriation, aren't you? It really amounts to a transfer of funds from one department to another, which is contrary to law.

BARRETT (turning his back)—I don't want to answer that.

County Attorney Hayden N. Bell then gave the committee his opinion that the proposal, while a borderline proposition, was perfectly legal in his eyes. The county is a business concern and may use slack man power in one department to aid another department which is overworked, he held.

Order Transfer of Funds.

The committee then recommended to the county board that Recorder Clayton F. Smith be empowered to transfer $30,000 from his regular pay roll fund to his extra and overtime fund and use that money to pay thirty clerks who will work for the board of review.

Assessor John E. Conroy yesterday criticized the Chicago Board of Trade and the Stock exchange for their failure to comply with his request for lists of their members, that the members might be taxed for the value of their seats on the two boards. He said, however, that the assessors have other ways of obtaining the information and that the value of Board of Trade and Stock exchange seats will add approximately $6,750,000 to personal property assessment lists.

16,000 PUPILS START SCHOOL ON NORTH SHORE

Public schools opened yesterday in the north shore suburbs with an estimated attendance of 12,000 pupils in twenty-seven elementary schools, and of 4,300 in the Evanston and New Trier High schools.

Overcrowded classrooms such as presented a problem to Chicago school authorities when their classes started last week were rare in the suburbs, and in the cases where there was crowding additions to school buildings will be finished within a few months to accommodate the additional pupils.

GETS WARRANTS FOR ONE SET OF BROOKFIELD COPS

Charge New Police with Posing as Officers.

Warrants were issued last night for the arrest of Nicholas Ferdinand, appointee of Village President J. F. Mansfield as chief of police of Brookfield, and for six of his followers who attempted to take possession of the police station Sunday evening, but were frustrated by the watchfulness of the adherents of the veteran chief, Ed O'Connor.

The complaints against the new policemen, obtained by John T. O'Brien, village trustee and chairman of the council police committee, alleged that they were going about Brookfield impersonating officers and carrying concealed weapons.

Give Warrants to County Police.

Although these warrants were placed in the hands of county highway policemen to serve, it was announced that if and when those named are arrested they will be given some space in the cells of the station they attempted to take. The highway police were called in to prevent a clash between the factions.

Those named in addition to Ferdinand are Norman Dunning, Albert Dreigher, John Mahoney Jr., Michael Powers, and two others designated as John Doe.

Unable to Serve Warrants.

Shortly after midnight the highway police reported that diligent search had failed to disclose the presence in Brookfield of Ferdinand and his men and the warrants had not been served.

Another development in the struggle over who's a police chief in Brookfield was an assertion by the O'Brien-O'Connor faction that Al Capone had been a supporter of some of the Mansfield faction. The state's attorney's office has taken a hand in the investigation of this charge.

Acting on orders of Assistant State's Attorney Wilkie Ham, the prosecutors' operatives seized the ballots cast in the election last spring. On the face of the returns Ernest Graham was elected village president, but after a recount County Judge Jarecki seated Mansfield.

Charge Ballot Tampering.

Prosecutor Ham acted after he received a report charging ballot tampering from William T. Nelson, justice of the peace at La Grange Park. Nelson acted as a referee in an election contest brought by candidates for village trustee in the same election in which Mansfield and Graham ran. In that contest Nelson decided in favor of Trustee O'Brien and William R. Fisher, leaders of the anti-Mansfield faction, and Charles M. Lucas, a supporter of the president.

Nelson reported to the state's attorney's office that the Brookfield village clerk placed the ballots in the vault of a La Grange bank for safekeeping. The day before the recount held in the County court the clerk delivered them to two men whom he did not know, but who posed as deputy sheriffs.

Nelson Reports on Recount.

The alleged tampering with ballots, Nelson said, probably took place before the ballots were turned over to Judge Jarecki the following day. In his recount, conducted on the race for trustees, Nelson found that ballots in the Third precinct had been changed to add votes to the total of the Mansfield faction. Since the judges and clerks in that precinct were reputable people, Nelson held that their original canvass was correct.

Prosecutor Ham said that while he had no direct evidence that Capone took part in the election, he had received a number of charges that the gang leader helped some of those supporting the Mansfield faction, for the purpose of "opening up" Brookfield to various disorderly resorts. Those rumors will be investigated, he said.

OPEN HEARINGS ON NEW GAS RATE FOR CITY TODAY

The Illinois commerce commission today will hear testimony concerning the proper gas rates to be charged Chicago consumers. The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company has offered a 3½ per cent reduction from present rates when it is permitted to mix natural gas piped from Texas with the manufactured product.

Some aldermen and city officials have demanded a thorough investigation of the cost of the new mixture before a new rate is fixed.

The gas company is prepared to submit evidence to show the reasonableness of the new rates, according to Attorney Francis Daily, counsel for the company.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph Grossman said he had not determined what part the city will take in today's hearing. He indicated the city was awaiting the presentation of evidence by the company. The commission has under advisement the petition of the gas company for authority to mix the two gases.

Corporation Counsel Sexton recently said he was not inclined to involve the city in a protracted hearing concerning the new rates.

FORMER SCHOOL HEAD TELLS OF POLICE BRUTALITY

Michael M. Brooks, 3227 Clarence avenue, Berwyn, former president of the Cicero board of education, appeared last night before the Berwyn civil service commission and related that former Chief of Police Thomas C. Bartunek had beaten him while he was in jail after being arrested for a traffic violation.

He declared that his ears had been hurt and the sight of one eye impaired by the beating. Bartunek, who resigned his post as chief after charges were brought against him, has denied making the attack. The civil service commission continued the hearing to Thursday night.

STATE FEDERATION OF LABOR TO WORK FOR FIVE DAY WEEK

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Recommendations that the Illinois Federation of Labor work for the adoption of a five day week and a six hour day without reduction in pay was made in the report of the executive committee of the federation at the 49th annual convention here this afternoon.

R. G. SODERSTROM.

Sounding the same idea in his address as he took over the chair, President R. G. Soderstrom of Streator, declared that wage cuts will not bring back prosperity.

"Only when consumers are made out of employés, will we have a return of good times," he declared. "Two days' rest in seven and a shorter day will bring employment, happiness, and prosperity for all of America's workers."

Increase in Numbers.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—The labor department announced today that figures to be included in the next issue of the Monthly Labor Review will show that progress is being made by supporters of the movement to adopt the five day week as a permanent labor policy.

Reports received from 37,857 establishments in 77 different industries, the department said, show that 2.4 per cent of such establishments have permanently adopted the five day week for all or part of their employés and that 5.6 per cent of 3,900,000 workers covered in the survey were on a five day week basis. With 44.3 per cent of its employés on a five day week the automobile industry, according to the department, has the largest number of workers on that basis. The radio industry, with 34.4 per cent, is next, with the dyeing and aircraft industries following with 27 and 24.9 per cent, respectively.

POWERS MURDER FARM EXHIBITOR WARNED TO QUIT

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—With a grim warning ringing in his ears, Cecil "Sid" Kester, one of the promoters of the Quiet Dell "horror exhibit" made no further attempt today to rebuild a fence enclosing the murder farm after two were destroyed by an irate mob within six hours Sunday morning. A spokesman for the group of vigilantes that chased armed guards and set fire to the exhibitors' box office, appeared at the Kester home here last night and informed him that it would "not be advisable for him or any persons to attempt to operate the murder farm as a horror exhibit."

Chief C. A. Duckworth today made public a letter from Mrs. Allie Province, 6142 Suburban Ave., St. Louis, Mo., in which the woman stated positively that Powers swindled her out of $1,500 while posing as Joseph Gildau in 1924. Powers is known to have used the name of Joseph Gildau when he was residing in South Dakota at that time. The woman recognized Powers from photographs she saw in newspapers. She enclosed several photographs of Powers which he gave her in 1924.

BRITISH TRAIN BREAKS RECORD; SPEED 78 M. P. H.

Crowd in London Hails Crew of Flyer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Cheltenham flyer, a Great Western railroad train, today broke the world's railway speed record by about nine miles an hour in a lightning dash to London from Swindon, 77½ miles away, in just under one hour.

The previous record in the British empire was held by a locomotive on the Canadian Pacific railroad with a speed of 68.9 miles per hour, and the new mark is expected to work out in official calculations to slightly less than 78 miles per hour.

Hits 85 M. P. H. Clip.

The feat is considered even more remarkable because, although preparations had been made for the engineer to try to snatch the record from Canada, he was attempting to push the locomotive to do only 69.2 miles per hour, which also would have broken the record.

In order to make the required speed the train had to speed more than 85 miles per hour on part of the journey to make up for the slower stretches. The express train, which left Swindon at 3:48 p. m. and scheduled to arrive in Paddington station, London, 5:05 p. m., thundered in seven minutes early.

The train crew was given an enthusiastic welcome by railroad officials as well as a large crowd, which was attracted by the announcement that an attempt to shatter the record would be made.

Flyer Carries "Tea" Coaches.

The daily schedule of the Cheltenham flyer will henceforth be 69.2 miles per hour on the trip from Swindon to London. The regular Cheltenham-London train carries ten or twelve "tea" coaches, but no Pullmans. The locomotive executing today's feat was one of the latest "Castle" types.

FAST RUNS IN U. S.

Fast railroad runs in America include one made by a train on the Pennsylvania lines on June 3, 1905, when it traveled 50 miles at 79 miles an hour; 100 miles at 77.2 miles per hour, and 200 miles, including two stops, at 71.3 miles per hour. A New York Central train on Sunday, May 14, 1919, made a run of 133.01 miles in 1 hour 54 minues, or at a rate of 70 miles per hour.

"Death Valley" Scott's record breaking trip from Los Angeles to Chicago is also recalled. The train, chartered by Walter Scott, covered the journey in 44 hours and 54 minutes over the Santa Fé line. On a stretch of 2.8 miles the train sped at the rate of 106 miles per hour. Nineteen engineers were used on the entire run.

START NEW SUIT TO OVERTHROW ROAD WAGE LAW

Civic Organizations Unite In Attack.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—A second suit attacking the constitutionality of the prevailing wage act—charging additional social, economic, and legal objections to the statute—was filed in the Circuit court here late this afternoon. The suit is brought in the name of Misses Annie Craig Pigott and Roberta Pigott, sisters, who reside at 813 Woodbine avenue, Oak Park. The litigation is sponsored by the Civic Federation of Chicago and a group of other civic and business organizations.

The pleading seeks an injunction to restrain the state from awarding a contract for three miles of paving on the Blue Island road, in Phoenix, Harvey, and Dixmoor, suburbs of Chicago in the southern part of Cook county. Among other charges is one that the union scale, which the state has adopted as the minimum rate for paving labor in the metropolitan area, is higher than the prevailing rate for work of a similar character in the vicinity of the job.

Charge Fair Return Prevented.

Excessive wages, it is charged, deprive the plaintiffs from receiving a fair return in public improvements from their contributions to the state highway fund through payments of gasoline tax. The low bid in the project named in the suit was $97,825.65, submitted by the States Improvement company of Chicago. It is alleged that this figure is $10,000 more than the project would cost were labor employed on a scale at which Harvey men are ready and anxious to go to work.

"An excess of 10 per cent for the state's $35,000,000 annual construction program," said Attorney S. S. Duhamel, counsel in the case, "would mean that the taxpayers are losing $3,500,000 worth of improvements. Approximately 3,500 men would be deprived of work, directly and indirectly, through the curtailment of the construction program to pay exorbitant wages."

Graham Aldis, vice president of the Civic federation, issued the following statement in connection with the filing of the suit:

Gets Support of Civic Bodies.

"Convinced that if the so-called prevailing rate of wage act remains on the statute books it will result in public projects of every sort being constantly tied up by disgruntled minorities of ten or more persons, to the detriment of labor, contractors, and material manufacturers and dealers, and also will greatly increase taxes by adding to the already heavy costs of public improvements, representatives of the Illinois Agricultural association, the Illinois Manufacturers' association, the Motor Truck Owners' association, the Chicago Association of Commerce, and the Civic federation, desire to announce their sympathetic support of the litigation thus begun.

"The depletion of the limited public funds by excessive rates of pay will curtail the extent of employment that can be furnished by public works, and thus will aggravate the unemployment situation. Also the payment of such excessive rates will be manifestly unfair to all taxpayers of the state at a time when they already are overburdened."

Attorney Du Hamel said he hoped to have the petition heard by Judge Charles G. Briggle here on Wednesday when the court is scheduled to try a similar taxpayers' suit filed several days ago attacking the constitutionality of the prevailing wage act as it applies on a paving project in Madison county, near East St. Louis.

Seven Contracts Awarded.

The state highway department today announced award of seven contracts on projects for which bids were received last Tuesday. The award list does not vary from apparent successful bidders previously announced. Awards in the metropolitan area, follow:

Route 46—Superstructure for bridge over the Des Plaines river, Santa Fe and Chicago and Illinois Western railroads, northwest of Justice, Cook county, Duffin Iron Co., Chicago, $342,851.09.

Route 49—Five miles of paving at Calumet Park, Cook county, Pronger Bros. Construction company, Blue Island, $24,302.92.

Route 53—Bridge and graded approach for separation of routes 53 and 6 in Du Page county, S. J. Groves & Son, Libertyville, $70,487.65.

Route 53—Bridge and paved approaches for separation of routes 53 and 18 in Du Page county, Acme Engineering and Construction company, Chicago, $133,961.96.

Route 55—Bridge over Salt creek, south of Elmhurst, Du Page county, John C. Paskins & Co., Chicago. $29,700.58.

Panama and China Win Seats in League of Nations Council

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 14.—Somebody threw the switch today and Mexico, scheduled to roll right into a league of nations' council seat, was shunted on to a sidetrack. Panama glided into the coveted position instead to replace Venezuela, which retires. China was elected to supersede Persia on the august bench.

Rumors insist that the "big shots" of the league became nervous over the attitude of the United States if Mexico were elevated to the council after joining the organization only a couple of days ago, and some reports say that Europe's legations in Washington cabled dire warnings that the White House and state department were seriously displeased.

Aimed to Mollify Hoover.

Anyway, rather than hurt President Hoover's sensibilities, these reports insist, it was decided to be preferable to ditch Mexico and keep the President sweetened up for the big sacrifice he is expected to make as compensation for having his way about holding the international disarmament conference in February.

The President is expected by the European debtors to show his gratitude for this by extending the debt moratorium another year or so and thereby put the whole question, including reparations, off to some remote date where it will never be brought up again.

But it seems there are some other conditions which the United States must fulfill if the disarmament conference is to achieve any concrete results. Schemes are said to be in preparation in backroom conferences by the big boys here to force America to pledge herself to engage in the next war.

The project hinges around the Kellogg pact and the efforts to put teeth in it, and the selling point is extremely simple.

"Since war is outlawed, there can be no neutrality in case of another outbreak."

Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, tied up that principle in a speech which stipulated that mutual assistance in carrying out the pact must be predicated on any reduction in armaments.

Italy has promised President Hoover that the money Europe saves from the debt moratorium will not be used for armaments, and Viscount Cecil chimed in in the same strain.

Japan Crosses Fingers.

Only Japan kept her fingers crossed with a carefuly worded reservation that a country is entitled to defend itself, and thereby preserved Tokio's right to maintain her interests in China by force of arms in case her hegemony in Manchuria is interfered with.

Secret manipulations for rigging the coming conference practically have been completed, as is evidenced by the fact that M. Briand is leaving tomorrow and Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, at the end of the week.

Curtius Placates French.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Sept. 14.—In a conciliatory speech Foreign Minister Julius Curtius of Germany today did what is expected to remove much of the bad effects on the French of his address Saturday, in which he demanded a new deal in reparations and parity in armaments. The gesture was made at the annual luncheon given to the president of the assembly and the president and members of the council by the International Association of Journalists Accredited to the League.

A cartoon on the menu provided the means. It showed M. Briand as founder of the European union commission alone on the edge of a precipice, pointing with a cigaret to the promised land. A little behind him came a procession of the foreign ministers of Europe, with Dr. Curtius in the van throwing up his hands.

"Determined to Follow Briand."

Dr. Curtius, stressing the fact that all the European foreign ministers were shown moving in an orderly procession toward the common goal, declared:

"We are all determined to follow M. Briand as our leader to the promised land. My arms are thrown out not in alarm, but in enthusiasm for the goal toward which M. Briand is leading us. Only boldness can win success.

"We are firmly decided to pursue collaboration between our two countries. It is only in this way and with the aid of the league that we can hope to master the difficulties and reach the goal set by M. Briand in his moving and impressive words—the complete suppression of war."

DELAY MURDER CASE AGAINST MRS. SUMMERS

The case against Mrs. Margaret Summers, 46 years old, a widow, charged with the murder by poison of her nephew, Thomas Meyers, 17 years old, was continued yesterday to Oct. 20 by Judge Walter T. Stanton in the Criminal court. Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks agreed to continue the case on the plea of attorneys Emmet Byrne and Harold Levy, representing Mrs. Summers, that they needed more time in which to prepare their case.

Mrs. Summers appeared in court in a green flowered dress, black hat and black shoes, accompanied by her adopted daughter, Mrs. Margaret Ritti. She was 40 pounds lighter than when she went to jail.

A coroner's chemist reported finding arsenic in the body of young Meyers. Mrs. Summers, who held an insurance policy on his life, with herself the beneficiary, was indicted on a charge of murder.

HAWKS PREDICTS GREATER SPEEDS FOR PLANES SOON

New speeds, surpassing those attained by British pilots at the Schneider cup races on Sunday, will be attained by aircraft in the next three or four years, Capt. Frank M. Hawks, famous long distance speed pilot and holder of many records, predicted yesterday at Chicago Municipal airport before taking off to meet his mother at Columbus, O.

Capt. Hawks said, however, that velocities higher than 500 miles an hour will not be exceeded with out a radical change in the design of racing planes or motors, or unless the stratosphere above the earth is penetrated. The stratosphere would afford small resistance, and in that way allow greater speed, than the denser atmosphere near the surface of the earth.

STEVENS TO QUIT HOSPITAL TODAY; TALK OF DIVORCE

Ex-Wife of Broker Will Return to East.

George M. Stevens Jr., an insurance broker, will leave the Highland Park hospital this morning, attachés said last night, presumably for his father's home in Mount Vernon, N. Y., to recover from the effects of gas he took last week in his home at 188 Hazel avenue, Highland Park, while despondent over his marital troubles.

MRS. ROBERT LE CHEREQ.

His former wife, Mrs. Katherine Carqueville Stevens Le Chereq, is also expected to start east today with her husband, Robert R. Le Chereq of Cheshire, Conn. She cut short her honeymoon last week to rush to Stevens' bedside from Buffalo.

Divorce May Be Sought.

The sick man's second wife, whose name has not been divulged, had an interview with her father-in-law, George M. Stevens Sr., late yesterday and shortly afterwards Mrs. Alexander R. Carqueville, whose husband is Mrs. Le Chereq's father, said Stevens Sr. had informed her he was intending to seek a divorce for his son. It could not be learned if he had broached this subject to Mrs. Stevens.

It was said, however, that the wife promised that she would let matters stand until her husband had gained in health and spirits.

Ex-Wife Tells Plans.

These events followed a morning conference between Stevens Jr. and his former wife, to whom he is still greatly attached. The substance of this talk was reported by Mrs. Carqueville as follows:

"Katherine told him she had married a wonderful man and would continue with him. She chided him for trying to end his life and reminded him that they had agreed a divorce was the best solution. She will leave Highland Park soon."

Not long after this had been announced, Stevens' physician, Dr. G. Q. Grady, said that "as a precautionary measure" his patient was being watched twenty-four hours each day. "He is never left alone," said Dr. Grady.

Mrs. Carqueville said that Stevens was in a despairing mood when his former wife told him she was leaving.

ARREST FOUR YOUTHS AFTER SLAYING OF NEW YORK POLICEMEN

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—A roundup of all suspicious persons living in the neighborhood near East 13th street, where Sergt. Timothy Murphy was murdered early today by three gunmen, started shortly before noon when four young men were taken to police headquarters for questioning by detectives.

Police withheld their names until persons who saw Murphy killed and another policeman seriously wounded have looked them over. The four were found in an apartment in East 14th street near 3d avenue and were held purely on suspicion because they had no evident means of livelihood.

Numerous other arrests were expected during the day, for detectives have orders to bring in every suspicious person living in the vicinity.

Murphy, a veteran of twenty-four years' service, was shot down as he entered the door of a basement café in East 13th street. Responding to the screams of a woman during a holdup, he entered with his gun still in its holster. A bullet through the heart killed him instantly. He was the seventh policeman killed by gunmen since the first of the year.

It was the climax of a week-end of considerable activity for gunmen—both holdup men and gangsters—in which the police score amounted to a single arrest, made, oddly, by the driver of a patrol wagon on upper 5th avenue. One man was stabbed to death and another knifed in East 12th street an hour before the killing of the policeman.

The policeman shot by Murphy's killers was Patrolman Fred H. Knoche of the Mercer street station.

FARMERS RALLY TO FORCE DOWN LOCAL TAXES

Move Grows in Central Western States.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—A movement to force county commissioners to reduce local taxes, which is sweeping Kansas, Missouri, Minnesota, and Illinois, is attracting the attention of federal authorities in Washington. In the opinion of treasury officials, the taxpayers in general are not suffering so much from the burden of federal taxes as they are from excessive levies imposed by states and municipalities.

In Missouri the movement gained headway under the inspiration of Gov. Henry S. Caulfield who, in a public appeal, advised the taxpayers to demand relief from their local authorities. Gov. Caulfield's appeal was issued on Aug. 26. Since then taxpayers in Missouri have formed committees in many counties and demanded of the county commissioners that expenses be reduced and tax levies lowered.

Move Spreads to Kansas.

The effect of these protests was felt in half a dozen counties in Missouri and taxpayers in Kansas and Illinois followed suit, with the result that school and other local taxes have been reduced in both states.

Other states in the west are reported to be forming so-called taxpayers' protective associations and presenting their demands to the city and county authorities. The latest and most impressive uprising of taxpayers is reported from Wright county, Minnesota, where more than 3,000 farmers left their fields last Friday and forced the county commissioners to reduce proposed expenditures and promise a marked reduction in next year's taxes.

State Senator Beldin H. Loftsgarden of St. Paul, while here today, said the farmers of Minnesota were greatly interested in forcing economies and that the movement in Kansas and Missouri had a dramatic climax at the meeting in Wright county last Friday.

Tells of Unrest.

"The farmers of Minesota," he said, "are aroused and organized against excessive state and local taxes. They do not object to federal taxes, as most of them pay little or no federal taxes. But local taxes have increased greatly since the war and are from 10 to 30 per cent higher than in 1914."

Senator Loftsgarden said that he had never seen the voters of Minnesota so aroused as now and so dissatisfied with present conditions. He predicted if the election were held this year the Democrats would carry the state by a large majority.

J. F. Mackenzie, Broker, Is Sued for Divorce

Mrs. Elinor Ballinger Mackenzie, living at the Moraine hotel, Highland Park, filed a divorce bill yesterday in the Lake County Circuit court at Waukegan against John F. Mackenzie, clubman and member of the board of trade. She charges desertion. Mrs. Mackenzie asked that she be allowed to resume the name of Mrs. William Johnston Fyffe.

BANKERS GUESTS OF HOOVER; TALK OVER PROBLEMS

Advise Against Increase in Taxes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Measures for the relief of unemployment, the current business situation and suggestions for tax revision were among topics discussed at the White House tonight when President Hoover entertained members of the federal reserve bank's advisory council at dinner.

MELVIN A. TRAYLOR.

Two Chicago bankers—Melvin A. Traylor and Walter Lichtenstein—were among the group of thirteen financial experts who culminated today's sessions of the council with a discussion of current business problems with the President. Others included Gov. Eugene Meyer of the federal reserve board, Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker, friend of the President, and George M. Prince of St. Paul.

No Announcements Made.

While no announcements were made following the meeting it became known that many of the President's guests feel it would be unwise to raise taxes at this time. In the expressed opinion of one of those present, the current government financial situation could be best met by increasing the public debt instead of taxes which citizens and corporations must pay.

Whether the question of war debt revision came up for discussion was not disclosed. The President's visitors also were reticent regarding whether the discussion included the federal reserve board's future policy in the way of supplying credits abroad.

No Special Significance.

White House officials said that no unusual significance should be attached to the bankers' dinner. It was pointed out that Mr. Hoover had simply taken advantage of the presence of the banking group in Washington to bring them together around the White House dinner table. It was recalled also that several of the President's guests were members of his unemployment advisory committee. No disclosures were made regarding the unemployment discussions. For the present the White House feels there has been too much talk of depression and unemployment relief.

TYPOS TELL HOW LABOR CAN CUT UNEMPLOYMENT

Boston, Mass., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Abolition of child labor and inauguration of the five day week in industry were advanced as unemployment remedies today at the 76th convention of the International Typographical Union of North America.

James T. Moriarty, president of the Massachusetts state federation of labor, said: "Take the children between the ages of 10 and 16 years out of industry and thereby make jobs for their fathers."

Mayor James M. Curley, in welcoming the convention, urged delegates to help "stop America from wandering around in circles as it has been doing for the last two years. Faith is all right, but it will never keep a man from starving to death. The sooner that some of the preachers of 'have faith in America' put the five day week into effect the sooner starving men will be able to earn a day's pay."

BOSTON LOSES BENJ. FRANKLIN FUND DECISION

Boston, Mass., Sept. 14.—(AP)—The State Supreme court today decided against the city of Boston, on the question of control of a fund left to Boston by Benjamin Franklin.

The court ruled that although title of the fund is in the city, management and control of the fund is in the hands of the Franklin Foundation corporation. City Treasurer Edmund Dolan petitioned the court for a decision to determine whether the city or the foundation should have charge of the fund investments.

HARBORD SAYS DON'T PRESS FOR BONUS CASH NOW

Advises Legion It's Wrong Time for Action.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Maj. Gen. James Harbord, former chief of staff of the American expeditionary force, today advised the American Legion unemployment conference to avoid pressure for a bonus now.

Gen. Harbord, who now is chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, caused a flurry of apprehension among the delegates from twenty-five states by saying that he thought it utterly ridiculous for the American Legion to go to the Detroit national convention next week "with a plan for country-wide relief in one hand and a tin cup in the other."

Gen. Harbord referred to the growing sentiment among ex-service men for cash payment of the remainder of their bonus certificates which is expected to play an important part in the convention at Detroit.

Beer Would Provide Jobs.

The prohibition issue was put squarely up to the Legion when M. H. McDonough, president of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor, told the conference that legalization of beer would do more to relieve unemployment than all other relief measures combined.

The labor executive advised the conference that the return of beer would afford employment for more than 1,000,000 persons within six months after the Volstead act was modified. He asserted that legalized beer would put thousands of breweries into operation at once, afford a market for farmers' produce, and aid in frustrating the enactment of "dole" legislation.

If They Vote as They Drink.

"The coming winter is going to be the worst in history," Mr. McDonough said in introducing his beer suggestion. "I am not a press agent for breweries, but prior to 1920-'21 the brewing industry was the fifth largest in the country.

"If the incoming congress will vote as they drink they will legalize beer. I am talking from an economic point. If the law is revised there will be from 1,000,000 to 1,250,000 men employed in breweries within six months. Putting that number of men to work, think what it will mean to other industries."

The McDonough proposal was but one of scores of plans for alleviating current unemployment conditions put forward during the day.

ASKS INJUNCTION TO BAR HUSBAND FROM HER HOME

An injunction was sought yesterday against Anthony J. Schmidt, an attorney with offices at 30 North La Salle street, by his estranged wife, Mrs. Martha N. Schmidt, who charged that he removed the furniture from their home at 1225 Chase avenue, took her automobile, and made threats in an effort to drive her from the apartment. She asked that he be restrained from entering the apartment and that he be ordered to return the car to her.

Circuit Judge Otto Kerner, before whom the petition was filed, transferred it to Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude because Attorney Schmidt is an acquaintance of his, but he ordered the lawyer to stay away from the apartment.

Prof. Guzman-Barron won the high regard of the Peruvian government when he spent a considerable time there directing research in biological chemistry. He also has been in charge of some of the work of the Lasker Foundation on the Midway.

ARMY OFFICER VANISHES WITH FUNDS OF POST

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—First Lieutenant Edvard Arthur Dolph of the coast artillery corps, a graduate of West Point in the class of 1918 and the author of "Sound Off," an anthology of soldier poems, disappeared last Thursday from his station at Fort Totten, L. I., with between $7,000 and $10,000 of the funds of the post exchange, army authorities revealed today.

Lieut. Dolph left Fort Totten without permission and is believed to have taken a woman companion with him, leaving his wife and child at the post, officers said. They believed he might have been heading for Boston and thence for Canada.

"There was no loss to the post exchange," Brig Gen. Henry J. Datch said, "for Dolph was bonded for $10,000. The post exchange, which in the modern army replaces the old time canteen, conducted a large business at the fort."

QUARANTINE FOR PARALYSIS CASE AT WEST POINT

Contagious Period Over; No More Expected.

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—The United States Military academy at West Point is under quarantine because one case of infantile paralysis is under treatment there. The contagious period of incubation, fourteen days, already has passed and the authorities expect no more cases to develop, but they established the quarantine as a precautionary measure.

Whether it will affect the opening of the football season, scheduled to start with a game with Ohio Northern on Sept. 26, still was uncertain. Officers could say merely that the quarantine would be maintained until health authorities declared all danger past.

Cadet Waldemar J. Thinnes of St. Paul, Minn., a first year man, is the infantile paralysis patient. His case was not severe and he is recovering.

The quarantine affects all sightseers, who are barred from the post. Cadet dances and movies have been called off, and chapel exercises yesterday were held in the open at the base of the battle monument instead of in the chapel.

The number of infantile paralysis cases reported today in New York City for the last 48 hours shows another weekend drop in the intensity of the epidemic.

Eleven deaths brought the total since Jan. 1 to 386.

BOARD OF TRADE OPENS INQUIRY INTO WOLF DEALS

The Chicago Board of Trade opened an investigation yesterday of the grain speculations of Walter E. Wolf, embezzling manager of the coupon department of the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company, who was caught a fortnight ago with a shortage of $3,647,000 and has since been in custody of the bank's investigators.

The Board of Trade committee of three, named last Friday by James G. Murray, president, met at 3 p. m. and drafted a program of investigation. The committee members, John C. Wood, Edwin T. Maynard, and Kenneth Templeton, refused to discuss details of the meeting.

It was learned, however, that David D. Weiss, a merchant tailor and member of the board, who has admitted handling more than $1,000,000 of the bank's stolen collateral in trades for Wolf, had been summoned to appear before the committee this afternoon. Weiss has maintained that all his transactions for Wolf were in stocks, not grains.

EUROPA BREAKS A PROPELLER ON TRIP TO EUROPE

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—The outer starboard propeller of the North German Lloyd liner Europa went out of commission today and the ship will make a slow passage to Europa this trip and will not make the next scheduled voyage.

The Europa left New York at 12:30 a. m. yesterday. About 600 miles out, Capt. Nicholas Johnsen reported to the German office, which relayed the information here, that the propeller became entangled in some obstruction and ceased to function.

He did not estimate how long the crippled ship will take to make the voyage with only four screws in operation.

The Europa was to have left Bremen on Sept. 21 to arrive here on the 27th, but will not sail then in order that a complete examination of the damage may be made. The Columbus will make that crossing instead.

TAKES COMMAND

Admiral Frank H. Schofield.
[Harris & Ewing Photo.]

San Pedro Cal., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Admiral Frank H. Schofield will become commander in chief of the nation's battle force tomorrow in succession to Admiral Jehu V. Chase.

Gold braid, cocked hats and gleaming epaulettes will supply the background for the designation of Admiral Schofield as the new commander, outranked in naval circles only by Secretary Adams and President Hoover.

Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of operations for the naval bureau at Washington, will witness the ceremony.

Admiral Chase is scheduled for duty at Washington as a member of the navy general board. Admiral Schofield comes to his new post from the battle force of which he has been commander in chief the past year.

Command of the battle force will fall to Vice Admiral Richard H. Leigh, heretofore commander of battleships in the battle force. He will have the rank of full admiral.

BRITAIN STUDIES MEANS TO LOWER COSTS OF NAVY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Some British members of parliament are beginning to worry about the cost of maintaining the world's greatest navy at a time when the country is on the edge of bankruptcy.

Commander Joseph M. Kenworthy, Laborite and former naval officer, asked Sir Austen Chamberlain, first lord of the admiralty, in the house of commons today what modifications in the warship building program the government intended to make in view of the present financial situation.

Sir Austen replied that the best methods to economize on the navy are under consideration, and that he was not in position now to make any further statement. Commander Kenworthy pressed the question and asked why this decision could not be made with the same rapidity as that of other cuts. Sir Austen replied that cuts in personnel and pay already had been announced and he promised to make a statement on the building program as soon as possible.

With a majority of 57—two less than was secured by a vote of confidence last week—the national government's budget slashing bill passed its second reading in the house of commons tonight.

U. S. ARMY CHIEF CAUGHT IN "CROSS FIRE" AT FRONT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REIMS, France, Sept. 14.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the American army, was caught in the cross fire of a machine gun duel between an armored car and a nest of Senegalese spahis in the French war maneuvers on the old Champagne front today. Fragments of wadding from the blank cartidges dropped at his feet.

On the other side of the road, 100 villagers, men, women and children were watching the sham battle. Suddenly a gunner in the turrent of the car glimpsed a spahi's burnoose and swung his weapon around. The audience was directly in the line of fire with the flames and wads shooting squarely into their faces. They screamed and flattened on the ground.

Gen. MacArthur raced along the entire "front" of 30 miles today to view the various maneuvers.

HOOVER EAGER TO LEAD WORLD IN NAVAL SLASH

May Voluntarily Cut Destroyer Program.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Drastic modification of the current destroyer building program, partly as an economy move and partly as an example to the league of nations which will meet next February at the Geneva arms conference, is being given the most serious consideration by President Hoover.

Indications tonight were that the President will order the $45,000,000 destroyer building program slashed, thus effecting a saving during the next twenty-one months of upwards of $15,000,000. It is also reported that the President may halt the appropriation of funds needed to begin construction in 1932 of the sixteenth 8 inch gun cruiser.

As a result of continued pressure on the part of Great Britain evidences of cracking are visible in the traditional wall of opposition which the United States has consistently set up against all attempts to reduce the tonnage and gun calibers of battleships.

May Cut Down Size.

It became known today that the Hoover administration is giving serious thought to the question of whether it would be possible to build battleships of less than 35,000 tons, the present maximum, and arm them with guns of less than 16 inches in caliber.

Figures have been prepared for the President showing just how much money could be saved by reducing the number of destroyers scheduled to be laid down this fall or by slowing up the destroyer program. At present no destroyers are being built. Contracts, however, for the construction of eleven 1,500 ton 5 inch gunned destroyers will be let Wednesday of this week if no halting order comes from the White House.

According to information obtained today the curtailment of the meager navy program for building up toward the tonnage limits of the London naval treaty will not be dependent upon whether other nations also agree to an armament building holiday pending adjournment of the Geneva conference.

Eager for Holiday.

The administration at present is prepared to stop all destroyer contruction in event a holiday is agreed upon. Just how far this country would go in halting construction work now going on on seven 8 inch gun cruisers, one 13,800 ton destroyer, three 1,100 ton submarines and two batleships undergoing modernization has not been made clear. All indications are, however, that President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson will go as far as any other power in the way of halting naval building.

The eleven destroyers represent the only ships which the United States has authorized and appropriated for since the London treaty went into effect. If these ships are halted the United States will be completely out of modern under age destroyers long before the London treaty expires in 1936.

CITY FILES BRIEF WITH HIGH COURT IN 'L' FARE FIGHT

U. S. Tribunal Will Pass on 10 Cent Rate.

Corporation Counsel Sexton yesterday mailed to the clerk of the United States Supreme court at Washington the city's brief in its plea for dissolution of the injunction obtained by the Chicago Rapid Transit company, restraining the Illinois commerce commission from interfering with collection of a 10 cent fare on Chicago's "L" lines.

MR. SEXTON.

The "L" fare litigation started in 1928. The elevated lines denied permission in that year by the state commerce commission to raise fares from 3 for 25 cents to 10 cents straight, and to abolish the weekly passes which formerly sold for $1.25, put the rates into effect and obtained a temporary injunction in the federal court restraining the commission from interfering.

Injunction Made Permanent.

The city entered the case as an intervening petitioner. After long hearings before Roswell B. Mason, master in chancery for the District court, the injunction was made permanent in July, 1930. The present brief was prepared by Joseph Grossman, second assistant corporation counsel, and Joseph H. Veeder, special assistant corporation counsel. They will go to Washington in October for oral arguments before the Supreme court.

In taking their case into the federal court, the elevated lines contended that the old rates were confiscatory, and that continued imposition of them by the commerce commission amounted to confiscation of property without due process of law, in violation of the federal constitution.

The brief advances three arguments, all of which were presented unsuccessfully by the city before Mastery in Chancery Mason. They are:

1. There is no constitutional question involved. The elevated lines are operating under old franchises fixing their rate of fare at 5 cents. Any rate of fare in excess of that sum, fixed by the Illinois commerce commission, is not confiscatory and is binding upon the elevated lines.

Hold Valuation Is Excessive.

2. The elevated lines did not prosecute an appeal from the commerce commission's ruling in the state courts, as provided by the law organizing the rate body.

3. The valuation of $125,000,000 claimed by the lines for rate making purposes is excessive.

In connection with the last point, Assistant Corporation Counsel Grossman pointed out that although the value of the elevated lines under the traction consolidation ordinance is fixed at not more than $95,000,000, it is impossible to bring that fact to the attention of the Supreme court because the lower value was fixed after the case was in the lower federal court and was not incorporated in the record there.

Canal Board Case Is Delayed Again; May Waive Jury Trial

Preliminary proceedings against Timothy J. Crowe and those indicted with him as a result of the sanitary district pay roll extravagances of 1928 were continued yesterday by Judge Joseph B. David until Oct. 6. The possibility arose that Judge David will withdraw from the case and ask that another judge be selected rather than preside at the trial without a jury.

JUDGE DAVID.

Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, representing the prosecution, and Attorneys John L. McInerney and Albert Fink, representing the defendants, appeared before Judge David pursuant to an arrangement during the summer by which motions to quash and similar moves would be decided. Crowe, president of the sanitary district at the time involved was the only defendant present. The matter of waiving a jury was mentioned.

"Gentlemen, it is my judgment that no one judge ought to have the responsibility of passing upon the guilt of these men, and if guilty, to pass upon their sentences," Judge David informed the attorneys. "I will not be the one judge in the county to have the burden of this case.

"I have known most of these defendants for years. They are my friends and for me to pass judgment on them is entirely a different matter than presiding in a court where a jury will weigh the evidence. If it is your intention to waive a jury in this case you may come before me tomorrow and I will grant you a change of venue."

"By refusing to hear this case without a jury you are compelling us to take a change of venue but we are not asking for a change of venue now," said Attorney Fink. "We want you to preside in this case and we will let the press know why we want you."

"This case is not going to be tried in the newspapers," Judge David announced.

Prosecutor Northup advised the court that there is a case pending before the Supreme court on the subject of permitting the state to demand a jury when the defendant is willing to be tried by a judge alone. Should that be decided as the state hopes, Judge David would be relieved of his quandary, he pointed out. By agreement the case was then continued, to await the Supreme court action.

The defense attorneys said they intend to again challenge the validity of the indictment which was voted several months ago after Judge David had ruled out many of the counts of the former indictment. Attorney Fink said he was prepared to argue against the legality of evidence presented to the grand jury and to ask a ruling on his contention that the statute of limitations has given immunity to the defendants.

NAB LOAN SHARK ON COMPLAINT OF 480% INTEREST

Tell of Paying $50, Owing $21 on $20 Note.

Carl M. White, 616 Waveland avenue, a small loan dealer with offices at 35 South Dearborn street, was arrested yesterday by the racket bureau of the state's attorney's office on a charge of violation of the small loan act of Illinois. He posted a $1,000 bond for his appearance in Chicago avenue court this morning. White's money lending deals have brought him into court previously.

According to Donald Thompson and Edwin Duffey, assistant state's attorneys in charge of loan shark investigations, White is not licensed and charged excessive rates of interest. Seven witnesses will appear this morning against White.

Tells of High Rates.

Mark Creighton, 6231 Eberhart avenue, colored, who signed the complaint, said he obtained a $20 loan from White on Jan. 31. Since then he has paid interest charges amounting to $50 and at the present time still owes $21, according to the prosecutors. To obtain the loan Creighton signed a wage assignment for $24. Under the small loan act licensed brokers may charge 3½ per cent interest a month but unlicensed lenders may not charge more than 7 per cent a year. Prosecutors said White charged 480 per cent a year.

Prosecutors Duffey and Thompson questioned White. He admitted he was unlicensed and had been since 1926. When first questioned he denied running a wage loan office, saying that he only loaned sums to friends of long standing and then charged only 7 per cent a year.

Witness Denies Friendship.

"Are all of these men friends of yours?" Thompson asked, pointing to the seven complainants.

"I've known them all for years," White replied.

Creighton declared that he had never seen White previous to the making of the loan last January.

Thompson asked why White did not comply with the small loan law and become licensed.

"Under the rate of 3½ per cent a month it is impossible to make any money," White replied, according to the prosecutor. "Why on a $10 loan that would give me only 35 cents in a month. I can't comply with that and stay open."

Reopen 2 Judgment Cases.

Judge John J. Lupe yesterday reopened the cases of confessed judgments against two borrowers from the Community Trading and Loan company, 4000 West North avenue, and will hear them on Oct. 21. Investigation of the company was started by Prosecutor Duffey on charges that borrowers had been forced to pay interest of more than 600 per cent by the use of trade coupons.

The judgments were obtained against Lee V. Millikin and Grant E. Morris, conductors for the surface lines. According to the defendants, who were represented by attorneys for an amortization company, they borrowed small sums from the loan company and signed judgment notes.

For each $10 note the borrower pays one dollar for merchandise tickets which can be redeemed only when purchasing merchandise of ten times their value. If not used in 60 days the dollar becomes "liquidated damages."

TERMS FOSHAY AS RETICENT ON FIRMS' AFFAIRS

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 14.—W. B. Foshay, Minneapolis promoter, whose enterprises after rapid growth went into receivership in 1929, was pictured today as reticent in giving information regarding affairs of his firms but a consistent optimist in his descriptions of their future.

Val H. Holman, Philadelphia investment broker, testified in federal court where Foshay is on trail with six associates on charges of using the mails to defraud, that he frequently had difficulty in getting exact information regarding finances of Foshay firms.

He said that his firm sold about $5,000,000 in securities of Public Utilities Consolidated Corporation, Foshay operating subsidiary, in a period of more than a year. During that time he frequently conferred with Foshay and other officials of his companies. He identified several letters in which Foshay and others protested against being required to furnish numerous fiscal details.

MORE THEATERS BOMBED.

Two more motion picture theaters in Chicago were bombed on Sunday night. In all, five theaters have been bombed since the dispute between the Motion Picture Operators' union and the proprietors of independent theaters reached an impasse a few weeks ago.

The police have made no progress toward the punishment of the guilty. This fact is the more remarkable in view of the narrow range of probability regarding the motive which has inspired the crimes. It is one thing, of course, to know to a moral certainty who is guilty, and quite another to obtain the evidence which will prove guilt in court, but this difficulty is not insurmountable. A determined effort by a reasonably competent detective force to get the evidence would not fail.

We do not know if the new so-called Scotland Yard detail has been assigned to this investigation. If it has, the police commissioner should seriously consider disbanding the organization as not worth its salt.

The apparent meaning of these repeated outrages is that property owners are not safe in this community from attempts to intimidate them. In this respect we are not far in advance of the Balkans and China. Fortunately, the damage to property has been relatively small, but that in no sense alters the essential fact that private vengeance can be prosecuted in this city with impunity.

The suspicion will not down that the police have not succeeded because they do not want to find the guilty men. If that is the truth of the matter it may be taken for granted that the police are lax because of political interference with them in the discharge of their duty. Denials alone will not serve to remove that suspicion. The only effective reply will be the prompt arrest and conviction of the bombers and those who may have conspired with them.

THE TRAFFIC COP.

Every one who drives an automobile has encountered traffic policemen who are efficient, patient, and polite. They are the ornaments of their profession. This editorial is not about them. They are policemen. This editorial is about cops.

It is a little surprising that fault finding visitors to these shores have not commented more sharply upon the prevalence of ill mannered, badly disciplined, and abusive officers directing traffic in our cities. Even M. Duhamel seems to have missed them. That is remarkable because, though the traffic policemen outnumber the traffic cops ten to one, the traffic cop is a conspicuous figure in the landscape and every American knows him. The fact that he continues to exist is not flattering to the American democracy. The traffic cop violates most of the canons of decent behavior and outrages all our notions of how a policeman should conduct himself in relation to the public, and in spite of it he holds his job.

We are not thinking now of the officer who uses his official position to shake down the motorist. He exists, but he is relatively rare. We are not thinking, either, of the officer who will abide no infraction of the motor code and will issue a summons to court for the slightest breach of the law. We are thinking, rather, of the officer who hurls abuse, imprecations, and obscenities upon the driver who has made some slight, inconsequential, and frequently unavoidable mistake.

This driver, of course, has a perfect reply, but few drivers care to make it. He can insist upon being given a ticket. As between a few moments of rough language and the prospect of a couple of hours of waiting in a crowded courtroom for a vindication which may not be forthcoming, most drivers will accept the abuse. It is this attitude of passive acceptance, of course, which explains the continuance of the traffic cop on the corner. A nation whose citizens had more time and attention to give to public affairs would long since have ended the nuisance.

The traffic cop is the bully at his worst, but he is a bully who is protected from any sort of retort in kind, either verbal or physical. To tell him the truth about himself is likely to make him the more abusive; and to slap him down is to commit the somewhat serious offense of resisting an officer.

The existence of traffic cops on the police force of a city is evidence of incompetence at the head of the department. A good police department would not tolerate impudence on the part of its officers in their relations with the public. The policeman would be required either to warn and instruct the offending motorist or to arrest him. To abuse the citizen is to create a measure of ill will against all policemen which is often reflected in the verdicts of juries. Many a citizen whose notions about policemen have been acquired by observation of the traffic cop at work will regard every policeman as unworthy of belief and an enemy. That is one reason why police testimony generally carries little weight in our courts. Perhaps the traffic cop is to be credited also with the frequent failure of juries to convict gunmen charged with killing policemen.

VETERANS AND RELIEF.

The tendency of veterans' committees to organize demands for special contributions at this time from the national treasury should be discouraged by the self-respecting rank and file. It is not in their interest in the long run. Veterans are citizens who deserve first consideration, but they should not permit their representatives to abuse the disposition of the American people generally to accord it. So far as they are in need, beyond the aid already given them, they can afford to take their place at this time with other needy citizens for whom both the government and private agencies throughout the nation are strenuously organizing relief. To press for special contributions at a time when there is such widespread need will bring about a reaction in public sentiment, which all friends of the veterans would regret. Certainly men who have given their service for the defense of their country deserve special consideration, and they have been given it. But there are reasonable limitations, even to this commendable principle, and the leaders of veterans' organizations should be the first to respect them.

JUSTICE AND DRY LAW OUTRAGES.

A Buffalo youth who charges three federal dry agents with beating him has taken the proper course and brought civil action for damages in the state court where they belong. But the cases have been promptly removed to the federal court by the U. S. district attorney, who will defend them as well as a criminal action for assault.

The excuse offered for this proceeding is that there is much feeling against the agents, and the implication is that the state court of Chautauqua county cannot or will not protect the defendants in their constitutional rights.

The implication ought to be extremely offensive to the judiciary of New York state as well as to the people of Buffalo who elect their judges and rely upon them to do their duty as upright officials and honest men. The pretense that public opinion in Buffalo is so inflamed and so irresponsible as to overwhelm the state court or pervert its justice seems to us extremely flimsy. A similar theory has been used throughout the country to justify the dry law enforcement policy of extenuating the worst excessives and protecting lawbreaking agents from prompt and vigorous prosecution. Public indignation is inevitably aroused whenever these wrongs occur, and that it should be used by the federal government as an excuse for intervention is not the least of the evils of a fanatic ruled régime. What could be more certain to breed that contempt for the law of which prohibition propaganda is accusing all opponents of prohibition lawlessness and outrage?

AIR RECORDS.

Recent statements on American speed records in the air seem to require correction, including that which gave Bayles' average time of 236 miles per hour over the 100 mile Thompson trophy course as a new American record for a closed course. This, says Mr. Sexton, TRIBUNE aviation editor, is incorrect, "as Al Williams, navy ace, flew the Pulitzer trophy closed course at St. Louis in 1923 at an average speed of 243 m. p. h. and Lieut. Cy Bettis, army air corps, flew the Pulitzer trophy closed course at Mitchel field in 1924 at 247 m. p. h. The latter speed is the highest closed course speed ever flown in the United States. This is in line with Williams' American speed record for land planes of 266 m. p. h., which is still standing, although it was made years ago."

Our remarks on the British achievement in speed, however, remain valid.

WEATHER KNOWLEDGE.

Weather reporting was established and developed in this country as an aid to shipping and to farming. The application of scientific method and operation to these practical uses has been increasingly valuable, no doubt, but with the coming of aviation it has entered a new field of service and will be expected to solve new and difficult problems. To meet its new responsibilities it must extend its research and develop greatly improved facilities. But its first requirement is a frank recognition of present inadequacies. The tendency of the official to find alibis for failures, to resent criticism and suggestion, and to resist novelty or change is operative even among a scientifically trained personnel, and must be counteracted, if weather reporting is to advance in efficiency even approximately with our advance in aviation. The latter has been very rapid and already is one of our major activities. A network of air lines is covering the continent and individual aviators are multiplying in number. To provide for this swiftly expanding activity a corresponding system of weather reporting is essential, both for the protection of life and for efficiency of commercial transport. The organization of such a system must not be retarded by official inertia. It is the most urgent need of aviation at this stage.

Editorial of the Day

A FALSE CONTENTION.

[The Grand Rapids Press.]

The contention of the railroads that increased freight rates will result in large increases in revenues is not borne out by the evidence of a decade ago, which seems to be ignored in the general rate controversy.

In the first four months of 1920 the aggregate gross freight revenues of the railroads amounted to $1,204,189,787. After the general freight rate increases of that year the aggregate freight revenues for the first four months of 1921 amounted to $1,234,699,639, an increase of only 2.4 per cent over the similar period of 1920 in spite of the fact the rate increases had been as high as 40 per cent. In the first four months of 1922 the revenues amounted to $1,214,947,775, an increase of less than 1 per cent over the 1920 period.

It was not until the rates had been reduced and business conditions improved that the carriers entered a period of prosperity. This instance showed that high rates in depression are of little value to the carriers and that their only real hope of improvement lies in reasonable rates and good business. The argument that the 1920 rate increases resulted in prosperity for the roads and in stimulation of business is not supported by the facts.

It has never been shown, an economist declared before the interstate commerce commission recently, that the way to increase business is to increase expenses.

WHEN IS A MAN DRUNK?

PROF. A. R. KING indorses the opinion held by most physicians that man is made drunk by one drink. He answers the question—When is a man drunk? by—Shortly after taking his first drink.

The question—Is a man drunk? should be changed to—How drunk is a man? The practical question is one of degree.

The highest mental quality under consideration is capacity for self-criticism. The effect of alcohol on the brain is usually a loss of this capacity. The individual loses that sense of detachment and fine ability to weigh and value that enter into the excellence of a good mind. The man who takes a drink, and loses that for the moment, is drunk to that degree.

A loss of certain inhibitions follows second in the list of effects of alcohol. The loss of these inhibitions marks a second level of drunkenness. Sense of humor he ranks third in importance, and loss of it marks a third level of inebriety. A drunken man may be very funny to others, and often is, but he has either lost capacity for humor, temporarily, or else it is thrown out of all balance. A fourth level is a loss of quick reaction to stimuli; and a fifth is drowsiness. All of this relates to the intelligence. A man may be drunk in his intelligence without being intoxicated in other departments of his being.

Next lower in the scale, as Dr. King arranges them, are the disturbances of motor and sensory control. As the ordinary man increases in drunkenness, manifestations of his intoxication begin to appear in this lower level. Among these are thick tongue, and such disorders of speech as impediments, repetition of words, painful particularity, repetitions. Or, the gait becomes affected, causing staggering. It is said the man is "drunk in his legs." Disturbance of equilibrium and inaccuracy of movement belong in this class. Among the sensory disturbances are seeing double and rumbling in the ears.

People are generally able to recognise drunkenness on this level, and rarely do they confuse it with anything else.

Heavy sleepiness, when not excited, lies at about the extreme of this group of effects of alcohol. In fact, it merges into Dr. King's third great head: Effects on instinct and emotion. These he terms "complete anesthesia of instinct and emotional impulses." The ordinary name for drunkenness of this degree is "dead drunk."

PROBABLY IS LUMBAGO.

G. C. writes: Every morning when I get up I have a pain in my back around the left kidney. After I am up for about an hour it goes away.

REPLY.

The probability is that you are subject to lumbago or rheumatism of the muscles of the back in the lumbar region. Lumbago is more amenable to treatment than is rheumatism in general. It is often cured by change in some habit, removal of some simple cause, and the use of simple domestic procedures.

A NEW EXPERIENCE.

L. M. N. writes:

1. My 8 week old infant has severe twitching of the toes, most noticeable when she is taking her bottle. Also, when she cries, her arms and legs thrash around almost as if she had no control of them. What is the cause of this, and the cure? She is in excellent health, has gained three pounds and four ounces since birth, and her formula agrees with her as she does not regurgitate.

2. You mentioned tetany in a recent article. Could this be it?

REPLY.

1. My guess is that this is your first experience.

2. I don't think so, but if you suspect it, have your physician decide.

EXECUTOR'S RIGHTS.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My grandfather died in June, 1930, a resident of Indiana. He left an estate properly divided by will, leaving me a small cash bequest. He specified in his will that the cash for all debts and the cash bequest had been deposited in an Indiana bank, naming the bank executor of his estate. Early in July, 1930, this banker, upon request, paid me half, stating the balance would be paid as soon as he was satisfied of no other debts. I have tried time and again to get the balance, but am now advised "the court is not in session" and that he will settle as soon as possible. 1. Doesn't the Indiana law compel settlement when no contest is made after one year? 2. What would any court have to do in a case like this? 3. What should I do? M. B. N.

1. An executor is entitled to insist on getting court approval of his final account before he distributes. You can bring pressure to bear upon him to apply for such approval.

2. Approve the account.

3. Wait until court is in session.

A NOISY GATHERING.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—[Friend of the People.]—We live in the vicinity of the Langland public school, located between Leavitt and Oakley. There are a number of boys ranging from 10 to 16 years of age who hang out in the school grounds and are a menace to the neighborhood. They get drunk, disturb the peace, insult women and young girls, and use language that is intolerable. They destroy property and otherwise make life unbearable for the neighborhood. Can't something be done about this? B. A.

A patrolman was assigned to investigate and he made frequent visits to and around the Langland school, Leavitt and Oakley avenues, and broke up ball games and dispersed all the young men found hagging around. We will continue to give this place special attention with the view of preventing further complaints. JOHN H. ALCOCK, Acting Commissioner of Police.

PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX.

Maywood, Ill., Sept. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you please give me some information in regard to personal property taxes? 1. What amount am I exempt from? 2. What amount must I earn a year? 3. How much do they allow you to have in the way of furniture in the house? C. H.

1. There is no exemption from the personal property tax.

2. We do not understand the question.

3. See No. 1.

GUESS WHAT WEEK THIS IS! Better and Bigger Jails? Nope. Hot Dog Sandwiches and More Mustard Week? Nothing like it. Wear Cotton Nighties and Undies Week? Not at all. This is National Constitution Week. And it's darned near time. After all, these more or less United States of America have got a constitution, and it's a good thing we've been able to sneak in a week between Eatta Peanut a Day Week and Plant Wheat in Your Window Box Week, when we're supposed to pay a little attention to the constitution. The constitution is a grand document, but it's been so plastered over with amendments that we've forgotten about it. We can no longer see the constitution for the amendments. But if you can make your way through the amendments you'll come to the constitution. And it's worth digging down to. The only fault in the constitution was that the fathers of this country didn't write at the bottom of it, "Hands Off!" or "Use No Hooks!" or "Detour. Men Working!" or something like that. But, anyhow, it's a great thing to have a National Constitution Week to find out that this country has got something to guide it instead of amendments, amendments to the amendments, and amendments to the amendments to the amendments. Back of all those amendments there's a constitution, and if we think hard on that for a week maybe we'll commence to believe it.

SUNSET ON THE TRAIL.

Earth laid a finger on her smiling lips
And gently signaled, "Hush!"
(I think 'twas in September, Moses saw God, in the burning bush.)

At the slow closing of our raptured day
We, like that seer of old,
Beheld Him in the glory streaming wide
From colors manifold.

We watched His golden chariots course within
The fiery sunset's glow,
With orange banners streaming high above
His trumpeters below.

Slowly the pageant passed: we heard a sound
Of bugles blown afar,
The groping fingers of the twilight reached
And lit the evening star.

The air grew very still: small man-made things
Receded from our sight,
The shadows tiptoed, and around us drew
The curtains of the night.

. . . . . .

But in that brief transcendence we had seen
A rending of the veil
That hides the Presence from our longing eyes
That holds us from the Grail.

WE GREATLY FEAR that report of the Mississippi river being below the lowest water mark in its history, a new low, as they say on Wall street, will have a sad result. Somebody down in Washington will say: "Why, the government should save the Mississippi river. It is a nice river and looks well on the map; let a commission be appointed at once." Then the newspapers will take it up and before long a commission will be appointed to have the government save the Mississippi, just as it saved corn and wheat and cotton. Which means that people along that historic waterway will soon have to go out in the morning with lawn sprinklers so as to keep even a little bit wet.

CHARLEY, as we've told you, promised us a brick of that patent concentrated wine stuff that is guaranteed to make a gallon of the finest port, Rhine wine, claret, moselle, champagne, or anything you want. (Only, for heaven's sake, don't stir it! If you stir it the darned stuff will develop alcohol and have a kick like an army mule.) We asked Charley to get us a brick or two or three when he went around to get his regular supply on Saturday, but yesterday he reported that the line waiting at the wine brick counter was so long that after an hour and a half he gave it up, and telephoned. "Sold out!" said a voice at the other end of the wire that was hoarse from saying "sold out." "We've been turning 'em away all day. And the next two shipments is sold out. Leaveyourname andaddressgoodby!" So we haven't got our wine brick yet. But we'll get it yet, as soon as the excitement dies down. (And how hard we are going to struggle not to stir it. Oh, mercy! We wouldn't think of stirring it!)

WASHINGTON, D. C. — "Unless Germany demonstrates that it intends to keep faith with the United States, and that noncombatants on peaceful merchant vessels are to be safe in the submarine war zone, President Wilson will feel constrained to sever diplomatic relations with Berlin." This statement was made by a high administration official who enjoys the confidence of the President, and whose utterances on ..icial affairs frequent' are inspired by Mr. Wilson himself. The President steadfastly refuses personally to disclose his views of the controversy with Germany for publication.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex.—Despite orders given by the military and precautions taken for the safety of Mexican suspects arrested after the bandit attack on United States troopers at Turner's ranch, six of the prisoners were summarily executed in Cameron and Hidalgo counties during the 24 hours following the battle. The bodies of three of the twenty or more Mexicans locked up in the small frame jail at San Benito were found lying beside the road two miles east of the town.

BUFFALO. — Funeral formalities and the outward manifestations of a nation's grief are all that now remain. With these over the curtain falls on the third great tragedy in the annals of American Presidents and that tragedy and the career in the life of William McKinley will pass into history. President McKinley was doomed to death from the moment the bullet, fired by the assassin, Czolgosz, entered his body. This fact was developed at the autopsy when it was found that the entire course of the bullet was lined with gangrene, and that this caused death. Whether the bullet was poisoned intentionally by the anarchist, or whether grease and dirt combined with the lead formed poison sufficient to form the complications is not known. The physicians differ on this point.

President Roosevelt in taking the oath of office struck the keynote of his administration, pledging himself to carry out the plans and policies of his predecessor in the following statement: "In this hour of deep national bereavement I wish to state that it shall be my aim to continue absolutely unbroken the policy of President McKinley for the peace, prosperity and honor of our beloved country." The taking of the oath came at the end of an arduous journey covering over 400 miles. When notified that President McKinley was dying Mr. Roosevelt was hunting on Mount Marcy, in the Adirondacks. He was found after hours of search by a posse of guides. Then followed a 22 mile horseback ride and a 35 mile drive over a dangerous mountain road to North Creek, where a special train was waiting to bring him to Buffalo. The oath of office was administered by Judge Hazel of the United States District court.

NEW YORK — A dispatch from Washington to Gen. Hancock at his headquarters on Governor's island says that formal charges against Sergt. Mason of the army for attempting to shoot Guiteau in his cell had been prepared and are on the way to Hancock.

CHICAGO.—The Chicago fair seems at last to have entered upon what promises to be a successful show. The attendance yesterday was fully 10,000 and there was a magnificent display of fancy cattle and thoroughbred horses. Miss Belle Cook of California won the twenty mile race over Miss Emma Jewett of Minnesota. There were nine horses for each rider. Miss Cook changed horses every mile except the third, seventeenth, and nineteenth, while Miss Jewett made only eleven changes.

CHICAGO.—Forty women met in Farwell hall for the purpose of offsetting by their prayers any possible evil results which might come from the saloonkeepers' state convention, in session at Bloomington.

THE JAPANESE QUOTA.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—I read your editorial of Sept. 1 entitled "The Quota System for Asiatics," in which you favor putting Asiatics on the quota basis on the ground that the number which would enter the country on that basis would be very small—namely: 185 Japanese and 105 Chinese—and that we ought not to endanger our relations with Japan and China "out of respect to fears and objections so slightly supported by the quota plan."

But suppose the quota plan is abandoned: President Hoover, Commissioner General of Immigration Harry E. Hull, and other influential persons are opposed to the quota and favor selective immigration on the individual basis. It makes no difference that no one could tell how any selective system would work by which say 150,000 immigrants out of 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 applicants would be selected each year by 40 or 50 consuls; the selective basis has powerful support which so far has been impervious to the very obvious and fatal defects of the plan. Suppose the quota system is abolished and we have selective immigration, leaving it to the consuls to pick out by their "hunches," for that is all they could do, the 150,000 that they favor out of the 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 applicants. The result would be that if the administration at the time was lenient on the subject of Asiatic immigration, the whole 150,000, or a large part, could come from China and Japan. We would have abandoned our well considered policy of exclusion and we would have no excuse for cutting down the number of Japanese and Chinese under any selective basis.

The present law is reasonable and fair. It says that immigrants who are ineligible to citizenship are ineligible as immigrants, and from 1790 the people of the yellow race have been ineligible to citizenship. It was not adopted as an insult or slap at Japan, but simply because the Japanese are of a different race, and it was felt that to allow them to enter the country would inevitably create another race problem. When we tell the Japanese that they are of a different race and we exclude them simply because they are different and not inferior, we do not insult them. In fact, I myself have a very high opinion of their civilization and abilities, but I know that their introduction in this country would cause grave social and racial problems exactly as in the introduction of Americans into Japan would cause grave social and racial problems.

BANK AUDITS.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—In today's TRIBUNE Mr. Smart states that individuals of sufficiently high caliber are not attracted to the ranks of bank examiners, due to salary limitations and other unfavorable conditions. He suggests that independent audits be made by qualified accountants in addition to the work of the state and national bank examiners.

It is my opinion that there are sufficient C. P. A.'s available for appointment to the staffs of the auditor of public accounts or national bank examiner who would be willing to accept present salary levels. Thus the depositors and stockholders of banks could have the services of certified public accountants without the additional expense necessitated by Mr. Smart's suggestion.

FOOTBALL RECEIPTS FOR CHARITY.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—The payment of nearly $45,000 into Gov. Emmerson's relief fund as a result of the charity game played between the Cubs and White Sox Wednesday last should prove an incentive to the directors of other athletic activities to do everything in their power to ease the unemployment situation.

During the past three decades the people of Chicago and Cook county have by their patronage liberally supported the football teams of the University of Chicago and Northwestern university, with the result that both institutions have been enabled to build great stadiums and place their football teams on a paying basis.

In view of the fact that the city and county are face to face with a different unemployment problem it would demonstrate an appreciation of public support if both universities would turn over to the governor's Cook county relief fund all moneys over and above actual operating expenses received at Big Ten football games played at Chicago and Evanston during the 1921 season.

A BROTHER'S LIFE.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—I have just read Mr. Felix Coune's letter appearing in your issue of Sept. 1, captioned "Away from the Beach." Only recently I suffered the great misfortune of losing my beloved brother, through drowning, at the identical location Mr. Coune complains of having been sent away from by a Lincoln park policeman. Five precious lives have been lost in this vicinity since July 1 despite diligent effort on the part of the Lincoln park police to restrain the general public from bathing in this dangerous locality. Not until these people who persist in violating the rules and regulations laid down by the police have suffered the sorrow that comes when one of their own has been lost will they be able to appreciate the wisdom in the prohibiting of bathing where it is so dangerous. My brother is gone, but I hope and pray that his untimely loss will serve to restrain others from jeopardizing their lives and in turn spare their families the sorrow that follows. The Lincoln park police should be whole-heartedly supported in their effort to banish the bather from this particular area.

ANNA L. ZWEIG.

FOR ANOTHER HOLIDAY.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—In these days of mass production we need more holidays, especially during the summer months. There are holidays the first week in July and the first week in September, but there are none the first week of August, when we need a holiday most. This holiday should fall on the first Monday in August, and I was about to suggest that a contest be run and a name awarded for the best suggestion for a name for this August holiday, but I just happened to think that "the most priceless thing in all this world is leadership," and that we need a holiday dedicated to leadership. When I say "leadership" I mean it in religion, industry, and politics. F. J. STIPPS.

HUNT SPEEDING HIT-RUN DRIVER IN AUTO DEATH

Goes Through Lights and Kills Pedestrian.

The police last night were seeking the driver of an automobile which yesterday struck and killed Julius Mashnowsky, 55 years old, owner of a restaurant at 935 North State street. The accident occurred when the motorist failed to stop for a traffic light at Oak and La Salle streets. The driver did not stop. Witnesses said he was traveling at a high rate of speed.

Mashnowsky was tossed ten feet into the air and thrown almost across the pavement. His skull was fractured and he suffered internal injuries. He died an hour later at the Henrotin hospital.

Passes Another Light.

Sherman Jensen, 1039 North La Salle street, a witness, said the driver also ran past a red light at Division street.

Joseph Chelnitsky, 52 years old, 837 Lee court, was another victim of a hit and run driver. He was fatally injured last night at Western and Haddon avenues.

John Sposato, 65 years old, 4310 Lexington street, a third victim of a hit and run motorist, died in the county hospital yesterday from injuries suffered on Wednesday. He was run down at 4205 West Harrison street. A witness gave a license number to the police and J. A. Fisher, 2551 West Harrison street, was arrested.

The body of another supposed victim of a hit and run driver, found on Sunday at 3538 South State street, was identified yesterday as Thomas Duell, 51 years old, 6309 Wentworth avenue.

Other Deaths Reported.

The three deaths yesterday and two others brought the Cook county toll for the year to 853. The other victims:

Elliott Meyers, 3 years old, 4870 North California avenue. Died in the Swedish Covenant hospital after being struck in front of his home by the motor truck of Peter Debonedito, 1311 Drummond place. The driver was held.

Mary Jane Thorne, 12 years old, 7710 New England avenue. Killed when she was struck by an automobile which ran over the curbing to the sidewalk at Diversey and Newcastle avenues. The driver, Charles P. Pfander, 4421 Greenview avenue, told police his car was struck from behind and forced on the sidewalk by a truck, driven by Peter Giordano, 1733 Girard street. Both men were held.

VOTE TO INDICT MISSING BANKER AS EMBEZZLER

MRS. MARIANA ARIANI.

Savario Ariana, missing president of the closed First Italian State bank, 1201 Taylor street, was reported to have been named in a true bill yesterday by the grand jury charging embezzlement of $138,335. The banker's bond, in case he is apprehended, will be set at $50,000, according to the report.

Five witnesses appeared before the jurors—three employés of the bank and two examiners from the office of State Auditor Oscar Nelson. They were presented by Assistant State's Attorney Henry E. Ayers, who is in charge of the investigation into closed banks.

No action was taken against Mrs. Mariana Ariani, cashier of the bank and wife of Ariana, and two sons, Carlo and Romolo, who are being held as witnesses, according to reports.

Prosecutor Ayers declared he is confident Ariana will give himself up because his family is in difficulty.

State Auditor Nelson revealed that Ariani had been a private banker until 1927, when he was ordered under the law to organize his concern as a state or national bank. Examination under a previous administration found the private bank sound and Ariani was licensed. Except for the missing cash and depreciation of foreign bonds held by the bank, examiners found it in "surprisingly good condition."

Defunct Waukegan Bank Stockholders Are Sued

An amended bill to enforce double liability on the part of past and present stockholders in the defunct Waukegan State bank was filed yesterday in the Circuit court at Waukegan in behalf of Probate Judge Martin C. Decker, of Lake county. The bill is in the nature of a creditor's proceedings.

The original bill filed June 19, two days after the bank closed, listed ninety stockholders. The amended bill adds forty names, as drawn up by Attorney Wilbur Brazell. Among them are Charles Castle, Ward Castle, George Woodruff, Lucius Teter, Hugo Otte, Edward Forgan, Milton Smith, James Reeves, William Wandel.

According to Attorney Brazell, the Castles, Woodruff, Teter, Otte, and Forgan were trustees for the National Investment Trust company, a holding company, of the National Bank of the Republic. Letters and records obtained from the Waukegan bank show, he asserts, that the National Investment trust had held 767 shares of stock in the Waukegan bank, and had turned over altogether 775 shares to a board of trustees of the Waukegan bank. This board includes Wandel, Reeves, and Smith.

The bill asks that Attorney Frederick B. Whitney, now receiver for the Waukegan bank, be named receiver for the creditors.

Continue Grand Jury Inquiry.

The Lake county grand jury investigating the affairs of the defunct bank met during the day at Waukegan. Charles Bond and John Macon, auditors for the grand jury, were reported to have testified that their audit revealed the bank was insolvent on Sept. 20, 1930. They are also said to have testified that $200,000 listed as deposits in the bank's report of Dec. 31, 1930, was in reality money due the National Bank of the Republic, and that $550,000 listed as deposits on March 31 was also money due the Chicago bank.

State Auditor Nelson in his recent appearance before the grand jury declared the bank was solvent last fall, in his judgment. Mr. Nelson is to make a second appearance before the jurors tomorrow. He has been reported named in a true bill charging misfeasance.

Other witnesses were C. P. Peach, who was chief bookkeeper of the National Bank of the Republic, which is now merged with the Central Trust company as the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, and Carl R. Stenger, former chairman of the board of the Waukegan bank.

Witness Is Dismissed.

Peach was dismissed when he appeared without records of the Chicago bank relating to its dealings with its correspondent, the Waukegan bank. Stenger was said to have amplified his testimony of last week on the relations between the Chicago bank and the Waukegan bank.

Peach is to return with records tomorrow. Other witnesses scheduled to be heard tomorrow are Joseph Stehger, former cashier of the Waukegan bank, and Lucius Teter, former director of the National Bank of the Republic. State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county has declared the jury may return indictments on Friday.

RAIN BREAKS HOT WAVE AFTER 7 SWELTERING DAYS

Rains broke the prolonged heat wave yesterday. Coming on the seventh day of the hot spell in Chicago, the rain sent the mercury from 84 at 1 p. m. to 75 at 4 p. m. and below 70 at midnight.

Showers were reported in Iowa, Wisconsin, northern Illinois, northern Missouri, and Minnesota. There was some rain as far east as the Atlantic seaboard, although in New York City the official temperature rose to 88, twenty degrees above the normal temperature for Sept. 14. It was the tenth day of excessive temperatures at Lincoln, Neb., during which the mercury ranged from 93 to 103 degrees.

A cool wind from the northwest brought rain to Chicago. W. P. Day, government forecaster, predicted thunder showers for toda.

School Heads Act on Plan to Redeem $250,000 Scrip

Attorneys for the school board were instructed yesterday, following a conference of President Lewis E. Myers with Secretary Charles E. Gilbert to draw up legal notices preparatory to redeeming $250,000 worth of scrip as voted by the trustees at the last meeting. The cash is derived from summer school tuitions. The scrip is to be redeemed in the order in which it was issued. The payments will be made in about two weeks through the city treasurer's office, it was announced.

At what age is a man in his prime?

Many a young man old before his time

EVERYBODY will tell you something different. Some people are past their prime by the time they're forty. A few never know what it's like to feel in their prime. And then you talk to some hale and hearty man of 65, and he'll tell you he's been in his prime as long as he can remember.

"I'm still fit as ever," he will declare. "What's more, I expect to be for some years to come. I may not chase around quite as much as I used to. But I keep myself in first-class shape, just the same—thanks to Nujol. Nujol is the habit of a life-time with me.

"It's all a matter of how well you feel. And that's largely a matter of keeping your system in good working order. Living by regular schedule.

"Nujol helps things function like clockwork. Makes everything normal and regular, just as Nature intends it to be. Nujol is not a medicine. It contains absolutely no medicine or drugs. So it can't possibly upset or disagree with anybody.

"It's just a pure natural substance. It not only keeps an excess of body poisons from forming (we all have them), but aids in their removal.

"It's these poisons that sap your health and energy, slow you up, make you old before your time."

Years don't count

The same thing holds true for women, too. They need a natural aid like Nujol just as much, if not more than men. For there are so many physical conditions they have to go through that throw them off balance—upset their normal schedule.

Start the Nujol habit now—no matter whether you're only 20, or whether you're getting on in years. Buy a bottle today. You'll find Nujol at all drug stores. Perfected by the famous Nujol Laboratories, 2 Park Ave., New York City. Sold only in sealed packages, never in bulk.

Keep up the treatment for the next three months—faithfully—and you'll never want to go back to just trusting to luck again.

THE "hair root" (papilla) rarely dies. Even in long-standing cases of baldness this inactive source of hair growth is alive and ready to respond to proper scientific stimulation. Thomas' treatment skillfully supplies this necessary stimulation and makes it possible for hair to push through the scalp and again grow normally. Local scalp disorders—such as extreme dryness or oiliness, dandruff, or irritable itching—which cause the "hair roots" to become inactive, are readily overcome by Thomas' treatment.

Sixteen years of success and more than a quarter-million satisfied clients recommend Thomas' scalp treatment. It is physiologically sound—it produces positive benefits. Thomas' can help you, too, to end dandruff, stop falling hair, or to re-grow hair on the thin or bald spots. Call today for a free scalp examination. NEW TRIUMPH in OIL BURNERS

Created by the world's oldest and largest oil heating organization

Ideal, radiant heat harnessed for the first time with latest PETRO-NOKOL Rotary Oil Burner. New and greater economy in heating homes.

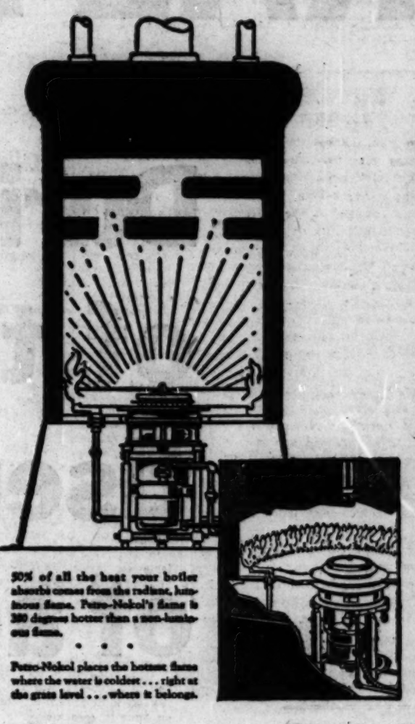
• • •

It's here... on display today... the greatest achievement in the history of heating homes with oil! Radiant heat has been put to work by a simple rotary burner using the lower priced fuel oils. Never before has this been done by any burner selling as low as $295!

RADIANT HEAT CUTS COSTS

The moment you see this remarkable oil burner in operation, you will realize why it is so much more economical. So utterly dependable. So perfectly quiet. Radiant heat... the same intense heat you feel from the summer sun... is the ideal form of heat. No smoke. No odor. No visible sign. Just pure heat rays. To harness these and put them to work in your boiler is the supreme achievement of Petro-Nokol engineers.

At 60 miles an hour... through two panes of glass... on the coldest day ... you can feel the radiant heat of a bon-fire 50 feet away from the truck!



50% of all the heat your boiler absorbs comes from the radiant, luminous flame. Petro-Nokol's flame is 300 degrees hotter than a non-luminous flame.

• • •

Petro-Nokol places the hottest flame where the water is coldest... right at the grate level... where it belongs.

Your own boiler was designed to take advantage of radiant heat. As much as 50% of all the heat your boiler absorbs comes from the luminous radiance of the flame. This new Petro-Nokol gives you this fuel-saving radiant flame every moment the burner is operating.

MORE HEAT WITH LESS FUEL

But that is not all. Not only is this radiant flame much hotter than a non-luminous flame, but it is located where it should be... right at the grate level. That's where the coldest water is found in the boiler... and everyone knows that cold water absorbs heat faster than warm water. In this way Petro-Nokol cuts your fuel bill still lower.

So much oil is available that home owners are assured of an abundance of low price fuel oil for a generation at least. And this new Petro-Nokol Radiant Rotary uses the very grades of oil of which there is the greatest over supply.

SAVE ON DOMESTIC HOT WATER, TOO

While you are heating your home for less than with other fuels, you can also enjoy all the domestic hot water for bath and kitchen you can use. Winter and summer. As hot as you want it... at a lower cost than with any other automatic system. A special heating element which operates with the Petro-Nokol makes this possible.

You will want to see this new Radiant Rotary Oil Burner... that surpasses in economy, simplicity and quietness last year's model that broke all sales records. With all its new advantages... the price remains the same... $295. And a $25 deposit starts it working in your heating plant... saving you money... giving you new, undreamed of comfort... and complete relief from all care of your heating plant. Be sure to see it today!

WE SUPPLY THE OIL, TOO!

By supplying both the oil burners and the fuel oil, our responsibility to you is undivided. This assures you of the right oil for your burner and the right burner for your home.

Our fleets of fast, modern trucks deliver oil on a day and night schedule. See your Petro-Nokol dealer today for complete oil heating service.

Fully automatic to burn cheaper oil

$295 is the price of a complete installation (without tank) for a small house. The size, type and cost of an efficient oil burner installation varies just as greatly as the type, size and cost of heating plants and the houses themselves. We have thousands of our automatic oil burners in various size houses installed completely with tank for as low as $390—$450—$525—$675 (depending upon requirements) and on up to a recent commercial installation amounting to $55,000. All approved by leading safety underwriters.

Our new Petro Automatic Boiler for oil or gas has the burner sealed and concealed inside a beautiful cabinet, in a variety of rich colors, as automatic and service-free as a modern refrigerator. Saves ⅓ to ¼ on fuel. See it today!

Garland Paints Other Authors in New Book

'Companions of the Trail' Out Today.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Companions on the Trail," by Hamlin Garland. [Macmillan.]

PUBLISHED today, all ready for a special present to their author tomorrow morning for his seventy-first birthday, is "Companions on the Trail," which carries on Mr. Garland's reminiscences from the point recorded in his "Roadside Meetings" (which chronicled his literary affairs from 1884 to 1899). "Companions on the Trail" is a record of the author's literary friendships and wanderings from 1900 to 1914. For most of the years of his literary life Hamlin Garland kept a diary in which he set down his impressions of the people he met, the books he read, the places he visited. "Companions on the Trail," like the preceding volume, is made up of extracts from those diaries and elaborated comment upon them. The result is a leisurely attractive record of the literary life of the beginning of the century, especially interesting in its comments—recorded at the time. Nothing can better give the flavor of the volume than a few extracts. For instance, Mr. Garland wrote Jan. 27, 1900, about Paul Leicester Ford, whose "Janice Meredith" was a best seller of the day:

"At McClure's 'plant' today I met Paul L. Ford, the historian, a quaint, peculiar man with a reedy voice. He was not as deformed as I had imagined him to be, and his manner was jovial and debonair. . . . His head is small and shapely, not out of proportion to his body, as is so often the case with dwarfs. He suggested a handsome young man seen through the wrong end of an opera glass."

Frank Norris, author of "The Pit," Garland described at his first meeting in 1894 as "a stunning fellow—an author who does not personally disappoint his admirers. He is perilously handsome, tall and straight, with hazel-brown eyes and beautifully modeled features. His face is as smooth as that of a boy of twenty, but his hair is almost white."

Of Henry James, whom he met in 1894, Garland wrote: "He was much more alert, much younger, and more democratic in manner than I had expected him to be. He was, indeed, quite vivacious. With large, full, glowing eyes fixed upon me, he spoke slowly, hesitating painfully on some of his words, but always to the effect of securing the one of precisely the right color. He had a curious habit of repeating the word in hand while vaguely feeling about for another in the bush. . . . He looked and acted like a man who enjoyed good food, hearty, wholesome, and substantial—a man who could walk ten miles of a morning and come in smiling. Only when he began to speak did he seem the author of the 'Wings of the Dove,' the writer of parenthetical clauses, the fastidious artist in words and phrases."

Of Gertrude Atherton he wrote: "I found her to be a plain, businesslike woman of about my own age, blunt of speech and with something of a man's indifference to personal comment."

Edith Wharton he found "the most beautiful and distinguished woman writer of my acquaintance, and wholly charming in voice and manner. I found her frank, kindly, and keenly intellectual. . . . She admitted that she was open to the charge of being an expatriate, but insisted that she was not. 'I find it easier to write here,' she said, 'and life is more gracious. All my work now, however, is concerned with American subjects.'"

Ambassador Bryce, author of "The American Commonwealth," impressed him (in 1907) "as a tired old philosopher, white and dry, a mere husk of a man."

Mrs. Humphry Ward, whom he met a couple of years later, he saw "like her books, able but rather slow"; Zona Gale, "a little, slender woman, fair and sweet and serious."

In 1910 he met W. J. Locke (on a visit to Chicago). He "turned out to be a tall, blond man of forty or more with a high, wrinkled, sensitive brow—a kind of 'Septimus Felton' in his own way, a gentle and ugly man."

Arnold Bennett came to Chicago in 1912, and he impressed Mr. Garland at the time as "a tall, pale, dark eyed young man with a black mustache partly concealing an ugly set of teeth. His glance is pleasant and his speaking voice, though high keyed, is musical. His accent is almost Bostonian in quality—plainly, he is neither Oxford bred nor London born."

When Mr. Garland spoke of Bennett's skill in depicting the two main characters in "The Old Wives' Tale," Bennett replied, "That was easy—they were my relations."

The pages are crowded with literary figures. There is the whole story of the beginnings of the National Institute of Arts and Letters and the American Academy and the Cliff Dwellers of Chicago and the MacDowell society, all of which Mr. Garland either helped to organize or took the main burden of organization.

There is a great deal about Mr. Garland's most intimate friends—Irving Bacheller, Henry B. Fuller, and Edward MacDowell, among others. There is much about his life among the Indians and in the west. There is the record of his own literary work. "Companions on the Trail" is a leisurely, pleasant volume of memories.

DICKEY CALLS WHITE INDIANS ON ORINOCO MYTH; CORRECTS MAPS

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Dr. Herbert Spencer Dickey, explorer and ethnologist, returned today from a South American trip on which he discovered the source of the Orinoco river, made a correction of sixty miles in the boundary line between Brazil and Venezuela, but otherwise found his expedition rather tame.

In the uncharted reaches of Venezuela, where he had believed there were man eating fish, huge electric eels, deadly snakes, and ferocious white Indians, Dr. Dickey found nothing exciting.

After traveling 1,750 miles by outboard motor to the headwaters of the Orinoco he found that the river was devoid of any kind of fish, that it rose in a desolate country without animal life and such Indians as there were along the route fled at their approach.

The reward of the trip, Dr. Dickey told newspaper men as the Munson liner Munamar docked was in getting the source of the river and the Brazil-Venezuela boundary straightened out.

The Orinoco rises in the Parima mountains, which Dr. Dickey found to be about sixty miles northwest of the position given them by previous geographers who followed the chartings on the old grants of colonial times.

The American explorer's findings would give Brazil about sixty miles of new territory. He turned this information over to the Venezuela-Brazil commission, which is now at work settling the question of the boundaries.

Dr. Dickey is now convinced that there are no white Indians. As for savage Indians, the explorer does not believe there are any except in story books.

With Dr. Dickey returned Mrs. Dickey, who several years ago went on a honeymoon with her explorer husband in the South American jungles. Mrs. Dickey lived for a month alone in an Indian village collecting specimens of bird and animal life for the Bronx zoo, while her husband and his four companions explored the Orinoco.

Chicago Gives Cash for Adult Charities, Helps Children, Too

Chicago loosened its purse strings yesterday and gave dimes and dollars to the dependant old folks and children. Gay heart shaped tags danced on the coat lapels of thousands of persons in the down town streets who bought the tokens from women stationed at vantage points.

The tag day was sponsored by the Chicago Federated Charities and was the eleventh annual drive for funds for the maintenance of the affiliated institutions and organizations.

Good Morning!

Man with valise: "I beg your pardon, but I want to go to the Grand Central station."

Man with bun: "Well, you can go this time, but you must be back in twenty minutes."

Now the above doesn't look so awfully funny in print, does it? As a matter of fact, now that I gaze at it again, it doesn't appear funny at all. BUT—it's sending audiences at the Palace into throes of helpless laughter. One of their throes—for as soon as they're out of one, they're into another.

The man responsible for this by no means lamentable condition, as judged by box office standards, is Mr. Lowell Sherman. He, as one Joe Lennon, returns from parts abroad to save his honeymooning elder brother from the selnes of the peroxided "Baby" who calls him "Daddy" and tells Daddy, fluffily, how nice she thinks it would be if she and Daddy had a little son to inherit ALL Daddy's money.

"Only," says "Baby," cuddling, "it mightn't be best to let him have the money himself, Daddy. You have no idea how many boys have been spoiled by having money to do as they like with."

"You think of everything!" replies Daddy fatuously. "No, Daddy will leave babykin's money for Mamma to look after . . . !"

Which were the words Mamma was waiting to hear!

Mr. Sherman portrays the shrewd, greedable, supposedly constantly inebriated playwright brother in a fashion that makes me feel he is, after all, my favorite actor. [There, you brick-throwing Sherman fans, are you satisfied?] I don't know when I have seen anybody corral more laughs out of less material—for his lines aren't strikingly mirth-provoking in themselves. It's their delivery and the swift, smooth accompanying pantomime that does the work.

Mae Murray, as the sugary, babyprating, grafting, unscrupulous bride, with a lover-ally on the side, is a dandy. She plays with a sure, artistic touch, a rôle that would have been fantastically exaggerated by the Mae Murray of other days. Here is a lady who has lived and taken the trouble to learn.

Edward Martindel, impersonating the elderly husband, who yearns to recapture a bit of his lost youth, is a touching figure. Trusting, but never ridiculous. Other parts—especially Karen Morley's—she talks just like Claudette Colbert—are beautifully handled. Besides laughs, the piece packs suspense.

Staging, "business," photography, sound, et al., are the cream. The director? Mr. Lowell Sherman, and it please you!

See you soon.

Public Schools Set Indian Day Fete for September 25

Indian day will be celebrated in Chicago on Sept. 25 in the schools, clubs, and Indian organizations. Plans for the observance were announced yesterday by Scott H. Peters, president of the Indian Council Fire. Special exhibits have been arranged at the Field museum and the Chicago Historical society.

They are the group who sang for President Coolidge at the time of his adoption by the Sioux in South Dakota.

Among the Indians and their tribes expected to take part in the program will be: Evergreen Tree, Pueblo; Little Moose, O-Me-Me, Chippewa; Whirling Thunder, Flaming Arrow, Green Rainbow, Winnebago; Clearwater, Ottawa; Bold Bear, Mohawk.

Divorce Is Worse Than Polygamy Bishop's Theory

British Prelate Talks to Episcopal Delegates.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The message from the Christian churches to the world, especially in this time of crisis, is confidence. That belief was voiced by former U. S. Attorney General George W. Wickersham. He spoke before 1,000 delegates to the Denver general convention of the Episcopal church and their Chicago hosts at a luncheon yesterday at the Hotel Sherman.

The former attorney general declared the world is full of fears, political, economic, and international. He appealed to the churchmen to help to "lead groups out of water tight compartments in which they are now living. We must stop thinking solely of ourselves and think of others. Hope must be substituted for fear and love of others for the love of self."

The luncheon was sponsored by the Chicago Church club, and John D. Allen, president of that club, acted as toastmaster. Among the principal guests and speakers at the luncheon was the Rt. Rev. Michael Bolton Furse, lord bishop of St. Albans, England. Bishop Furse will be the keynote preacher at the Denver convention. He is widely known for his pronounced position on divorce and modern social problems.

In his address yesterday, the English prelate indicated the temper of his convention sermon in regard to the proposed liberalizing divorce canon. In an earlier interview with a group of reporters he declared divorce to be worse than polygamy. Bishop Furse, a former bishop of Pretoria, Union of South Africa, declared his observations of the polygamous blacks of that country and the divorce situation in more civilized countries led him to that view.

Bishop Furse condemned recent theories that religion and morality are separate. To the contrary, he declared that "morals without religion are a work of the devil." Bishop Samuel B. Booth of Vermont introduced the English bishop. Other speakers on the program were City Controller M. S. Szymczak, the Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, bishop of Chicago, and Mrs. Charles Spencer Williamson, president of the woman's auxiliary of the local Episcopal diocese.

Bishop Stewart told of Chicago's contributions to the world in various fields of service.

New Coe College Library Presented by R. W. Stewart, Chicago

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Col. Robert W. The dedication of the library was a feature of the opening exercises for the college's fifty-first year. Col. Stewart is an alumnus of Coe.

The principal address was given by the Rev. Dr. Frederick Shannon, pastor of the Central church of Chicago, and John Stewart, son of the donor, unveiled the memorial tablet in the lobby of the building. Ernest R. Graham, Chicago architect who designed the structure, and Miss Edna Kellogg, member of the Metropolitan Opera company and niece of Mrs. Graham, also took part in the program.

Accompanying Mr. Stewart here for the occasion were Mrs. Stewart and their sons, Robert of New York, James of Marshall, Va., and John Stewart.

The building has a capacity of 150,000 volumes and is in Georgian style of architecture.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

THE STAGE

MORRIS GEST has returned from a summer in Europe with important proclamations to utter. At any rate, he utters them with an air of importance. He says that he will take Al Jolson to Europe next summer for a concert tour; that he will import a new "Chauve-Souris" with Balieff as master of ceremonies; that he will revive "The Miracle," as Charles Cochran of London stages it; that he has signed a contract with Reinhardt for a production of Offenbach's operetta, "La Belle Hélène"; and that he intends to stage a spectacle for Chicago's Century of Progress in 1933—a show that "will have a lot to do with water."

The theatrical season is only a few weeks old in New York, but Broadway has already begun to count its dead. "Three Times an Hour," which Brock Pemberton staged on Aug. 25 as the first offering of the new playgoing year, was withdrawn last Saturday night. Arthur Hopkins' first production, "Man on Stilts," also went in the discard after only six performances. Of the latter a New York critic remarked that when the curtain fell on its premiere he expected to see Mr. Hopkins emerge from the wings, tearing his hair and crying: "My God, I put on the wrong play!"

Walker Whiteside's engagement at the Blackstone theater is now definitely scheduled to open Oct. 5. His play will be called "Surf," although it was known in London as "Cape Forlorn." Mr. Whiteside will appear as a sailorman from Sydney who is assistant keeper of a lighthouse on a lonely New Zealand reef. His company will include William Desmond, Miss Franc Hale and Barry O'Daniels.

Several of the plays that will figure on the schedule of the Dramatic League of Chicago are now in rehearsal. First of all, there is "The Venetian," which will start off the season at the Harris Oct. 5. Ellen Van Volkenburg is attending to the stage direction.

"The Improper Duchess," by James Barnard Fagan, will begin its career in Wilmington, Del., Oct. 2, with Irene Bordoni as star. The cast also contains Walter Connolly, Thomas Findlay, Reginald Carrington, Florence Redney, Barbara Williams and Hal Clarendon.

"Lean Harvest," by Ronald Jeans, will be launched in Philadelphia Sept. 28, and begin a New York engagement Oct. 12. Its company includes Leslie Banks, Nigel Bruce, Wilfred Seagram, Vera Allen, Patricia Calvert, Harry Sothern, Ada Potter, and Molly Pearson.

Alfred Harding, an official of the Actors' Equity association, states that his organization is trying to persuade a group of theatrical producers to subsidize ten or a dozen promising playwrights. The idea is that the undiscovered geniuses should be paid $5,000 or $6,000 a year to free them from economic worries while they strive to turn out masterpieces. As soon as one of the pensioners produces a money making manuscript, he will be dropped from the list, and another struggler will be added.

This plan sounds like the dole in disguise. C. C.

Billboard Control for Illinois Urged at Garden Club Session

Legislation to eliminate or regulate the use of billboards along state highways was recommended yesterday at a meeting of the Illinois State Garden clubs in the Palmer house.

The recommendation was contained in a report compiled by Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lawton of New York, who made a 6,000 mile motor tour of the state for the purpose of a general billboard survey. They have done similar work in other states.

Illinois highways are not so badly defaced as those of some eastern states, the report declared. However, the roads more thickly dotted with the boards are the most scenic roads, it added.

The Fox river road from St. Charles to Elgin, west of the river, averages 12 billboards to the mile; the Rock river road, from Dixon to Rockford, averages 2½ billboards to the mile, and some city approaches average as many as 33 to the mile, the report concluded.

D. A. R. Official Tells of Tour Into Filmland

Sees Alexander Hamilton as Great Lover.

The sentiment of the Daughters of the American Revolution better films committee is that motion pictures have "improved" in the last year or two, but that much remains to be done to heighten their moral tone, according to Mrs. William H. Pouch, New York.

At the opening session of the two day meeting of the central division of the D. A. R. in the Stevens hotel, Mrs. Pouch, national vice chairman for the northern divison on the films committee, yesterday reported the work of the national committee in the absence of any vice chairman from the central division. Later she discussed the film situation in an interview.

"More historical and educational films are being shown, so I feel that we, who are giving our time to work for the improvement of films, have made some headway," Mrs. Pouch said. "Of course, in some instances, historical films are not strictly moral. But then that's history. It isn't always moral.

"For instance, there's that new film, 'Alexander Hamilton,' in which George Arliss plays. It's wonderfully done, and true to history. I looked it up. But we do regret the fact that they seized on a certain love affair of Hamilton's as a feature.

"It's quite true that Hamilton did have love affairs—several. And all the details of this are authentic. But it seemed a shame to the committee that this affair, which so humiliated his wife, should be stressed.

"Personally," she said, lowering her voice, "I liked the film. Couldn't help it. Thought it quite wonderful. He stands out in the last as a rather noble character. He admitted the love affair when it was a choice of doing so or being thought a traitor to his country. But naturally, the committee couldn't recommend it."

Asked if the committee would sanction a movie in which, if a woman strays from the conventional path, she "pays," and so points out a moral, Mrs. Pouch said it would not.

"Of course, the public always demands the exciting. Now, I thought 'A Free Soul,' in which the heroine was one of which the committee couldn't possibly approve, very exciting. I enjoyed it. But there you are. It wouldn't have done for the D. A. R. to recommend it. We're probably the most conservative of all clubs who have representatives in Hollywood previewing films."

The public is proving more intelligent as a judge of films than the film industry leaders at first thought probable, according to Mrs. Pouch.

Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart, Milford, O., president general, explained the D. A. R. would devote more than $150,000 to child education during the coming year. Much of that will be spent in the southern mountain communities. There the purest Anglo-Saxon stock in America has lived for generations with little contact with the outside world. Educational moving pictures for adults who do not read and write are to be shown there, and schools for children will be maintained.

Sultry Weather Brings New Call for Ice at Homes of Poor

The sultry weather, reminiscent of those torrid July days, proved to be a reminder to a number of Chicagoans that ice is necessary in the tenements as late as September.

THE TRIBUNE free ice fund has had a tremendous task the past summer months. The combination of a hotter summer than usual and an unprecedented number of needy families, due to the depression, was strain enough. It didn't bargain for the extension of summer into fall, making necessary the additional care of families.

Therefore the $22 received yesterday for the fund was gratefully welcomed, as will others to take care of the emergency of more heat waves that may come this month.

Pastors of Two Sects Urged to Concentrate on Help to Jobless

At their initial fall meetings yesterday ministers of two denominations were urged to concentrate upon relief work the coming winter in their own communities. From the discussion it was indicated that the churches intend to take an active hand in unemployment relief.

At the Baptist ministers' meeting in the Stevens building U. M. McGuire, former editor of The Baptist, reported on the accomplishments of church relief work. He said last winter 1,600 churches in Chicago raised $500,000 to care for their own unemployed, collected and distributed large amounts of food, clothing, and fuel; had given $250,000 to denominational relief centers, and found jobs for 5,280 persons.

Dr. McGuire recommended supplementing resources of private charity by public funds when necessary, building of public works, and employment insurance for the future.

Roy F. Jacobson, vice president of the Chicago workers' committee on unemployment, a branch of the League for Industrial Democracy, explained the program of his organization to the Congregational ministers' meeting in the loop Y. M. C. A.

Girl Dislikes People in Her Town, Yet She Wants Their Good Will

BY DORIS BLAKE.

They gossip about her in the small town. They don't like her. They say she is "fast." They say she doesn't mean any good by the boys she goes out with. They warn the nice boys off. Some heed the warning, others don't.

One of the last named had quite a crush—for three months he was the favorite escort. Then he didn't phone on the expected eve. Nor has he phoned since. Another boy, who was getting nicely under way, told her of his objections to that "something" in her past that had been bruited about by the town criers.

And so the letter runs on for pages. A girl abused by her own townspeople, misjudged and ostracized by the nice people. And she has never done one thing to justify the suspicions against her.

BUT she hates the girls of the town. She doesn't get on with girls. Never did, and never wants to. They're so small minded. They're so this-and-that. "How can people exist and be so small?" she cries. "How can they be so feeble-minded?"

Now maybe there's just a taint of feeble-mindedness in not trying to make friends with the girls. Maybe it is smaller than the accused not to want to see in them something worth cultivating. Maybe the whole root of the trouble lies right in the gossiped-about's own stand with her townspeople. Not maybe—but is!

There's always a selfishness hard to forgive in girls and women who cut off their own sex as unworthy of their time. A little abnormal, too. It's normal to have friends among one's own sex, and particularly at the romantic and confidence exchanging age of the late teens. It's normal to want to be liked by your own sex, and just a trifle lopsided to want all the applause to be male.

Beside, it is hard to get the applause that way, for men like girls who are liked by their own sex. In a manner of speaking, they judge women on the appraisal of their women friends. So, instead of looking for a good sermon on gossip to cure your enemies, girl, I'd suggest that you supply it yourself by being—well, just a little more human in your relationships with the girls and women of your town.

Tuck in Blouses Worn with Dancing Pajamas

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Dancing pajamas, following the lead of beach overalls, are dividing into two pieces. A number of Paris élégantes are seen in fashionable Paris dance emporiums wearing black satin pajama trousers, slipped on over tuck-in blouses, in some other color and material.

Pajamas for dancing are discreet, and look so much like skirts that only about once in an evening can the onlooker tell that they are bifurcated. The Lucile Paray pajamas, in the accompanying sketch, show what the dancing trousers that Parisiennes wear look like 90 per cent of the time.

From the deep, fitted hip yoke, which is deeper by a rectangle at the front and back, the black satin trouser legs are cut circular, and for good measure of fullness, they have two box plaits at the center, front, and back. Looks exactly like a skirt, this pajama, doesn't it? It ends at the top of the toes, and is even all around the hem.

The blouse, that Lucile Paray designed to go with these black satin pajamas du soir, is made of pale pink lace. It's a daring little thing, for while the front is draped Grecian fashion, and quite modest, there isn't any back at all. Crossed black satin straps are all that keeps the waist on. The idea is exactly like those backless bathing suits that are worn everywhere.

Bolster Up Charms with Glamorous Air, Advises Antoinette

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

As promised yesterday, today we've got to go further into this glamour business, the pursuit of which in the beauty world now supersedes the mere pursuit of physical charm.

In case you missed yesterday morning's column, let me explain that glamour is what you have to have to get past a Hollywood gate these days. Mere good looks won't even get you a playful wink from the gate guard! And what Hollywood beauty starts, the rest of the woman world follows.

We of the more conventional world, still I say, necessarily can't gather our glamour as it is done among the screen stars. They're clipping books and clipping books ahead of us in glamour creating via publicity help. Then, they have private swimming pools, which sounds glamorous to an apartment living soul. And twenty thousand dollar cars, which looks glamorous, whether it is or not. And they have pay envelopes—but don't let's go into that. It might just rob their glamour of some of its glamour for us poor slaves.

But we do have our glamour rights. And the new clothes are awfully kind. If you can't inspire the boy friend in a new puffed sleeved, pinch-waisted Second empire frock and plumed chapeau, then the boy just hasn't any imagination. And tee-hee with him!

Then there's the dash of perfume—something different. I forgot to mention that being "somewhat different" is an important ingredient in the glamour formula. Very important! Anyway, it's a grand idea not to go on year after year sticking to the same colors, the same coiffure, the same brand of scent, the same everything, the same sweet, simple girlish charms.

A bit more vivacity, a bit more interest, a bit more sophistication to replace the always the same monotony. Something a bit different, anyway. A new kind of makeup—eyes shadowed perhaps. A new hairdress—something quite different. And always the eternal lure of the femme in personal and dress daintiness.

Bright Sayings of the Children

As the train began to pull away, the little one called to his daddy below the window, "And, daddy, don't stay out too late." M. G.

Routine of School After Long Vacation Is Hard on Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"You'd think after a summer in the country that the children would be fresh and rested—and yet school seems to tire them out," said a mother with a discouraged air, last fall when school opened. This year she's prepared to have that happen.

Children take the reopening of school in many different ways and the difference doesn't all depend on whether they love school or not. It depends, too, on what kind of summer they've had, and whether school looks like a pleasant change to them or the giving up of a delicious freedom.

If your children go to public school, they are already back at work and you may have been surprised at the effect of it on them. If they go to private schools which open late, you probably still have ahead of you the experience of watching how they take the change from vacation to school.

It is a big cnange. Grownups feel it when they first go back to work. There's a great difference between doing as you please all day long and doing as you must—between trees and sky and air and physical freedom and four walls and physical confinement. That's the difference between vacation and the beginning of school to many children.

They feel the difference and show it in various ways. Don't be surprised if your boys and girls act unusually tired after school starts—if their legs ache or if they wilt, or act restive, and discontented. The best you can do is to see that they get plenty of sleep and rest, slip in as much outdoors as you can for the first weekends, and grin and bear it.

And if teachers would omit home work for the first month, at least, it would give children a chance to use the afternoons for play, until they can get themselves throttled down. Children can't help having trouble adjusting themselves to the change from vacation to school.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Awkward Position.

The other day on returning from lunch I found my employer and a client behind closed doors I seated myself in a chair which happened to be directly in front of the office where my employer and his client were, and started to read a magazine.

My co-worker being in a most playful mood and there being no rest for the righteous, she commenced to tilt my chair backwards. Not thinking of what might happen, I continued to read, and before I realized it I was down on the floor.

Picture, if you can, me sprawled on the floor, making an effort to get up gracefully. It certainly was my most embarrassing moment when the door opened and out walked my employer and his client. E. J. O.

"THE STAR WITNESS"

"It is one of the finest pictures I have ever seen—a picture that not only provides clean and splendid entertainment, but also one that should awaken the consciousness of every man, woman and child to the duties they owe to themselves and their community.

"THE STAR WITNESS"

treats with merciless truth the dangers that confront us all from vicious and lawless gangsters. It depicts graphically the tremendous obstacles these social enemies place in the way of law and order.

"It brought me face to face with the every-day problems of the state's attorney's office. It shows the intimidation of witnesses by threats and the destruction of life and property in the effort these lawless forces make to frighten citizens from their duties to the community.

"The arch-criminals of this era would not flourish if only people would tell the courts what they see—what they know. BUT PEOPLE WON'T TALK!

Playing With Fire

By WILLIAM MAC LEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Ranse Reynolds is the owner of a ranch which drought has almost ruined. She leases a Mexican rancho and moves her starving herd there. She is barely settled when a revolution breaks out. Megares, bogey man of the border, is the leader. Ranse Brennan, a former foreman of Lee's, is his right hand man. Brennan was discharged by Lee and seeks revenge. Lee hires a new band, who is recognized by Dune Daggett, an old ranch enemy of Jack Hadley, a millionaire oil man of California, whose father owned a mine next to Lee's ranch and was murdered by outlaws. Hadley is searching for the murderer of his father. Hadley and Lee call on Megares, who is, apparently, friendly to them. Megares calls at the ranch and is infatuated with Lee's guest, Mrs. Doris Silver. He insists on his staying at the rancho, to protect them, he says, though they are really his prisoners. Doris is rescued by airplane by her husband. Lee refuses to leave her ranchers—and Jack Hadley, whom she loves. Harold Silver promises to return with an armed plane for their rescue. Lee and Jack are sentenced by a drum court martial to be shot at sunset.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

RANSE DROPS A HINT.

Megares ordered a soldier to throw Daggett into the guardhouse. With a revolver in the small of his back the old man departed with voluble protest.

"You were with Francisco then when he murdered my father," Jack said to the bandit.

"Perhaps. I do not remember all the little raids I have been in. But the old fool may be right. I daresay he is." The outlaw watched the prisoner closely, with smiling lips and eyes hard as jade.

"You knew it. That's another reason why you want me dead. It will be safer for you."

The outlaw's vanity was stung. "What have you ever done to make me afraid of you, Yankee pig? I wipe you out because you dared to interfere, to take from me the woman I wanted." He glanced out of the window. "The sun is half way down. You have about three hours, my friend. Meanwhile I shall go and have a little talk with that charming lady who is just now so inconsolable. Adios."

Megares turned and walked out of the room.

. . . . . .

The verdict at the court martial had been a shock to Ranse Brennan. He had expected an acquittal for Lee. Maj. Marcos had in effect asked for it. Her conviction could have been due only to the pressure of Megares upon the other members of the court.

As soon as he could free himself of routine duty he went to the general.

"What's the idea, Megares?" he demanded. "I'll not stand for having the girl shot. You can't get away with it. She's done nothing, and you know it. For that matter you had no right to try either her or Hadley. You know as well as I do it was self-defense. But it's all right with me about Hadley. I've got no kick coming there. But I have about Lee Reynolds. You made those yellow dogs convict her."

The black eyes of the Mexican narrowed. "One thing at a time, Brennan. You've said a lot that'll have to be explained before I'm satisfied. But we'll take the last first. I made them vote guilty. You're right."

"Why? What deviltry are you up to? What's your game?"

"You're insolent, my friend. But let that go for the moment. I don't intend to have her shot. I never did."

"What's in your mind then? Out with it."

"You forget yourself, Brennan. I command here. What do you mean telling me what I can and can't get away with?"

"Command, hell! The insurrection is shot, and you know it. In three or four days you'll be flying through the hills same as I will unless I can get across the line."

"Perhaps. In three or four days. But just now I'm God in this army. Don't forget it for a moment. If I lift a hand you'll go to the wall yourself."

Brennan evaded that. "I'm asking you a question, Megares. What's your idea about the girl?"

"You're getting in my way damnably," the Mexican warned.

The big man scowled at him. "Think I don't get you, fellow? You're going to use the sentence to scare her to death and get what you want.

You're getting in my way damnably."

You're a dirty dog, Megares. But I won't have it. I've known her too long, and anyhow she's an American. Keep your hands off her."

Ranse turned and strode out of the room. He knew his words might turn out to be a death sentence for him. Just now he was beyond caring for that. The anger in him had become so explosive that an outbreak had been necessary.

But as he hurried away the danger of his situation grew on him. At any moment Megares might give the signal for his arrest. After that his execution would follow very rapidly. All he needed was time, provided Luna had received his message. But how much time would Megares give him? Had he better saddle a horse, shoot down the bandit leader, and try to ride bullet-leather from the camp? They would get him probably. Too many armed men were on guard duty.

First he must see Lee if possible. He no longer wanted her to be broken on the rack. Emotions surged in him because of her desperate plight. Ranse did not understand himself. What in Mexico was the matter with him? He was not responsible for her. Why not stand back and let Megares do as he pleased?

But he knew he could not. There was something in him stronger than the habit of his life. He set his teeth with grim determination to balk Megares if he could.

In his pocket was a pass Megares had written for him the day the insurrection broke. It had been given him to show to any insurrectionists who might doubt the gringo's good faith.

Brennan walked across the patio, up the stairs, and along the corridor leading to the room where Lee was imprisoned.

Curtly he nodded to the guard outside the door. "Miss Reynolds inside?"

"Sí, señor, but the general has given orders none are to be admitted save him."

"Don't argue with me, fellow. I'm your officer."

The man poured out a flood of protesting Spanish. He was a good soldier. His captain had told him that the general's orders were—

Brennan pulled from his pocket the pass and showed it. Certainly it told of good patriots to let Col. Brennan go wherever he wished. The man moved aside. The big cowman opened the door and walked in.

Lee turned a stricken face toward him.

"You—Ranse," she cried.

"Listen. Megares doesn't mean to have you shot. It's a bluff. He wants you and his play is to scare you."

"And he isn't going to shoot Jack?"

"You bet he is. I ain't interested in him. I'm talking about you. I'll see that devil Megares if I can. There's help coming. Never mind from where. Promise if you must. But stall—play for time—kid him along the way Doris did."

She scarcely heard him. "Save Jack. Save him, Ranse. Don't bother about me."

"No chance. I couldn't if I would, and I wouldn't if I could. Megares isn't going to let him live. He's going to put Hadley against a wall the way he and Francisco did his father. The young guy blames me for what they did to his dad. I hadn't a thing to do with it. I couldn't help it any more than I can help him now with Megares. Even if I wanted to— But you, listen. Something about you. Play your cards close. Stall for time. Act like you're just being coy. If you do—"

"And don't care about myself, Ranse," the girl broke in. "It doesn't matter about me. We've got to save Jack. That's the only thing. Don't you understand? If you really want to help me, Ranse—"

"Nothing doing. I've got to drag it, girl. It wouldn't do for me to be around here. I've already had one run in with Megares about you. So long."

She cried out against his leaving. Her mind was still full of Jack's danger and she wanted to plead with her ex-foreman for him. But the door closed behind Brennan and left her alone.

Despairingly she wrung her hands. She paced the floor. She sat down and jumped up again instantly, driven by her unhappiness to a wretched and aimless restlessness.

To look out of the window drove a knife into her heart. For the sun was sinking toward the horizon. At sunset, Megares had said. Never again would she look at the declining sun without horror.

But there must be something she could do. There must be some way she could save him. If only she could think—

. . . . . .

After Brennan had stormed out of the room with that explosive "Keep your hands off her," Megares stood for a minute in deep thought stroking with finger tips the black mustache. Had he better put an end to this meddling fool before he did any harm?

There were objections to putting Brennan before a firing squad. The officers would not like it. They had no particular fondness for the man, but they would naturally resent the execution of one of their number. It would be too suggestive and would arouse suspicions.

Of course he could have Brennan assassinated. That would take a little time to arrange, but perhaps it would be the better way.

For an hour he was busy over various matters. There were letters to dictate, orders to give, telephoning to do. He got Palo Duro over the wire and talked with the general whom he had left in command. All was quiet at the front. Megares said he would stay at the rancho until morning and then would drive to town.

He hung up, stretched himself, smiled, lighted a cigaret, and walked briskly out of the room. Like Brennan, he crossed the patio, took the stairs to the second floor, and moved along the corridor to the room where Lee Reynolds was under guard.

Vassar Delays Term Opening, Students Hear

BY THALIA——:

MANY of the eastern college students, getting ready to go back to school, are wondering whether school is going to keep this semester.

Vassar students have been informed that classes will not begin until Sept. 25, a week later than the scheduled opening, because of the infantile paralysis epidemic in the east, and students of the other colleges are hearing reports that their schools may postpone opening for the same reason.

The Vassar Alumnæ association, of which Mrs. Percival Hart is president, is to give a tea next Monday afternoon at Vassar house in the Diana court for the new Vassar students and the young women who are returning for their sophomore, junior, and senior years. Last June's graduates will be assistant hostesses. This year's freshmen include Pauline Selpp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Selpp; Miss Fanny Turnbull, daughter of the Henry K. Turnbulls of Lake Forest; Honore White, Mrs. Howard Fenton's daughter, Dorothy Darby, daughter of the R. J. Darbys of Winnetka, and Georgianna Moore of Highland Park. The upper class members include Miss Margaret Wells, who is to be graduated this year; Miss Suzette Morton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Morton; Harriet Tilden, Harriet Trowbridge [daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Trowbridge], who are juniors, and Phyllis Ferry [daughter of the Montague Ferrys of Winnetka], who is a sophomore.

Smith college students have received no notification about any delayed opening, and so they are planning to be back in Northampton by Sept. 23. The Smith students include several of the north shore debutantes, among them Miss Annie Warren Mason, daughter of the Roswell B. Masons of Winnetka; Miss Mary Cushman, the Arthur Cushmans' daughter; Helen Wolcott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wolcott, and Miss Marion Calkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Calkins, all of Winnetka. Miss Calkins is to be a freshman, as she dropped out of school for a year because of illness, and the other girls are sophomores.

The milliners probably have a swanky name for the type.]

Sunday was the Tommy Wheelocks' second wedding anniversary [they were married in New York on Friday, the 13th, 'member?], but they had a party to celebrate the occasion the night before.

Mrs. C. Gurnee Fellows, who has been visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Percival G. Hart of 4820 Kenwood avenue, for the last two months, is returning to New York City today. She and her son, Woodward Fellows, will again occupy an apartment in the eastern city this winter. Mr. Fellows recently opened a smart new interior decorating shop, Regent House, at 68th and Madison avenue, and he is very interested and engrossed in his new work.

Report from the Berkshire hills—Mrs. Warren M. Salisbury's Tor Court is being closed for the season, and Mrs. Salisbury is going to visit her brother, Wilder W. Kimball, and Mrs. Kimball at Rumford Falls, Me., before returning to Chicago. . . . Dr. and Mrs. Robert Archibald MacArthur were recent guests of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Metz. . . . Mrs. Perry M. Shepard, who was called to Pittsfield by the critical illness of her father, Frederic T. West, has returned to Geneva, N. Y. Mr. West still is at the House of Mercy hospital in a serious condition, and his other daughter, Mrs. Donald McPherson, is staying on at Pittsfield. . . . Miss Eleanor Coonley is chairman of the shore show committee at the Great Barrington fair the last week in September. . . . The Samuel Frothinghams Jr. (Mary Wegg) are with his mother in Lenox for the wedding of Miss Grace Bristed and Charles Douglas Jackson. . . . Miss Ruth Holloway was one of the Stockbridge tennis players who won an interclub match against the Waterbury Country club team last Thursday. . . . Lawrence Meeker was registered at Miss Mabel Choates' Mission house in Stockbridge last week, and the Farwell Winstons stopped at the Red Lion inn. . . . George Getz Jr. was an usher Saturday afternoon in the garden wedding of Miss Caroline Burton Buck and John G. Cluett of Troy, N. Y.

Brevities—Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Patterson (Elizabeth Chapin) arrived in Lake Geneva Saturday night to be with her parents, the Simeon B. Chapins, at Floweraide Farms for the remainder of the month. Mrs. Chapin is going on to New York the last of September, and Mr. Chapin is to remain through October. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Hersey Jr. have returned from Harbor Point, Mich. . . . The Richard D. Stevensons of Lake Forest have been up at Land o' Lakes for a few weeks of fishing. . . . The South Shore Country club is to hold an annual homecoming party on Saturday for members and their families, the program to include a children's fair, with games, races, and clowns, and a special luncheon, dinner, and dance.

Constance Bennett Spoofs Critics of Her High Pay

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Constance Bennett was back in town today from Paris with a wardrobe of thirty new gowns which it took her a week to select—and with the opinion film exhibitors aren't holding a personal grudge against her because she reputedly receives $30,000 weekly.

Commenting on the recent denunciation by eastern film exhibitors of her salary, Miss Bennett said:

"I think they felt temporarily poor and directed their attacks at me as one of the higher salaried actresses. Anyway, I'm not losing much sleep over the argument."

Miss Bennett arrived yesterday from New York. On the same train was the Marquis de la Falaise, to whom she has been reported engaged. She told reporters she and the marquis were already married, but said later she made the announcement in fun.

Indian Cries to Ring Again; on Golf Links

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Long ago, the red man deserted the shores of Lake Michigan. Yet war whoops will split the air again on Saturday evening in the region of Onwentsia Country club at Lake Forest. Scores of feathered and blanketed braves will stream into the tepee [clubhouse] for the pow wow held there annually during the last nineteen years, and club history will repeat itself once more. Thirty-six holes of golf will be played through the day, with the powwow dinner at the end.

For nineteen years the pow wow has been a tradition at Onwentsia. Older members seem not to remember clearly the circumstances of its origin, but the consensus is that Hobart Chatfield-Taylor, one of the earliest presidents and moving spirits of the organization, inaugurated it as he did various other features of the club.

"It seems to me that the idea back of the pow wow was based on the name of the club—Onwentsia, an Indian word meaning meeting-place-in-the-country—and that Hobart Chatfield-Taylor began it," mused David R. Forgan, one of the veterans of Onwentsia. There are only two rules in connection with it; those participating must be 35 or over on their nearest birthday, and must stay for dinner.

"It's always been the custom for the men to appear at the dinner, following a day at golf, with blankets pinned over their shoulders, and wearing those feather head-dresses, whatever they're called. The golf matches constitute the main entertainment, and nobody receives a prize unless he's there at dinner. We also put on sketches burlesquing Longfellow's 'Hiawatha' from time to time, or some similar skits."

"Big chief" of this year's pow wow will be William E. Clow Jr., otherwise chairman of the committee in charge. John T. McCutcheon prepared the carnoon adorning the annual program announcing the various prize events, including special competitions. Among the latter are the "Gosh-EE-Did-Dit prize," the "EE-Gul-Bur-Dis prize," the "Hi-An-Mi-Ti," and the "Sko-kee-ha-ha," to be won respectively by the player driving closest to the flag on the the 18th hole, making the greatest number of holes in three, taking the largest number of strokes on the 14th, and going into the Skokie the most times during the day's play.

KLEENEX
Disposable Tissues

MOTHER—you dread those contagious diseases that spread so rapidly among children—but are you doing everything you can to ward them off?

Have you, for instance, taught your child to use Kleenex instead of the ordinary handkerchief—and destroy immediately after using?

That is the way to protect your child from the disease germs that lurk in dirty handkerchiefs. Almost all contagious diseases are contracted through the nose and mouth. And you know how careless children are with handkerchiefs ... use them for anything ... then back go countless germs to the unprotected nose and mouth, every time the handkerchief is used.

Germs in Kleenex destroyed

When Kleenex is used, germs are destroyed. And at once. The cost of these soft tissues is so low that each one need be used but once. No self-infection—no laundering—and no irritation, because Kleenex is so remarkably soft and absorbent.

Mother, think! Can you permit your child to risk the dirty handkerchief, now that this new, sanitary handkerchief has come to take its place?

Nothing like it

There's nothing like Kleenex for saving your time and temper a dozen times a day. For wiping spectacles; for applying medicines; for minor bandages; for wiping razor blades ... these are but a few of the many uses for Kleenex. And don't forget that Kleenex is declared the safest, most efficient way of removing face creams by those experienced in skin care. Its superior absorbency is needed to remove all impurities from the pores. All drug, dry goods and department stores sell Kleenex.

TESTS SHOW DISEASE GERMS that thrive in handkerchiefs include the Pneumococcus, Streptococcus (pus germ), Staphylococcus, and Catarrhalis. A handkerchief used only once during a cold was tested and found to be teeming with germs.

Build Museum for Treasures of Palestine

BY HARRY LEVIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JERUSALEM, Sept. 14.—The magnificent museum being built with the funds of John D. Rockefeller's gift of $2,000,000 to the Palestine government is under the direction of J. H. Iliffe, archaeologist, appointed for that purpose.

Mr. Iliffe has behind him a distinguished career since his training at Cambridge university. He spent some time digging up Roman remains in Britain. He then joined the British School of Archaeology in Athens, working on old Greek and Roman sites at various places in Greece and Asia Minor.

His success here attracted attention, and he was appointed to the Royal museum at Toronto. After studying at important museums in New York, Chicago, and other American cities he was called here.

All Palestine is grateful to Mr. Rockefeller for his gift, without which the museum would not be possible. Ancient buildings here have suffered from four kinds of destroyers—wars, earthquakes, the natives, and the souvenir hunters. War and earthquake cannot always be guarded against. If the natives did pull down the stones of ruined palaces to build their hovels, at least the stones could be traced.

The souvenir hunters, however, pretending to be archaeologists would descend on sites connected with biblical history, and unskillfully break what they found with the sole intention of carrying away some stone, some inscription, or some piece of mosaic or pottery to show off to their friends at home.

Tells of Important Finds.

Excavations conducted in Palestine during the summer resulted in the finding of important works of art by the Canaanite inhabitants living about 1600 B. C., according to Dr. O. R. Sellers, secretary of the faculty of the Presbyterian Theological seminary. He returned to Chicago from the Holy Land on Saturday.

The seminary and the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem carried on the work at Beth Zur, 13 miles south of the ancient capital.

A bone carving showing the influence of Egyptian teachers was one of the articles found. The excavators also discovered a number of Greek coins of the 5th century, B. C., indicating a strong Hellenic influence in the Palestine of that time.

Mayor Asked to Name Citizens' Pound Committee

Arrangements were completed yesterday for the formal opening on Sept. 20 of the new Municipal Animal Refuge, or dog pound, Mrs. Charlotte Hunt of the Humane Education society announced. Invitations have been sent out to several thousand persons, and a number of public officials, including Mayor Cermak, have been invited to speak.

The new pound., which is located at 24th street and Lawndale avenue, has been completed and the equipment will be installed this week. It has accommodations for 350 dogs, a room for stray cats, a large lethal chamber outside in which 70 dogs can be destroyed at one time by carbon monoxide gas, and a smaller lethal chamber inside the building. The transfer of the dogs is scheduled to take place the day following the formal opening.

The old pound is under the supervision of Capt. John Ryan as acting poundmaster. It is expected that the mayor will appoint a permanent poundmaster shortly. He has been asked also by the Humane Education society, Mrs. Hunt said, to appoint a committee of five citizens to supervise the work of the poundmaster.

Effort Savers on Display at Patents Show

A very human trait, common laziness, has its day at the second International Patent exposition that opened yesterday morning at the Merchandise Mart, where thousands of inventors have placed on display their brain children with the hope of interesting manufacturers in them.

Devices for performing every vexing task from opening the garage door to tieing a necktie have been patented. The opening of a milk bottle is done by a simple hook.

For pure undiluted laziness the best example is the golf bag prop—two brass rods that support the bag while the player, who is generally supposed to be playing for the exercise, makes his shot. The device saves him the necessity of stooping to pick it up.

But it was an economical mind that brought forth the refillable tooth brush, with which the handle is retained and the small bundle of bristles replaced at will.

Some woman who is not true to her sex invented a reversible hat, while even a rubber sponge glove, in which a cake of soap is held to keep it from slipping away, is shown.

The exposition will continue for two weeks. In that time three special days are marked—Thursday, when John T. McCutcheon, cartoonist, will be honored for his encouragement of inventors; Friday, foreign inventors' day, and a week from Saturday, closing day of the show, American inventors' day, which is expected to bring together 1,500 inventors.

Mrs. M. L. H. writes: "Can you tell me why doughnuts made at home are not like the baker's? Mine are delicious, but they seem to be a finer grain, more like cake. Baker's seem to be mere puffed up 'nothings,' but my husband likes them so. Also, what is the sirup composed of that is on baker's apple and peach cake? I can't achieve the 'sirupy' consistency they do?"

I like the sound of your doughnuts, Mrs. M. L. H.!

Unfortunately, or perhaps fortunately, homemade breads and cakes can never be like bakers' cakes and breads. The bakers have their own kitchen secrets, just as we all have ours. Then, too, they bake in such large quantities and by such different methods that we can't hope to have the same results.

However, the bakeries most patronized in any neighborhood are those who represent themselves as having "homemade" cookies, doughnuts, and the like. They probably would be pleased with themselves if they could duplicate our kitchen products.

It is up to us housewives, when husbands show a bakery preference, to stick out belligerent chins and say: "What! You prefer baker's doughnuts to mine—mine made with three eggs and a big cup of butter? You must be losing your sense of taste."

That will silence 'em!

Since the blueberry season is drawing to a close, today's recipe is for a luscious blueberry cottage pudding. Later on, if you wish, you may substitute canned berries for the fresh.

BLUEBERRY COTTAGE PUDDING.
2 cups of flour.
2 teaspoons of baking powder.
¼ teaspoon of salt.
1 egg.
¾ cup of sugar.
3 tablespoons of melted butter.
1 cup of milk.
1 cup of blueberries.

Sift the flour, measure, and then sift the flour, baking powder, and salt together. Beat the egg; add the sugar, milk, and melted butter. Add the flour mixture to the egg mixture. Add the floured blueberries. Bake in a greased shallow pan in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] for about 45 minutes. Serve with a vanilla or hard sauce.

VANILLA SAUCE.
1 tablespoon of butter.
2 tablespoons of flour.
2 cups of boiling water.
½ cup of sugar.
1 teaspoon of vanilla.
¼ teaspoon of salt.

Melt the butter and add the flour and salt. Stir until it bubbles. Add the boiling water and sugar. Boil until it is smooth and thoroughly cooked. Then add the vanilla. Serve hot.

Finds Crossed Eyes Guide Boys Astray Into Crime Paths

Physical defects often are linked to criminal traits, according to Dr. W. A. Guild of Chicago. He spoke yesterday at the forty-fourth annual convention of the American Association of Orificial Surgeons in their three day session at the Morrison hotel.

"Out of the thousands of cases I have studied," said Dr. Guild, "I have found that if a man is a habitual criminal there are one or more physical defects which can be directly connected with his lawless tendencies." The surgeon declared that one of the most common defects which made a person seek a wayward life was "crossed or cocked eyes."

Discussing problems of coping with gangland, Dr. Guild said that gangs are a business proposition now, and as such must be considered out of his category. "But the boy who would naturally hunt up a gang," he asserted, "does it from some physical or natural urge, and if examined would be found to have something physically wrong with him."

$23,000,000 STAMP COLLECTION DISPLAYED AT MEMPHIS SESSIONS

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 14.—(AP)—The annual exposition of the American Philetelic society will open today with stamp collections officially valued at approximately $23,000,000 on display. The Boston Tea Party stamp, a copy of the British tax stamp of 1765, and a facsimile of the 1 cent British Guiana stamp, issued in 1858 and purchased in 1922 by Arthur Hind of Utica, N. Y., for approximately $40,000, vied in interest before the opening of the exposition with "pony express stamps" and air mail letters, sent from Paris by balloon during the Franco-Prussian war of 1870.

BETTY: Sorry to be late—but I can't find a pair that hasn't a run—

JO: That seems funny. You buy so many more than I do.

BETTY: I take good care of them, too—wash them every single time I wear them.

JO: Then you must be using a soap that destroys the ELASTICITY* of your stockings.

Didn't you know . . .

*The LUX way to preserve the ELASTICITY that makes stockings WEAR and FIT

New silk is elastic—like rubber. It gives—doesn't break under strain, and it springs right back into place.

If elasticity is destroyed the silk threads will pop—then a run starts. The stocking won't fit smoothly, either. The lifeless threads wrinkle and sag. That's why Lux is made to preserve elasticity—to keep stockings lovely in fit and to make them wear.

Wash before the first wearing in lukewarm water—the stockings will fit more smoothly.

When you put on a new stocking, fit it like a new glove—the seam especially. It will always look smarter if you do this.

Wash after EACH wearing. Perspiration left in the stocking will actually rot the silk.

Don't rub with cake soap. It destroys the elasticity of the silk, making it lifeless, apt to break into runs, and ill-fitting. With Lux there is no rubbing. Even stubborn spots come out if you gently press in a few dry Lux diamonds.

Don't use too-warm water. This destroys elasticity. With Lux you use lukewarm water—fit, color, finish, stay like new. If it's safe in water, it's safe in Lux.

Wash this 2-minute way:
1. 1 teaspoon of Lux diamonds for each pair of stockings.
2. Add lukewarm water to Lux, squeeze cool gentle suds through stockings, rinse well.

Try Lux FREE. Try this wonderful care for your stockings, at our expense. Just send us your name and address, and by return mail you will receive a full-sized package of Lux free. Write today to Lever Brothers Co., Dept. [illegible], Cambridge, Massachusetts.

U. S. GOLF RULERS DISCARD BALLOON BALL

KEEP PRESENT DIAMETER WITH ADDED WEIGHT

Pleas of Duffers Lead to Change.

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Out of a clear sky has dropped another new golf ball. The United States Golf association, in a statement today by Herbert H. Ramsay, its president, has banished the "balloon" ball after a fitful trial of ten months, substituting a compromise between the old and the new, which will be standard for play after April 15, 1932.

While the exact specifications will not be published until November, the new idea is to have the 1931 diameter of 1.68 inches retained, with an increase in weight. The weight standard probably will be that of the former standard ball, 1.62 ounces. Mr. Ramsey issued the following statement in announcing the change:

"The association has been carefully studying the golf ball situation since the first of the year in all sections of the country and among all classes of players. The size of the 1.68 inch ball is universally popular. Tests are now being conducted along the line of an increase in weight. A new ball of increased weight will be adopted to become effective for play on or after April 15, 1932. The final specifications will be announced next November."

Duffers Like Old Ball.

This announcement dooms the larger and lighter golf ball which was introduced in 1929 after exhaustive tests, and which became standard for all tournament play under the U. S. G. A. rules on Jan. 1, 1931. It supplanted the so-called "rabbit" ball, with specifications of 1.62-1.62, which officials felt was giving too much distance and turning links into pitch and putt courses, obsoleting wood club play in the fairway.

The reception accorded to the new ball was not altogether as foreseen. Expert players scored just as well as with the former pellets, in many cases better, but a storm of disapproval rose from the duffers who could not play the new ball in the wind and condemned its putting properties. The duffers were not willing to devote time to improving their technic so as to be able to play the "balloon" ball well. In numberless clubs throughout the country questionnaires were circulated with the old ball being overwhelmingly preferred.

Golf professionals questioned today at Providence construed this most recent change of front on the golf ball situation as a conciliatory move to the duffers.

Some of the comments follow:

Leo Diegel—The combination of the present size and the new weight will be perfect. The present ball was far superior to the one it replaced for the reason that, unlike it is in Britain, our fairways don't rate the smaller and heavier one. The only objection I could see to the present standard ball was its tendency to hop on the putting greens.

Tommy Armour—I for one am sorry to see the ball changed. I always thought and I still think that the present ball is the greatest contribution that has been made to the game of golf. It's the best we ever played with.

Walter Hagen—I'm all for more weight. It will help everybody, star and duffer.

Horton Smith—Retaining the present size but increasing the weight of the ball will make the game still easier for the professionals, but I'm afraid the mediocre players will still have some of the disadvantages they had with the increased size and reduced weight. It is certainly going to require more power to put the heavier large ball in motion. It will be harder to get off the ground for one thing and I feel it will respond to a hard blow much more sensitively than does the present "balloon" ball.

Willie Macfarlane—I said over a year ago that the ball would be better if weight were put in it. It ought to be a one hundred per cent ball.

Al Espinosa—All that it is going to do is to get us back to the old fast ball. They might just as well have gone back to the old ball.

Billy Burke—I don't know what to say. I'll have to try it first. I think that if they keep the present ban for competitions and give the mediocre players back the smaller and heavier ball everybody will be satisfied.

Gene Sarazen—It's the best ruling yet. What they should do is give players the option of using any weight between 1.55 and 1.62.

Bill Mehlhorn — I don't care what they make us play with so long as we all have to play the same ball.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Sept. 14.—Amid the fanfare and pageantry of a great American sporting event, the gallant White Sox went down fighting today in the first defeat of their current campaign for the American league pennant. The game was a tense battle of pitchers and the aroused and fighting Red Sox, lured on by the vision of world series checks, began a pennant drive of their own to nose out the White Sox 12 to 8.

The Red Sox squeezed in six runs in the seventh inning and four more in the eighth by a masterful demonstration of old fashioned, inside baseball, but as the White Sox threaded their way through the throng on their way to the dressing room there was that in their manner which plainly said, "We have just begun to fight."

Tremendous Mob of 400 Attended.

Quite frankly the management of the Boston ball club has much to answer for in the manner in which the monster turnout for the third game of this crucial series was handled by the police and the ushers. When a milling mob of 400 enthusiasts responds to the spell of the national game it is the duty of the home club to provide adequate help to show the patrons to their seats, to prevent jamming at the exits and to suppress rowdyism, in all of which duty the Boston club was remiss today.

The plea that the attendance took the management by surprise is hardly credible, considering the critical character of the current games in which both teams were striving to overcome the Athletics' precarious lead of 44 games.

Hand Clapping Marred the Sight.

There were moments shortly before the game when as many as eight or ten dozen customers became wedged in a press of excited humanity at the turnstile and after the patrons had entered the stands some of them were themselves out trying to make up their minds which seats they preferred to occupy, whereas an efficient ushering system would have conducted them to certain seats and avoided this confusion. Furthermore, as the contest raged on with both sides snarling and scrapping for a slight advantage, now scoring three runs, now six, now four, the scene was marred by several disgraceful acts of rowdyism which reflect on the dignity of the national pastime.

A certain degree of exuberance is to be expected, of course, on occasions of this kind, but when a few disorderly characters, who are to be expected, unfortunately, in every crosssection crowd, resort to loud and offensive hand clapping the good name of baseball is at stake and reason totters on her throne. And one of these days, as the White Sox pursue their headlong campaign for the championship, there is going to be a disaster at the exits unless precautions are taken to regulate the traffic as the crowds charge the gates in their enthusiasm to leave.

They Even Forgot the Band.

Moreover, there was an utter absence of appropriate ceremonies before the game which seemed to indicate that the magnates were less alive to the dramatic elements of the contest than the patrons themselves. Surely, if the management does not respond to the excitement of a crucial series, then in time this apathy may communicate itself to the customers and there may be no more crowds of 400 people.

Out in the center field bleachers at today's game a milling, teeming customer sounded a popular note when, just before the call to battle, he rose up and yelled, "We want a band. What about a band and a march to the flag pole?" The absence of Judge Landis was conspicuous, too, and, altogether, it is not unduly critical of the management to say that it approached this

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

This is the day they start football practice in the Western conference and at some of the other schools in this section. Among the hundreds of young men who for the next few weeks will strive to land a place on their team will be some who have too much weight and others who will require building up.

CLARENCE HERSCHBERGER.

For those who need more pounds to make sure of a place at guard or tackle the experience of two men who were stars at the University of Chicago thirty-two years ago will be of interest.

Clarence Herschberger, one of the greatest players developed on the Midway, is charged with eating his team out of the championship in 1897. He was aided by Walter Kennedy, captain of the squad.

During scrimmage preceding the game with Wisconsin Herschberger and Kennedy became involved in an argument as to who could put on the more weight at one sitting. One thing led to another until one of the brighter members of the team suggested they battle it out at the table. Herschberger and Kennedy agreed and the contest was on. It was strictly above board. After eating everything except the legs of the table they weighed in. Kennedy gained seven and a quarter pounds and Herschberger seven.

Herschberger was humiliated but still had confidence in his superior capacity. So he went back to the table and ate thirteen eggs. Something was bound to happen. It did. Just before the game with Wisconsin Herschberger was seized with gastritis and was unable to play. Wisconsin won the game and Chicago's hopes of a championship went glimmering.

Mr. Stagg recalled the incident a few days ago while making plans for the Yale-Chicago game with some of his old players.

By the way, what has become of the folks who were panning Rogers Hornsby?

It is interesting to note that Jimmy Londos is willing to risk his wrestling title against Strangler Lewis for a paltry $250,000. Of course, Mr. Londos would work for no such pin money were charity not involved. The part charity would play is not quite clear unless Mr. Londos believes that the promoters would dip into Gov. Emmerson's charity fund to make up the difference between what the bout would draw and his guarantee.

In other words, Mr. Londos is asking a quarter of a million dollars for an event that wouldn't draw more than $100,000 and probably much less. I don't mean to suggest there would be no interest in a meeting between Londos and Lewis but I don't believe the enthusiasm would amount to civic hysteria. And $100,000 sport attractions are not common these days.

On the other hand, it would be unfair to expect Londos to give away the title he claims. It is worth at least $150,000 a year. But if he pretends to be interested in doing something to relieve distress among Chicago's poor he ought to be willing to accept a reasonable percentage of the money he draws.

Or else admit he doesn't want a Lewis match at any terms.

Dr. David J. Jones, president of the Chicago Cardinals, submits the following:

"In answer to Mr. J. H. Jensen's letter in your column of Sept. 4, I beg to state that Mr. Charles A. Comiskey, owner of Comiskey park informed me by letter on April 9, 1931 that the park would not be available for football during the season of 1931.

"That made it necessary for the Chicago Cardinals to obtain another park, and after considerable negotiations, it was arranged with the management of the Chicago National League Baseball team and the management of the Chicago Bears, for the Cardinals to play all their home games at Wrigley field.

"I appreciate the wonderful support and confidence the Cardinals received from the people of the south side, and I am in hopes, after this explanation, the same friendly feeling will still exist, and the south side will continue to support the Cardinals in the same loyal manner."

HANLEY ORDERS 2 DRILLS DAILY DESPITE THE HEAT

Fifty Purple Candidates to Report Today.

Despite the torrid weather, Coach Dick Hanley contemplates putting his Northwestern grid candidates through the regular practice routine at the opening workout of the season today. The Wildcat leader expects a squad of fifty players, who are counted 'on to keep the Purple in the conference race this fall.

"Although this hot weather is far from our liking, we cannot afford to slacken preparations for the opening of the season," Coach Hanley said yesterday. "We hope to get off to a flying start this week and, judging from the fine condition of the boys, we should be able to carry out our full practice program in spite of weather conditions."

All players have been requested to report at 10 o'clock this morning, when equipment will be issued. The morning workout will continue until noon, when the boys will be excused with orders to report again at 5:30 o'clock for the afternoon session.

Five Regulars Report.

Candidates for the freshman squad also will report today. A team of yearlings will be organized to play a regulation game with the varsity Saturday.

Among the candidates reporting yesterday were five players who performed regularly on the championship team last fall. They are Reb Russell, full back; "Pug" Rentner, half back; Capt. Dal Marvil and Jack Riley, tackles; and Jimmy Evans, guard.

A number of sophomores will be on hand and it is no secret that Coach Hanley expects to get some valiant service from several of these newcomers.

STAGG'S 40TH YEAR

For A. A. Stagg and the University of Chicago, the fourth decade of Maroon athletic history opens today when the fortieth football season gets under way. The first three decades were years of triumph for Stagg and Chicago, and even the last decade, the hardest the Old Man of the Midway has experienced, can be turned into a victorious period if the team this year is a winning one.

Stagg finds reason for encouragement in his present outlook. Not more than 45 men are expected to report this morning for the first practice and only half are of conference caliber. But barring misfortune, Stagg finds himself in this anniversary season with the material to produce a strong eleven.

Only Six Lettermen.

Six lettermen are all that can be counted upon. There is the veteran trio at center, Keith Parsons, pivot man, and Capt. Sam Horwitz and Stanley Hamberg at guards. Bernard Wien at end and Paul Stagg and Joe Temple in the back field are the other "C" men who report today.

Line reserves will be scanty, and if the Maroon team is harassed by injuries it will have its difficulties.

One of the brightest arrays of backs since the early '20's will be available with the most promising candidates being found in the ranks of the sophomores. If young Pat Page, Vinson Sahlin, and Pete Zimmer come through as they gave promise of doing in spring practice, Stagg will have a back field that can do everything well.

There will be two practices a day for Chicago until Sept. 26, for the university will not open until the end of the month. The players who earn the right, by ability or effort, will live together in the new residence halls for men, which are to be opened this autumn.

85 OUT AT ILLINOIS

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Beginning his 19th season as coach of the University of Illinois football team, Bob Zuppke will face about 85 candidates for the team tomorrow morning.

Most of the sophomore talent counted on will be available, it is expected. The 1930 freshmen were considered the strongest first year squad since

Need a Haircut or Apple Pie? Jimmy Foxx Can Fix You Up

[This is the second of a series of sketches on the Philadelphia Athletics.]

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Sept. 14.—If they need a man to mow the lawn, carry a trunk, or stir the lemonade at this year's world series, Jimmy Foxx can do those things, too. This is the most do-everythingest young man to come up to the major leagues since George Sisler, a left hander, arrived in St. Louis from the University of Michigan and announced that, yes, left hander or not, he could catch and play shortstop, too.

Jimmy was 17 years old and he wore high button shoes on the ball yard when Connie Mack first heard of him in the spring of 1925. He was playing in the Eastern Shore league of Maryland, and Frank Baker, the third baseman of the great Athletics of old, bobbed up one day jabbering about a great young ball player.

"What does he do?" Mr. Mack inquired.

"Pitch, catch, outfield, infield, hit, punt, tackle, knit, sew, cook, milk, plow, build a doghouse, sing a song, draw your picture—and if you just want a boy for general work, he can do that, too," Mr. Baker said.

So Connie Decides He'll Take a Look at This One.

"But, I mean, what does he do best?" Mr. Mack said.

"Man," said Mr. Baker, "I told you—pitch, catch, outfield, infield——"

"Don't generalize," said Mr. Mack. "What does he do positively most best?"

"Well, then, I'd say catch," Mr. Baker replied. "I'd say he can outcatch Schalk, Schang, mustard, pepper——"

Well, the boy was to be his practically free of charge, so Mr. Mack reckoned that aside from the carfare and the wear and tear on his nerves it would cost him little to take a look at the One Man Band from Maryland. And his nerves were practically immune to shock after all his years of gazing among the most horrendous impostors that every tripped over their own feet on a ball yard.

So up from Maryland came a round faced kid who could palm a plate in either hand, dig clams with his toes, shuck oysters with his teeth, and whale a baseball so hard that the stuffing bulged out through the seams.

He came up to be a catcher and found ahead of him in line for the job a young old man named Cy Perkins, the best catcher of his day, but fading out now, and Mickey Cochrane, the kid who was good enough to take over Cy's job. So Connie sent him up to the International league on a short term lease and brought him back in 1926. The kid still didn't realize that there was any one ahead of him. He expected to put on his bustles and stays and go under the bat and catch.

Connie Mack often judges ball players not so much by what they can do as by their love of doing it. He liked Jimmy Foxx for his love of a game of ball and he gave him little chances now and again. He was a better than fair catcher at the age of 18 and he swung so hard with a bat that it was a fairly even bet that he would break his back or smash a window somewhere across the street any time he swung.

He Tries a Few More Jobs and Makes Good at All.

Still, there was no job for him behind the bat with Cochrane and Perkins around and it wasn't until 1927 that Connie remembered all Baker had said about "pitch, catch, outfield, infield——"

Jimmy Dykes was ailing for a spell

BIG TEN FOOTBALL.

BIG TEN football practice opens officially this afternoon. One week from Saturday, only 11 days after first practice, Chicago, Minnesota, and Indiana display their 1931 wares against supposedly "trial" opponents. Hillsdale and Cornell colleges oppose the Maroons. Stagg's eleven beat Hinsdale last year only, 7 to 6, and Cornell may furnish a pretty rugged test if Coach Harker's material is equal to that which frequently emanates from the Iowa school. Minnesota seems to have little to fear from Ripon and North Dakota Aggies. Ohio U. (not Ohio State) had an impressive record in 1930 and could trouble the Hoosiers.

On the following Saturday, only 18 days, or 16 days with Sundays out, after first practice important tilts are carded. It seems strange to be taking football seriously at a time when the world and city series baseball games are not yet under way, but that's what this 1931 schedule requires.

Certainly one cannot overlook contests like those between Nebraska and Northwestern at Evanston, Pittsburgh and Iowa at Iowa City, St. Louis U. at Illinois, Notre Dame and Indiana at Bloomington, and Oklahoma Aggies at Minneapolis.

Such tests so early in the season need not necessarily determine later strength, especially when there is much new material to be welded in the modern football machines. Respective partisans, however, will attempt to draw a line on future prospects from these frays. Unexpected strength or unexpected weakness possibly may be detected. If the scores are about as expected opinion will be withheld.

It is hardly possible yet to judge whether attendance records will hold up or suffer. Because of schedule complications three elevens nominated as contenders—Northwestern, Michigan, and Purdue—do not meet. This may have an effect on average crowds later in the season.

Game Infernal; Hope Eternal.

Eighteen holes of wearing swearing,
Eighteen holes of kidding sharing,
Eighteen holes of work and worry,
Foursome ahead ne'er in a hurry;
Dubbing shot, sick at heart,
Wondering why you made the start;
Golf, I swear, is the curse of men,
Darned if I ever play again.

Ah ha! That was a dandy shot,
You're converted on the spot;
Hope within you springs eternal,
E'en though the game is ranked infernal.
Tomorrow I were the gods will see
You planted there upon the tee,
Hope within you all aglow;
Come on, fellows, I'm ready to go.

SARAZEN TAKES P. G. A. MEDAL WITH 145 TOTAL

Armour Plays, Learns He Is Exempt.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Gene Sarazen of Great Neck, N. Y., turned in a 36 hole score of 145 to capture the Alex Smith Memorial medal and head the list of qualifiers for the national professional golfers' championship tournament at the Wannamoisett Country club here today. Eddie Schultz of Troy, N. Y., was second with 146 and Arthur Gusa of Narragansett, R. I., third with 147.

The other qualifiers were Tom Creavy of Albany and John Golden of Noroton, Conn., each with 148; Walter Hagen, Henry Cuici, Walter Murray and Billy Burke with 149 each; Peter O'Hara, Jack Collins, Willie Macfarlane, Abe Espinosa, Robert Crowley, Densmore Shute, and Walter Bemish, 150 each; Paul Runyan, Cyril Walker, Horton Smith, Leo Diegel, David Hackney, Joe Kirkwood, Ed Dudley, Tony Butler, and Al Espinosa, 151 each; James Foulis, Bill Mehlhorn, Alfred Sargent, Vincent Eldred, and Pat Circelli, 152 each.

Johnny Farrell of Mamaroneck, N. Y., Lauris Ayton of Evanston, Jim Dante of the Braidburn club in New Jersey, Tom Kerrigan of Siwanoy, and Eddie Miller of Gadsden, Ala., all had 153 and just at dusk started a playoff for the last place in the qualifying round. Dante and Kerrigan were eliminated on the first hole.

Darkness Leaves Two Tied.

It was almost dark when the three who were left teed off to play the second hole, and it was pitch black when they reached the green. Farrell, after having to play safe on his second shot, almost hit the pin with his approach, and then holed an eight foot putt for a birdie 4 to tie Miller, who was on the green in two. Ayton was home in two also, but took three putts and eliminated himself.

Since it was by now utterly impossible to see the next green, a halt was called, and Farrell and Miller will have the night to think over how it all might have been avoided.

While Sarazen's performance was noteworthy it was the sterling comeback staged by Billy Burke, national open champion, and one or two others who seemed out of it this morning, that excited the imagination of the gallery. Burke was on the danger line with a 78 this morning, but this afternoon he rounded the turn in 35, despite two three-putt greens, and then came back in 36 for a 71 and a total of 149. That made the champion a qualifier.

Joke on Armour.

Playing with Burke and considered out of the running after the morning round of 77, Arthur Gusa of Narragansett rounded out a brilliant 70 this afternoon to trail Sarazen by two strokes.

The day was not without its amusing incidents. Tommy Armour, defending champion, played 18 holes and he struggled like a Trojan. His first round, 73, left him well inside the safe circle, but after all that toil Tommy was notified that he was exempt from qualifying. It developed that a new regulation was passed last November exempting the defending titlist from the rigors of qualifying, but no one took the trouble to notify the champion.

Chicagoans Favor New Golf Ball

The change in the official golf ball for 1932, as announced yesterday by the United States Golf association, was received by pros, amateurs, and Chicago District Golf association officials with enthusiastic indorsement. According to a concensus of prominent Chicago golfers, all players, from the lowly beginner to the seasoned pro, will benefit.

JOCK HUTCHISON.

George W. Blossom Jr, president of the Chicago District Golf association, said: "I am sure the officials and executive committee of our association feel that keeping the present size and increasing the weight will please a large majority of players. It is a move to be recommended."

Charles Evans Jr., national amateur champion in 1916 and 1920, thinks retaining the 1.68 inch diameter a wise move.

"The present ball lies better on the fairway than the old one. Now with a little more weight to stabilize shots in the wind, I think we will have as nearly perfect a ball for all classes as can be made."

Alec Cunningham, former French open champion, now at North Shore, said: "The added weight will give us better action in approach shots. The ball will bite on the green instead of skidding. The pros had no trouble with the present ball, but the average golfer will find the 1932 ball more fun."

Jock Hutchison, 1923 British open champion, approves the change, but still has fault to find.

"The increase in weight will help the amateurs in the wind and add distance from the tee, but that is not the change to help the pros. Couldn't the association change it so we could sell more of them at a higher price."

Mrs. Lee Mida, former women's open champion:

"Adoption of the heavier ball is good news for all, and especially for the duffer. I'm sure it will enable women to get better distance, and give us all better control."

Mrs. Melvin Jones, former women's western champion:

"The heavier ball will add five or ten yards to the golfer's wood shots. I have found that most of the prominent golfers are in favor of it. The action of the U. S. Golf association is great news."

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 14.—(AP)—A record price for Canadian racing of $2,437.45 for a $2 mutuel ticket was paid on a double bet at Thorncliffe park today. Only two men among the thousands in the stands held tickets on the double which is governed somewhat along the lines of a parlay bet.

The double was on the first and third races won by Roche D'Or and the Dipper, respectively.

Marian Morgan, Wanakah, N. Y., was second, with 87. Jane Weiller, Chicago district champion, had 89, and Peggy Wattles, Buffalo district champion, 91.

Chicago sent thirteen entries, but due to a gale off Lake Erie the scores were unusually high. The second 18 of the 72 hole medal play is scheduled for tomorrow.

DE PAUL RUSHES GRID DRILL FOR DETROIT U. GAME

Open Season Week from Tonight on Road.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Cooler weather yesterday was cheered heartily by Coach Eddie Anderson and Athletic Director Jim Kelly, who, with the assistance of Ben Connor, line coach, are preparing the De Paul university football team for its opening game a week from tonight with the University of Detroit. While the coaches made considerable progress last week, their efforts were handicapped by the heat.

The game at Detroit was added to an eight game schedule which originally called for an inaugural against North Dakota at Grand Forks on Oct. 3. The American Legion convention is the occasion for Detroit wishing to stage the early game.

Detroit Has Veteran Squad.

Detroit, coached by Gus Dorais, has compiled an excellent record in recent years. Dorais will have a veteran squad this fall. Last year Detroit won five games, lost three, and tied two. The tie games were scoreless contests with Marquette and Michigan State. Iowa, Fordham, and Loyola of New Orleans triumphed over Detroit.

De Paul has an excellent nucleus left from last year.

Several of the sophomores on the squad of 37 are promising material, so that Coach Anderson's task of picking a new center, a tackle, an end, and a right half back may not be unduly difficult.

De Paul's most recent losses are Capt. Red Harrington, right half back, who did not return to the university, and Jim O'Connor, an end. O'Connor has not matriculated, but an eye ailment will prevent him from competing in athletics. He also was a member of Coach Kelly's basketball team last winter.

To Elect New Captain.

An election will be held this week to chose a successor to Capt. Harrington.

Paddy Driscoll, 1920 captain, who held down the center position for three years, will be succeeded by one of three sophomore candidates. They are Jim Gorsky, 185 pound La Grange, Ill., athlete; Jack Kelly, former De Paul academy star, and Bert Lanum, who prepped at St. Ignatius. All three lads were hard at work yesterday alternating at center, while the varsity drilled on its forward pass attack.

Three guards, Everett McLain, Emmett Cowhey and Al Morse, each with a year's experience, are available. Ray Schuster, of De Paul, Leslie Rold, Senn, and Art Zwietka, De Paul, are sophomore guards.

Hal Cerne, who played on Mount Carmel's city championship team, is the veteran tackle returning. However, the loss of Stotts and Finnegan from last year's eleven necessitates the development of material for the other side of the line. Eddie Lyons and Jim Roche probably will hold the flank positions while replacement material is available in Harry Condon, Dick Finn and Vernon Moist, sophomores.

End Season on Coast.

Frank Hartman, a senior, and Jim Doody, Tom Geary, and Vin Flood, sophomores, are in training for the job of quarter back. Four half backs have had a year's experience. They are Matt Steffen, one of the team's best; Joe Dea, Ernest Butcher, and Ed Cassellas. Harry Engle and Ed O'Brien are sophomores. Art McGivern and Ted Jablonski are the experienced full backs.

De Paul will play three home games at Mills stadium on the west side. These are Illinois Wesleyan, Oct. 9; St. Mary's of Winona, Minn., Oct. 16, and South Dakota, Nov. 13. Hastings, Neb., Oct. 24, will be played at Soldiers' field.

De Paul will complete its schedule with a western trip meeting Arizona at Tuscon on Nov. 21 and San Francisco a week later.

South Section Prep Grid Prospects Please Coaches

(This is the third of a series of articles on football prospects in the Chicago Public High School league.)

Three teams tied with five victories and one defeat. That was the standing at the conclusion of the 1930 schedule in the south section of the Chicago Public High School Football league, and a greater battle for the sectional championship is predicted for this season.

Parker, Fenger, and Calumet, with Phillips and Morgan Park, the other members of the south section, behind them, were the elevens grouped in first place last year. The three-way tie was made when Parker, 1929 sectional champion, defeated Fenger in the final league contest, 28 to 6.

Fenger was the south section's representative in the semi-final games for the league title when the flip of a coin gave it the sectional championship. But Fenger, in its first semi-final game, faced one of the central section's greatest teams, Lindblom, and the central division champions piled up touchdown after touchdown to win, 59 to 0.

South Section Opens Oct. 10.

Many letter men are returning, and together with the new athletes who are now seeking places on the regular squads will be seen in the south section when the season opens on Oct. 10. Coaches of all teams, who for the last week have been watching the veterans and new players in action, are saying that the outlooks for their teams are "very promising."

At Parker, where Coach Nate Wasserman has led the team to seven sectional championships in his 12 years' régime, seven letter men are back. Among them is Harvey Taylor, captain of this year's eleven. Others are George Dennis, Jack Williamson, and George Stire, linemen.

In the back field will be Rudy Mohrier, Sam Angelich, Maurice Ray, and Bill Snyder. New players who already have won places as regulars this season include Lester Simpson and William Alt.

Line Averages 165 Pounds.

"My line this year will average about 165 pounds, while the back field, with two veterans, is as good as I ever had. This year's squad looks pretty good," said Coach Wasserman.

Starting his second season as coach at Fenger, Douglas Fessenden has two letter men and "quite a promising group of youngsters." His two regulars from last year's team are Leslie Cohen, half back, and Charles Kassay, who played center last season and will be shifted to the back field this year.

Others who will play in the Fenger back field are Paul Benne, a 200 pound full back, and Joe Rudzic. Four other new players will be seen on the regular squad. They are August Zikas, Fritz Benedetti, Walter Stefinic, and Jim Rodezeen.

One of Fenger's pre-season contests will be against Ashland High school of Ashland, Ky., on Oct. 3. Ashland has been undefeated for the last four seasons. Fenger's first practice game is with Elgin on Sept. 26.

Calumet Has Only 2 Veterans.

Despite the loss of 20 letter men, Coach Edwin Dygert of Calumet has found good material among the 90 candidates who reported last week. Harry Summers, end, and John Borchert, who played center last year and who probably will be a guard this season, are the only two veterans among the players.

Coach Dygert's back field will include Ray Turner, a 109 pound half back; Bill Bloom and Arthur Schoen. The regular center will be Arch Kraus, while Joe Smith will play either guard or tackle.

"I have lost three half backs from last year's team," said Coach Ben H. Mosby of Wendell Phillips, "but there are plenty good players to take their places. Horace Foshee, Harold Sheridan, Thomas Dietrich, and Lester Woodward will play in the Phillips back field this year."

James Gordon, Julius Greene, Jerome Scott, William Anderson, and William McKinney are among the players trying for line positions. Three of the regular linemen are Thomas Crawford, tackle; John Horton, guard, and William Payne, end.

4 Old Linemen at Morgan Park.

At Morgan Park, winner of the 1925 sectional title, four linemen and three backs who played on last year's team have returned. The veterans are Leonard Cummings, center, and Norman Rathye, co-captains of the 1931 squad; Dick Dowlin, half back; Jack Bushnell, end; Clyde Pendleton, half back; Bob Ketcham, end, and Earl Guderyhan, guard.

Two new players have been selected to play on the regular team by Coach Robert Antonidis, who will be starting his second season at Morgan Park. They are George Carroll, end, and Walter Kleiman, a 150 pound guard.

The south section schedule follows:

OCTOBER 10.
Morgan Park at Parker.
Calumet at Phillips.
Fenger, bye.

OCTOBER 17.

Fenger at Morgan Park.

OCTOBER 24.

Halas will continue as president and treasurer of the Bears and is a member of the board of directors. Jim Bausch, football star, who was employed as an insurance salesman by Lupton, was the center of an eligibility controversy in the Big Six last year and ultimately was declared ineligible after participating in a post-season football game.

Ormund Beach, star full back on the Jayhawk championship team, but who has not registered at the university so far this year, is said to have been employed during the spring semester and during the summer by Lupton as chauffeur and clerk.

Duck Hunters Reserve Blinds for November

BY BOB BECKER.

Now that the government has decided Illinois' duck season of thirty days is to open on Nov. 1, many waterfowl hunters in the state started yesterday to reserve shooting dates in the Illinois river country where daily fee blinds are operated for free lance hunters. Same bag limits will prevail—15 ducks per day and thirty in possession.

There isn't any doubt that the battle waged under the leadership of Director of Conservation Ralph B. Bradford for a change in the Oct. 1 opening has secured one of the best months of the season for Illinois. Although mallard shooting is lots of fun on the ice and one gets that sport down the Illinois in December, the birds arrive in Illinois around Oct. 20, and during November the sport always has been excellent.

Pleases Southern Hunters.

Northern Illinois hunters will not care for this new regulation so much as southern Illinois shooters, judging by letters which we have received from the Fox river valley. Around Cairo, Ill., where many northern Illinois hunters go for goose shooting in the wheat fields and on the sand bars, the Nov. 1 regulation is a life saver. There is practically no good hunting in that section until November.

Although the waterfowl season this fall will be short, it promises to be one of the most interesting open seasons in years, because ammunition for the argument about the relative scarcity or abundance of ducks will be gathered during the 30 day open season and then "shot off" for the rest of the winter.

Shortage Is Admitted.

Today thousands of sportsmen, mindful of the hunting they have had during the last two years, admit a shortage of birds and are willing to take a short and poor month for duck hunting this fall as a good conservation measure. But there are other thousands who refuse to believe government reports on the scarcity of birds and want a long season for killing ducks. The fight has been a bitter one and has put the biological survey on the spot. Soon the flight from the north will give us facts on the situation, and the migration should settle all arguments.

Curran's 75 Wins Annual Germania Club Golf Meet

R. J. Curran won the 12th annual Germania club golf tournament yesterday at the Bob o' Link course with 85—10—75. P. M. Conrad shot an 86—10—76 to capture second honors. Tom Loftis was third with 94—17—77. Seventy-five members participated.

Griffith to Resume Ring Drill Today

Fight Decisions

At New York—Andy Mitchell knocked out Duane Duncan [7]; Vincent Parille beat Charlie Wepner [5]; Dusek Fullam knocked out Max Felz [2].

Tuffy Griffith is ready to begin his ring lessons preparitory to meeting Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, in the opening indoor show of the season at the Chicago Stadium Sept. 23. After several days in the Wisconsin woods Griffith and his entourage yesterday moved into the Arcade gymnasium.

At the same time Nate Lewis, Stadium matchmaker, announced the complete card for the Griffith-Schaaf bout. Lou Scozza and Larry Johnson and Dave Maier and Tiger Thomas are scheduled for eight round matches.

Schaaf to Box an "Unknown."

The remainder of the card follows: John Schwako vs. Henry Lamar, 6 rounds; Solly Schuman vs. Hymie Wiseman, 5 rounds, and Phil Ross vs. Pep Justo, 5 rounds.

The Stadium ballyhoo received a setback yesterday. Schaaf, who had been expected here tomorrow, will not come before Friday, and it may be later than that.

Ernie Must Arrive Saturday.

However, Schaaf's activity is exceptional. In a month he will have engaged in more bouts than the average heavyweight has in six months. After Campolo, Roberti and the Unknown, Schaaf meets Griffith. Then he races back east to engage Napoleon Jack Dorval five days later.

Schaaf under the five day rule of the Illinois athletic commission, must be here Saturday.

The Stadium also has learned that Jack Sharkey, Schaaf's sponsor, and the man who was expected to furnish reams of copy publicizing the fight, will not visit Chicago.

Tuffy expects to start boxing this afternoon. The Chicago lad isn't worried about Schaaf's presence. He's signed the contract, knows what percentage of the gate he'll get and that's that. Incidentally, the Stadium is not offering Schaaf a percentage. He's coming for a flat guarantee of $10,000.

4 RACE HORSES STOLEN FROM BELMONT PARK

New York, Sept. 14.—[Special.]—Four race horses valued at $30,000 were stolen from the Belmont Park racetrack just outside the city limits in Long Island tonight. Police were told that the thieves arrived at the stable in a big truck, backed the machine up to the door of the stalls, drove the horses into it, and carted them away.

The horses, Sun Mission, Robot, Breezing Thru, and Carnival, were registered in the name of Dr. Irving Jacobs. Gossip at the track had it that they were really the property of Kid Beebe, former prize fighter, now a figure in Broadway night life.

Willie Hoppe will make his first appearance of the season when he opens a five day exhibition against Welker Cochran at the Kieckhefer Recreation room this afternoon. Hoppe and Cochran will play ten blocks, each block consisting of 25 points of three cushions; 100 points of 18.2 balkline and fancy shots.

CUBS GO BACK TO TOIL TODAY WITH BRAVES AS FOES

Having enjoyed a day of rest, subsequent to their double triumph over Boston on Sunday, the Cubs will return to their labors today with the Braves facing them again. As third place money from the world series is at stake, the north siders naturally are anxious to stretch their winning streak, which now numbers five in a row. Prior to this they had dropped nine in succession.

Pat Malone, whose days as a Cub will close with the current season, will pitch today and probably will draw Socks Seibold as an opponent. For the final of the year against the Braves tomorrow Hornsby will name Bob Smith.

Instead of separate games next Sunday and Monday with the Giants, the two affairs will be coupled in a double header on Sunday. This will leave Monday an open date.

DEMPSEY STOPS TWO FOES AT SALT LAKE CITY

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey knocked out two of four opponents in a boxing exhibition here tonight.

Jack Silvers, 210, Chicago, lasted only 40 seconds, going down with a hard right to the chin. Bill Longson, 190, Salt Lake City, lasted 2½ minutes, Dempsey knocking him out with a series of body and head punches.

Del Baxter, 196, Cornish, Utah, went two rounds, Jack toying with his opponent. Tony Clawson, 195, Salt Lake City, also boxed one round with the erstwhile mauler. Clawson cuffed Dempsey with several head blows, but failed to hurt him.

Sam P. Hall Noted Boxing Critic, Dies

Sam Potts Hall, nationally known as a boxing critic, died at the Garfield Park hospital yesterday following an operation for hernia. He was thought to be on the road to recovery when complications set in, causing his death. He was 43 years old.

Hall, born in La Salle, Ill., was assistant and then sporting editor of the Chicago Examiner from 1908 to 1924. He then went into the city department and subsequently traveled with the Cubs for one season. After that he wrote boxing for the Los Angeles Examiner and New York American.

The body will be at the Ketcham funeral parlor, 6522 South Halsted street, until 10 a. m. tomorrow. Burial will be at Ottawa or La Salle, Ill.

Just before his death Hall expressed belief that the Cardinals would triumph over the Athletics in the world series.

Hall was summoned to work on the Examiner after a story he had written on the death of Young Greenberg in a boxing match with Eddie Tancel at La Salle.

SAINTS WILLING TO PLAY COAST LEAGUE CHAMP

If St. Paul can defeat the International league champion in the "Little World Series," the Saints may tackle the full season titleholders of the Pacific coast circuit.

President Thomas Jefferson Hickey of the American association yesterday advised the Pacific Coast league president that the Saints would be glad to meet in the winner of that league's pennant on the western front in October. The Pacific Coast league teams agreed to such a series last winter but two different leaders for the split season is certain and the resultant play-off may make it to late.

President Hickey advised that St. Paul would be glad to play the entire series, if one can be ararnged, in the park of the Pacific Coast champion.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Western turfmen thought they had the Public Lincoln Dixie purse at their mercy when they sent such good runners as Listo, Kincsen, Martha Jones, and Fiddler into the contest at Lincoln Fields and they were not far from being wrong.

At the end of the battle Fiddler, not exactly a westerner but owned by Tony Pelleteri of New Orleans, was the winner by a neck from Listo with Kincsen third. Trailing along behind them were Eskimo, Sister Zoe, Who Win, Prince Atheling, and Martha Jones.

Racing over a track that had been dulled by early afternoon showers, Fiddler, a son of Wildair, turned in a marvelous performance, running the seven-eighths of a mile in 1:23 4-5, just fractions of a second off the track record.

Fiddler Goes to Front.

Jockey Charley Landolt sent Fiddler to the front early. For a time he was winging along in the lead by four lengths but in the late stages Listo offered a terrific challenge and might have won in a few more strides. Fiddler kept going long enough to get the decision and won by a neck from Listo with Kincsen two lengths back in third place.

In the mutuels Fiddler paid 3 to 1 and it was another example of, lucky Tony Pelleteri's luck. He bought Fiddler only a few weeks ago, and, as the saying goes, everything that Tony touches turns into gold.

Your correspondent feels a bit guilty about the running of the third race for 2 year olds which was at six furlongs. Way back last December we inspected the budding racers in young Tom Taggart's French Lick Springs stable at French Lick, Ind.

Names Him Hoosier Prince.

Young Mr. Taggart had a very expensive colt running around in his paddocks. He was a bay son of High Time-Rosanne. It was by far the best looking colt in the Taggart stable, and young Taggart asked, "What shall I name him?"

"King Pluto" was our first suggestion. So the name was submitted to the Jockey club for this fine looking young race horse.

The Jockey club rejected it.

"Let's hook him up with Indiana," suggested Mr. Taggart.

So Hoosier Prince was the name we suggested, and the Jockey club put its O. K. on this one.

Hoosier Prince has tried many times this year, but he has never won a race. He started in the third at Lincoln Fields yesterday.

Driving down the stretch, Golden State took the lead, but coming along right at his heels was this Indiana colt which was named Hoosier Prince. He was an easy second and we feel guilty because we didn't bet on Hoosier Prince across the board, for he paid $96.46 for a $2 ticket to place and $19.40 to show.

STELLAR CUP FIELD.

Joseph A. Murphy, presiding steward at Hawthorne, who has been in the east in the interest of the Hawthorne Gold cup on Oct. 8, arrived home yesterday, bringing the entries of Twenty Grand, St. Brideaux, Kai Feng, and Jim Dandy. As the entries of Mate and Mike Hall already had been received, the race is shaping up into the championship race of the year. The entire Kilmer string is still at Saratoga and it is rumored that it will be shipped west.

Judge Murphy met Secretary Joseph McLennan in New York and both found the keenest interest in Hawthorne's coming classic. The better class of horseman is keenly alive to the importance of preserving as many weight for age races for 3 year olds and upward as possible. When a horse has passed its 3 year old form, except for such races, it is practically in the hands of the handicapper.

Fitzsimmons Supports Plan.

This sentiment was expressed by Jimmie Fitzsimmons when he said that although he did not have a horse in training which could bid for a prize like the Hawthorne cup, he might ship the best he had to show that the race should be encouraged. Clyde Phillips notified Secretary McLennan that Spinach was coming along in fine order and as he usually is a good horse in the fall, he will be shipped, if he shows any form at all, between now and the race.

The W. J. Salmon stable, which produced the first winner of the cup in Display, has Dr. Freeland in mind for shipment. The horse was injured in a race at Saratoga, and it was thought that he might be out for the year, but he is coming along again satisfactorily.

The question of twitching horses at the post, which has been debated by horsemen during the last few months, was solved by the Hawthorne management yesterday at a conference between Starter Harry Morrissey and Mr. Murphy.

The rules of racing will be enforced at the coming meeting at Hawthorne, and every horse will be required to take its post position as designated on the program. There will be no "outside" horses. No twitches will be used except at the request of the owner or trainer of the particular horse to be started.

WALKER FETED BY M'DONALD; GETS NO ROAST BEEF

Reveal Mayor Recovering from Food Poisoning.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Mayor Walker of New York, interviewed in a hotel room after he had lunched with Prime Minister MacDonald at 10 Downing street today, labeled as ridiculous a statement reported to have been given out by him when he was at Cannes, France, that he is to become a candidate for the United States senate.

JAMES J. WALKER.

"Now isn't that silly?" he said. "Do you think a man of my experience would announce himself a candidate for office 3,000 miles away and a year ahead of time?"

In High Spirits.

Perfectly dressed in morning coat and razor-pressed, striped trousers, Mayor Walker was in excellent spirits, although it was revealed he had been ill from poisoning and a bad cold during the last four days.

He said that the luncheon with the prime minister was his first meal in four days. He added that he "did not have roast beef," for which he admitted, he was a bit disappointed. He was lavish in his praise of Mr. MacDonald, whom he met years ago in New York, and said the premier appeared to be cheerful and unworried about the future.

Assails Prohibition in U. S.

Mayor Walker today forsook his usual geniality a few moments to launch a denunciation of prohibition.

"If we had beer there would be billions of dollars annually in revenue," he said. "Drinkers—and I don't know any who drank before prohibition who has quit since—would save money and would not be forced to drink 'needle' beer, while others would save because taxes could be reduced.

"What is more important, despite the argument that gangsters might turn to other fields if beer is legalized, there is no question but what beer wars would end, and they are the worst, most notorious type of gang activity. There is no question in my mind that gangsters have risen into power with prohibition, and it is not presumptuous to think that they would go out with it."

Would Register Aliens.

In Mayor Walker's opinion, one of the most effective ways of lessening crime would be to register and control aliens, as is done in England and France.

Mayor Walker declared that the "sensational newspapers," because they play up crime and the movies and "make heroes of gangsters," are aggravating the problem. He warned England that if her papers did not quit featuring American crime she would get the gangster plague also.

Asked about the reputations of American cities, he said:

"New York and Chicago are not treated fairly in publicity. They have been given publicity without a full understanding of their local problems."

KANSANS BOOM A CANDIDATE TO HEAD THE G. A. R.

2,000 Veterans Rally at Encampment.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 14.—(AP)—With an enthusiasm that would do credit to an organization of members one-fourth their average age, the Grand Army of the Republic today plunged into the round of activities of their 65th annual encampment as though it were their first gathering.

While the encampment routine had just started, the 2,000 or more civil war veterans started campaigns for new officers and the 1932 convention city.

Kansas veterans, their sunflower ornaments taking a prominent place in the color of the flag decorated city, advanced H. I. Merrill for commander-in-chief with a steady piping and drumming in the crowded convention headquarters.

Cleveland, Springfield, Ill., and St. Paul were among the first cities to make bids for the 1932 convention.

Business matters completed, veterans and affiliated organizations presented to Des Moines schools, libraries, and Boy Scouts, silk flags and tablets.

Throughout today the encampment served to reunite several comrades in arms who had not seen each other since their fighting days.

The will of the late Robert J. Thompson, Chicago business man and officer of the legion of honor, who was American consul at Aix la Chapelle, Germany, at the outbreak of the world war, was admitted to probate yesterday by Oscar S. The will divides the estate into 120 parts and leaves it in trust. Most of the estate is left to the widow, Mrs. Madeleine Muriel Thompson, who is given her husbands' residences at Paris and at Wiesbaden, Germany. A daughter, Muriel Madeleine, two sons, Robert James and Cyril Sharman; a former wife, Martha, and her son, Paul, are given bequests. Mr. Thompson was the head of the Thompson Automatic Recording Safe company, 35 Wacker drive. The value of his estate has not yet been computed.

PRINCE LEOPOLD, HATED COUSIN OF EX-KAISER, DIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—Prince Friederich Leopold of Prussia, known as the "Red prince," a cousin and brother-in-law of the former kaiser, died of apoplexy at his residence in Flatow, East Prussia, today, aged 66.

Bitter enmity between the royal cousins and the nickname of the "Red prince" arose over an incident in 1918 when Prince Leopold joyfully hoisted a Red flag on the tower of his Klein-Glienicke castle, near Potsdam, upon learning of the former kaiser's flight to Holland.

The prince figured in several scandals. He last attracted public attention through his attempts to sell some relics of Frederick the Great and to auction some of the Hohenzollern art treasures despite protests of other members of the family. He is survived by his widow, Princess Louise of Schleswig Holstein, a sister of Wilhelm's first wife.

OFFICIALS BATTLE FOES OF FARM CO-OP MARKETING

Conference Plans New Campaign.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Plans for organizing American farmers, so as to win their appreciation of the benefits offered in the federal farm marketing act and to combat the "insidious campaign to nullify the development of cooperative marketing" were being formulated in a conference of government and farm organization officials here last night.

Battle in Next Congress.

The sessions are being held in Hotel Sherman at the call of E. A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation. Yesterday's meeting was addressed by James C. Stone, chairman of the federal farm board; by O'Neal; by L. J. Tabor, head of the National grange, and a number of federal and state agricultural extension leaders from New Hampshire to Nevada and Louisiana.

All seemed of the same mind, that the coming session of congress, where federal appropriations for county agent and other farm educational work will be up for passage, was to be the scene of a bitter fight between those favoring development of cooperative marketing under federal aid, and those organizing a movement to "get the government out of business."

Fluctuation Called Problem.

"I am convinced that the problem of the farmer today is not so much low price levels as the fluctuation in prices from year to year," declared Stone. "Further, I don't believe anything can ever be done whereby all producers can be helped. We must work with the more efficient farmers in securing effective organization. Farm women and the rising generation offer most promise in developing better rural life, the object of endeavor for all farm agencies."

C. A. Ewing, president of the National Live Stock Marketing association, declared that the first need in securing better farm organization was to establish a more unified purpose and leadership among farm leaders.

L. J. Tabor of the National Grange declared that of the 27 million farmers in America, but two million now belonged to the large national farm organizations.

Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, is scheduled to speak at the conference this morning.

Mrs. Luna Burtis Dead; Struck by Motorcycle

Mrs. Luna M. Burtis, 51 years old, 6448 Normal boulevard, died yesterday in St. Bernard's hospital of injuries suffered last Wednesday when she was struck by a motorcycle ridden by William Kedlsen, 17 years old, 6605 South Morgan street, at Marquette road and Normal boulevard. Mrs. Burtis was the wife of Melvin P. Burtis and a daughter of the late Col. C. W. Carr, who was postmaster at Englewood for many years before its annexation. She is survived by her husband and two brothers. Funeral services will be held in the chapel at 63d street and Harvard avenue Thursday at 1 p. m.

CRIB TENDER WHO HELPED RESCUE 31 IS DEAD AT 66

William G. Bain, 5917 Magnolia avenue, assistant keeper at the Wilson avenue crib, died yesterday in the Marine hospital. He was 66 years old.

In his thirty-five years of service on Chicago's water cribs, Mr. Bain battled the worst storms that swept the lake. He participated in the rescue of thirty-one persons when the Flora M. Hill was crushed by ice floes and sunk in March, 1911. He saw waves smash windows in the Chicago avenue crib and tear away some of the supporting piling in a storm in November, 1914. Times innumerable he assisted in the dangerous work of blasting ice away from the intake pipes.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Ruth Wales, and a brother, Daniel.

CHICAGO STOCK SELLING BREAKS OVER UTILITIES

Commonwealth Edison Drops 8½ Points.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Converging in the utility shares, a fresh wave of selling broke over the Chicago market yesterday. Stocks were carried down sharply from last week's final prices and established a new set of record low quotations. Utility issues, particularly the Insull securities, caught the worst of the hammering. The result was some of the severest losses in these stocks in recent weeks.

There was no spot news to account for the sudden outburst of selling in the Insull shares, but the effective support which has enabled some of these issues to hold their ground in last week's declining market was not in evidence yesterday.

Seek to Explain Weakness.

Reasons advanced to explain the weakness in the Insull group ranged from vague reports about a rival group, which is attempting to depress the market in the stocks, to talk of the prospect that legislation unfavorable to the utility interests will be enacted when congress convenes. But the possibility of such legislation was no stronger yesterday than it was a week ago, and the talk about a "battle of giants" in the Insull system was vague indeed.

Trading in all the Insull stocks was unusually heavy. Turnover in Middle West Utilities exceeded 26,000 shares and more than 25,000 shares of Insull Utility changed hands. The latter issue broke over 2 points to a record low price of 19¾. Middle West sold a fraction under 13, the lowest price on record for the present stock. Off 8½ points to 174½. Commonwealth Edison was at the lowest price since 1929.

Bendix Down a Fraction.

Other losses in the group were Insull Utility second preferred, 5½ points; Insull debentures, 3 points; Public Service no par, 7 points, and Corporation Securities, 1¾ points.

Stocks of other descriptions were also weak yesterday, but the net losses in most instances did not exceed 2 points. Bendix and U. S. Radio each lost a fraction and Borg-Warner was off a point.

INDUSTRY SEEN IN POSITION TO START HUMMING

Lacks Only Impetus to Begin Upturn.

BY O. A. MATHER.

There is no doubt that trade and industry are in better position to go forward than at any previous time in the last two years. But when will they start? That is the paramount question nowadays and the answers and surmises are varied.

However, there also is the general admission that actual recovery from the present depression, just as in previous similar periods, may be well under way before it is commonly realized that a change has occurred.

"Comparisons with a year and two years ago emphasize the currently favorable outlook which exists for business expansion," THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Survey says in its monthly résumé. "The especially favorable factor consists in the need consumers have for goods, accentuated by two successive autumns in which they have failed to make their usual purchases. Prices have been cut so that many commodities are as cheap as they were before the war.

Suggests Expansion.

"The upturn in textiles and shoe manufacturing, with their operations now greatly in excess of the same period a year ago, suggests that expansion in the industries turning out producers' goods may soon become evident. At least one prominent cotton manufacturer and a large shoe company are already placing orders for equipment."

It would appear that one of the chief obstacles to recovery is lack of confidence in the future.

"In previous depressions some event has signalized the return of prosperity, has renewed the confidence of great numbers in the future," the Survey continues. "Once it was a turn in our foreign trade. Another time a foreign war did it. In still another case it was the realization that there was a shortage of housing facilities. What specific event will bring the turn this time is not clear but that conditions are ripe when such a development shall come is obvious."

Col. Ayres' Viewpoint.

On the other hand, doubt that the current depression has run its course is expressed by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, economist, in the monthly bulletin of the Cleveland Trust company.

"Probably the most reliable index of business activity is the volume of industrial production reported in data compiled by the federal reserve bank," he says. "The high point of prosperity was reached in June, 1929. The decline of December was rapid but then came a period of recovery and a sideways movement lasting to the summer of 1930. In the second half of last year the decline was unbroken but a new advance occurred in the early months of this year.

Lower Month by Month.

"Since last April a new decline has set in. The record of each succeeding month has been lower than that of the one before and the July figure is a new low for the depression. Unfortunately, it seems probable that August was lower yet.

"The much hoped for fall upturn in business does not appear to be developing, although production increases continue in some lines of consumption goods, such as tires, shoes and textiles. The basic cause of the world's commercial difficulties is the weakness in commodity prices and there is no evidence that the bottom has been reached."

Three other obstacles to recovery are listed by Col. Ayres. They are the fiscal troubles of England and Germany, the restriction of credit by banks throughout the world in order to assure their own safety, and the troubles of American railroads, which are discouraging investors.

SEARS, ROEBUCK SALES

The business of Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago mail order and chain store concern, experienced a mild pickup in the last month, although still running below a year ago. Sales for the four weeks from Aug. 14 to Sept. 10 totaled $24,431,663, compared with $23,769,479 in the preceding four weeks. However, the latest total was 13.8 per cent below the $28,030,215 registered in the corresponding period in 1930.

Sales thus far this year totaled $223,868,349, compared with $251,637,495 for the same time last year, a decline of 7.4 per cent. These percentage declines are less than the average recession in commodity prices and, therefore, the actual tonnage volume of business is larger than last year.

Small Factories Play Big Part in Nation's Industry

BY SCRUTATOR.

As a result of the huge consolidations which have taken place in industrial America within the last decade it is a popular belief that small factories now form only a small part of the nation's manufacturing life, and that the great majority of factory wage earners are employed in the giant plants of the larger corporations.

While it is true that the larger factories of the country do employ an enormous number of workers, still the part played by the smaller and intermediate manufacturing establishments in our industrial life is far more important than the layman might suppose.

The national industrial conference board has made a study of the situation, in which some interesting figures are disclosed. The study is based on United States census figures of 1923, in which manufacturing establishments are classified according to number of wage earners. Since then the census authorities have not used this classification, but the total number of wage earners reported in 1927—the latest date for which figures are available—while slightly smaller than in 1923, is seen as not essentially different in its significance.

What Figures Show.

Of the 196,309 manufacturing establishments listed, 158,922 employed fifty or less wage earners. This is 80.9 per cent of the total number. Only .5 per cent of the nation's factories, or 963, employed more than 1,000 wage earners, while .9, or 1,784, employed from 501 to 1,000 wage earners. Factories employing from 101 to 250 numbered 10,023, or 5.1 per cent, and factories employing from 251 to 500 numbered 3,835, or 2 per cent.

As might be expected, the plants using more than 1,000 wage earners employed the greatest number of any single grouping, with 2,112,827 wage earners, or 24.1 per cent of the total number. Taken as a whole the largest grouping of factories employed 71.2 per cent of the wage earners, the intermediate section 19.4 per cent and the smallest 9.4 per cent.

It is interesting to note that the establishments employing 100 or less actually used more wage earners than the larger plants employing 1,000 or more. In the former 2,525,830 workers were employed in comparison with 2,112,827 employed by the larger plants.

Relative Efficiency.

As to the relative efficiency of the larger and smaller plants, the national industrial conference board has much to say on behalf of both, but it emphasizes that the success of either largely rests with the aggressiveness, ability and alertness of the managements. It finds that the general level of efficiency and well being is higher in the larger establishments for a number of good reasons.

Large scale operations mean that there will be standardization, with consequent reductions in waste. The large factory will employ experts to search out possible losses and to devise methods of expansion on a scale hardly possible for the small plant owner. And often, by reason of the very size of its wage earning staff, the management may feel a responsibility both to the employés and to the community which might not be the case where only a few were employed. These are but a few of the reasons why the large plant may have the edge over the smaller one.

On the other hand, the small plant may enjoy a flexibility not possessed by the large manufacturing establishment whose profitable operation may depend on mass production sustained without interference with the regular order.

Can Make Quick Changes.

The small plant may change its operating method without upsetting a whole scheme of arrangement—a procedure especially adaptable to rush orders. It is better equipped to handle business without red tape and the ability of the active heads of the company to deal direct with customers has its advantages.

At any rate, the small and intermediate sized plants occupy an important place in American industry and, as is pointed out by the industrial conference board, have it in their power either to assure the success of or to block effectually any general policy for the improvement of general industrial conditions.

CURB'S DEDICATION IS MARRED BY FALL OF STOCK PRICES

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The curb market's official dedication of its new 14 story building turned out to be a distinctly bearish ceremony today, if the action of share prices may be regarded as providing the keynote.

Share prices were on the down grade along a broad front in the most active market since June. The turnover approximated 510,000 shares and trading embraced the largest number of issues active in some time. Utilities again bore the brunt of the selling pressure. There was some upturn from the lowest in the late trading, but the rally lacked vigor.

Electric Bond and Share was traded in large volume, contributing about 13 per cent of the day's entire turnover. The stock dropped 2 points to a new low, then recovered half its fall. American Gas and Electric dropped 4 points. American Light and Traction, Central and Southwest Utilities, Insull Utility Investment, and Middle West Utilities were among issues recording new lows, losses ranging from 1 to 3 points. United Light A held about steady. Among the high priced, infrequently or thinly traded issues, Commonwealth Edison closed at 174, off 10, and Public Service of Northern Illinois at 135, off 20, both new lows.

Price of Copper Sets New Loan at 7¼ Cents

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Copper was reported available today at a new all time low of 7¼ cents a pound, but no actual sales were made at that level. Copper buying is small both here and abroad. The continued increase in refined stocks have influenced consumers to become extremely cautious in their bidding. In those quarters a feeling exists that unless production is reduced prices must be reduced. Until there is a drastic curtailment in production it was expected buying of copper would be small.

$30,000,000 Argentine Notes May Be Renewed

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—It was reported in Wall street today that approximately $30,000,000 of the $50,000,000 one year 5 per cent notes of the Argentine government would be exchanged for new 5½ per cent six months notes. No comment on the matter could be obtained from Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co., the bankers for the government. More than thirty-five American firms doing business in Argentina have subscribed for the new notes, it is said. Some $20,000,000 in gold from Argentina is in New York or en route as part payment for the maturing notes.

STEEL OPERATIONS IN YOUNGSTOWN DISTRICT MAKE BELATED GAINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 14.—Reports from Youngstown today indicated the steel industry was making some belated seasonal expansion of production following the low level to which output fell over Labor day.

Chiefly as result of a step-up in operations of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, the largest ingot producer in the Mahoning valley, activity in the Youngstown district is estimated at 41 per cent of capacity, the highest for the last six weeks.

The increase in output is attributed to at least a temporary improvement in demand for steel.

Twenty-seven of the sixty-six open hearth furnaces in the district are melting, against nineteen a week ago, including twenty of the fifty-one furnaces in independent plants, against twelve a week ago.

Operations of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company approximate 34 per cent of capacity, against 20 per cent the latter part of last week, 4 points above what had been predicted. Its Campbell plant is operating at 6§ per cent of capacity, reflecting improvement in pipe mill production.

With eight out of twenty-four open hearth furnaces active, the company has more furnaces going than at any time since the second week of August. Its Bessemer steel department also has resumed operations.

Denies Millers Profited from Farm Board Deals

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

James C. Stone, chairman of the federal farm board, yesterday formally denied that milling companies profited from grain operations of the board.

The denial in the form of a statement prepared by Stone in collaboration with George S. Milnor, president of the government sponsored grain stabilization corporation, was in answer to a question by Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma.

JAMES C. STONE. [Acme Photo.]

The Oklahoma executive asked if it is not true that the board loaned 1,000,000 bushels of wheat to one milling company when wheat was 85 cents a bushel and now is taking it back at a price so low the company is profiting $600,000 by the purported transaction.

Doesn't Own Wheat, He Says.

"The federal farm board has not and does not own any wheat," Stone said. "The grain stabilization corporation is the owner of all the wheat which has been purchased for stabilization purposes.

"During the winter the stabilization corporation offered to sell wheat to any miller in the United States at the current market price and for cash, with the agreement that if the miller ground and exported the wheat in the form of flour prior to June 1, 1931, the miller would be given the privilege of returning to the stabilization corporation any time before July 1 an equal quantity of the same grade of wheat as that which had been exported in the form of flour, and on the miller returning such wheat the original per bushel purchase price would be refunded.

"By this operation the stabilization corporation saved from four to six months' storage and carrying charges, amounting to from 5 cents to 9 cents a bushel.

"In order to sell the flour for export the miller was forced to meet world competitive prices, and therefore the loss that he incurred on the high price wheat that he had purchased offset the gain that he later made in returning the wheat.

"The principal advantage to the miller was that it enabled him to maintain his established flour brands in foreign markets and to help keep his plant in operation, while otherwise the plant would have been partly closed down, thereby adding to the unemployment prevailing at that time.

Total Thus Handled.

"That the millers did not find the operation a particularly profitable one is evidenced by the fact that the total quantity of the wheat thus handled was approximately 3,000,000 bushels throughout the entire United States. The plan was open to all millers in the United States and no single milling firm took advantage of it to the extent of more than 150,000 bushels."

Gov. Murray had challenged the board to disprove "that the board has deposited with large milling companies this wheat, and have discriminated against the small milling companies in favor of the large ones and that by such deposits have reduced the price of wheat rather than raise it."

Stone denied the discrimination and said that the operation had a tendency to bolster the market, removing the wheat from the country.

The farm board chairman also repudiated a statement which Gov. Murray had attributed to him, that the board "had loaned or let with certain millers a few hundred thousand bushels which should be returned on demand."

RAPS METHODS OF MATHEWS CO. IN STOCK SALES

Henry Van Horn, manager of the better business bureau of Cleveland, was the first to testify yesterday in the hearing before the Illinois securities commission on a petition to revoke the security dealer license of Mathews & Co., 105 West Adams street.

Ruppert F. Bippus, chairman of the commission, said that the methods used by the firm in selling May Radio and Television, Trans Lux, and Bahia corporation shares were the basis of some 80 complaints against the concern lodged with the commission. The firm used telephone solicitations extensively and employed other high pressure methods.

One of the stocks in which the firm operated, May Radio, crashed sharply when trading was suspended by the New York curb several weeks ago. Mr. Van Horn testified that his bureau warned against the glowing claims made by the Mathews & Co. solicitors.

Kelly Says High Prices Will Not Return in Years

Boston, Mass., Sept. 14.—(AP)—D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair, Chicago, and also president of the National Retail Dry Goods association, and Dr. Herbert W. Hess, head of the merchandising department of the Wharton school, University of Pennsylvania, spoke today at the opening of the Boston conference on retail distribution.

Mr. Kelly said the high prices of former days would not return for a number of years and, consequently, profits would be increasingly difficult to attain. Dr. Hess spoke on the relation of mail order and chain store systems to manufacturers. He said the systems are now going through a form of development wherein it is possible for them to dominate in those types of goods which the public knows it wants and at prices it is willing to pay. Goods which hold a quality relation to the public can best be sold through the wholesale and yesterday declared a dividend of 50c,

Cuba Postpones Payment of $20,000,000 Bank Loan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Sept. 14.—The Cuban government today announced postponement of the payment of $20,000,000 due the Chase National bank Sept. 1 for 45 days by a note due now Oct. 15. The original loan of $20,000,000 was guaranteed by an issue of $40,000,000 worth of government gold bonds at 5½ per cent interest which was deposited in the vaults of the national treasury here.

Secretary of the Treasury Ruiz Mesa stated today that the postponement is due to the unexpected and unavoidable alarming decrease in taxes levied to cancel the loan, and the government is therefore unable to meet the disbursement.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 14.—Overwhelmed by a wave of fresh liquidation and professional selling, stocks broke to the lowest levels yet reached in the bear market today. Speculative leaders finished the session showing losses of from 1 to 4 points, with the ruination even more pronounced elsewhere.

Virtually all the accepted "averages" registered new bottoms. The rails broke through their old minimums a week or two ago and the utilities and industrials followed them down today. Realization that the June 2 levels had been violated at last spread deep gloom through the financial district and set up a cloud of rumors that important "bad news" of some kind must be hanging over the market.

No Unusual Signs.

No sign of anything unusual was visible, but experts of the district were unable to account otherwise for the failure of the list to respond to the support known to have been thrown to it by banking interests during the last week or to its generally acknowledged "technical position" which would seem to warrant a rebound of important propositions.

Of course there are a number of probable dividend reductions in store and the freight car loadings, earnings reports, and other barometers of the business situation are not all they might be, but the outlook on the face of it is certainly no worse than it has been for some time.

Weakness in Exchanges.

Renewed weakness in the exchanges at Paris and Berlin undoubtedly contributed to the street's pessimism. Weakness in listed bonds was also a factor, second grade issues on that market breaking badly in some instances. Probably the continued absence of the "constructive statement" which the trading element has been expecting from Washington for the last week also had some effect. Whatever the main cause was, however, it was deep seated and not to be brushed aside by the attempts made from time to time to start a rally in this section of the list or that.

Much of the selling was reported to be with an "important" nature, indicating forced liquidation in quarters cus-

4 Die, 21 Suffer Injuries From Automobile Accidents

Chicago's traffic fatalities were increased by four yesterday when two men, one apparently about 75 years old; a young woman of 22, and a boy of 14 died as a result of injuries.

Police last evening were attempting to identify the 75 year old man, who died at the county hospital after suffering a skull fracture from a fall in Douglas boulevard at Sawyer avenue when he attempted to avoid being struck by an automobile.

The driver of the car, John [illegible] avenue, took him to the hospital and was questioned but not held by the police. No clew to the identity of the man, who was clad in a gray suit, could

A guaranteed income for life

Last year automobile accidents in this country killed 32,500 people and injured 960,000 more. This year it is estimated that fatalities and injuries will exceed the appalling total of 1,000,000! All of which emphasizes the vital importance of carrying adequate disability insurance whether you drive a car or not.

Unquestionably the best form of protection you can have is a Continental Motor Age Accident insurance policy. It pays full indemnity for all ordinary accidents and in addition pays double indemnity for the greatest hazard today—automobile accidents—a guaranteed income as long as disabled without limit of time. Ask your agent or broker at once for further details of this inexpensive and essential protection.

Top yesterday, $7.00; average, $6.00.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 17,000; sheep, 15,000.

The expected increase in the movement of range supplies came yesterday and all markets were flooded with stock. Receipts were largest since early in the year, the sheep total being among the largest in recent years.

The Chicago market staggered down under the pressure of 100,000 head of cattle, hogs and sheep, valued at approximately $2,325,000. The average Monday supply at Chicago for the last six weeks stands at 72,000 head. A third of the 24,000 cattle unloaded at Chicago yesterday were from western range states, while range offerings made up 78 per cent of the sheep receipts. The "new" crop of spring pigs comprised about 45 per cent of the hog receipts.

Lowest Since 1908.

Hogs averaged only $5.45 yesterday, equaling the lowest since 1908. Losses of 10@25c were recorded, the top coming down 15c at $6.40, which is exactly $3.00 under the high point late in July. The lowest top price this year stands at $6.20, established on May 28.

Activity was lacking, and with unfavorable reports from the wholesale market for fresh pork adding to the weakness, large local packers were able to buy medium to good grades of spring pigs averaging 150@180 lbs as low as $6.00 toward the close. Five of the biggest markets in the country sold top hogs at $5.65@5.95.

A government report published yesterday intimated that further gains in hog production can be expected. The report reads in part: "Although hog prices are much lower than last year they have declined relatively less than feed prices. The ratio of hog prices to feed prices, therefore, is somewhat higher than a year ago."

Interest in the futures hog market is turning to December contracts lately. Hogs weighing 170@310 lbs can be bought as low at $5.25. One contract for 210@260 lb mediums was sold at $5.10.

Heavy Steers Suffer.

There was a break in the price of September contracts, some being offered at $6.40 at the close. During the first half of September sellers in Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana delivered hogs weighing 1,616,000 lbs. to buyers of September contracts.

Heavy beef steers suffered most on yesterday's uneven 25@75c lower market. Only occasional sales of medium and weighty beeves passed the $9.00 line, while prices at $9.75 and above represented "scratch" sales. One shipment of 942 lb yearlings notched the $10.00 mark, the only sale at the top.

Yesterday was the first time the Monday top had to drop back to $10.00 in a month's time. Movement of dressed beef is slow, partly because of the continued hot weather and the competition of relatively cheap pork and lamb. About 8,000 range cattle arrived yesterday and supplied the stocker and feeder trade with sufficient material to cause a setback in prices.

Breeding Ewes in Demand.

Demand for breeding ewes was a feature of the trade yesterday and prices were highest of the year in spite of the drastic cut made in the market for fat lambs. The latter dropped to new low levels since previous days. However, country buyers were eager to load up with young breeding stock at $5.00@5.75, handy weight yearlings bringing the outside figure. Two and three year old stock sold at $4.00@5.00, and full mouth stock went to $2.00@3.50.

Undesirable old "one year breeders" were all that prices below $3.00 could obtain. Old "worn out" ewes, not only for slaughter, are selling at $2.50 and below, although some fat heavy mutton ewes have to sell as low as $1.00. The top for fat native and western range lambs tumbled to $7.00, a new low, while thousands of head had to go at $6.00@6.50. All markets were swamped with stock. The twenty leading markets handled 315,000 sheep and lambs, a new record for this time in September.

CASH INTERESTS BUY LARD

Provision prices eased early yesterday on declines in stocks, grain and hogs, but rallies later in the session attributed to cash interests. At no time was there any specific offerings and fluctuations were narrow. The close was unchanged on lard and 25c to 50c lower on the latter cash product. Selling pressure was given attention and closed 25c lower on September and unchanged on December. Liverpool was 2d lower to 2d higher. Hogs were lower with liberal receipts. Packers of lard for the week ended Sept. 12 totaled 6,945,000 lbs., against 6,085,000 lbs. last year, and for the month 26,326,000 lbs., against 8,000 lbs. last year. Prices follow:
